Thompson, Gromyko Details Kept Secret

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko conferred for 2½ hours today as the first step in a new attempt to find a mutually satisfactory basis for East-West negotiations on Berlin.

The American diplomat, asked if there would be more of his sessions with Gromyko, said, "I suppose so but I do not know when." He declined to say how the meeting went.

Jennings Attends

Thompson took Kempton Jenkins, embassy secretary specializing in German affairs, to the meeting. Gromyko was accompanied by Ivan I. Ilyichev, a Soviet Foreign Ministry official who was formerly ambassador to East Germany.

Thompson said he would fill in the British and French ambassadors here about the conference. He did not mention the West German ambassador, but it is assumed that he will give him a briefing too.

Looking for Berlin Basis

President Kennedy has instructed Thompson to probe the Soviet position on the Berlin issue to see if there is a profitable basis for formal talks.

Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had agreed to have the U.S. ambassador handle the preliminary round for both Britain and the United States. There is a possibility that British Ambassador Sir Frank Roberts may also take a hand.

Depends on Outcome

If the Thompson-Gromyko talks are successful, the next step is expected to be a foreign ministers' conference to determine the future of Berlin.

Thompson's last round of talks with Gromyko in Moscow took place at the end of October. The subject of those talks was not the general Berlin situation but the problem of identification procedures at the checkpoints along the Berlin border. This problem, involving questions of whether Allied officials should show their papers to East German guards, had brought U.S. and Soviet tanks to the border for a time.

Legislature Opens Jan. 3 At Albany

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State's lawmakers, with an eye on re-election this year, will meet at the Capitol tomorrow to open the 185th session of the Legislature. The emphasis will be on education and politics, as the Republican majority kicks off a campaign to retain control of the state's executive and legislative branches.

Gov. Rockefeller will deliver his fourth, annual message to a joint meeting of the Senate and Assembly at noon.

The Republican governor, who has announced plans to seek re-election, will outline proposals that will become part of the 1962 GOP campaign platform.

Rockefeller has said that his record, including developments this ear, would form the basis of his campaign.

Education on Agenda

State aid to education will be a major issue during the session, which will run until late March.

A legislative committee is drafting proposals for a major change in aid formulas. The committee staff issued last week a preliminary plan for a $96.5-million annary plan for a $96.5-million annual increase in the aid, which now totals $800 million a year.

The governor's program, it has been learned, will include proposals for increasing from $50 to $55 a week the maximum benefits under workmen's compensation, additional benefits under a tax-paid plan of medical help to the needy aged and expansion of the State Commission against Discrimination.

Plan for Narcotics

The Rockefeller plan also will include a recommendation for legislation under which persons accused of crimes involving use of narcotics could volunteer for treatment at state mental hospitals.

They would be treated in special wards at Central Islip, Manhattan or Utica State Hospitals.

The courts in which they were arraigned would retain jurisdiction during the treatment.

Russell Is Named To NATO Command

NAPLES, Italy (AP) —Adm. James S. Russell, former vice chief of U.S. naval operations, took over today as commander in chief of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in southern Europe.

Russell, a specialist in naval aviation, replaced Adm. Charles R. Brown, who has retired after holding the NATO command post for the past three years.

Clair Glocks Are Parents of First Baby at Hospital

First baby of 1962, a boy, was born this morning at 9:24 at Kingston Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Claire Glock of Hurley Ridge, West Hurley. The baby weighed eight pounds and is the couple's fifth child. Dr. Hamilton Boyd was the attending physician. The other Glock children are Thomas, 7, Susan, 5, Barbara, 4, and Karen, 2.

Mr. Glock is a trainmaster for the New York Central Railroad, River Division, and has been in the company's employ for approximately 10 years.

Health Bureau Is Expecting Relief On Big Problems

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The State Health Department looked today for some relief this year from its 1961 major problems that included a noticeable rise in lung cancer among men, a polio outbreak and radioactive fallout.

Significant progress was made last year, however, in the rehabilitation of the handicapped and in combatting air pollution and chronic diseases, Commissioner Herman E. Hilleboe said Monday.

He said that, in the year just ended, lung cancer became the commonest form of disease among men in the 57 counties outside New York City. Between 1943 and 1961, he said, the disease's incidence had increased from 12.09 to 46.46 cases for every 100,000 men.

Research "clearly indicates that lung cancer occurs much more frequently in persons who smoke cigarettes than among nonsmokers," Hilleboe a physician, said.

The polio outbreak struck the Syracuse area and 80 persons suffered paralysis. The Upstate-Long Island area had a total of 186 paralytic cases in 1961, compared with 126 cases in 1960.

During the Syracuse-area outbreak, the new type 1 Sabin oral vaccine was given to approximately 400,000 persons.

The commissioner said increased emphasis was placed on monitoring radioactivity levels in the air, milk, water and marine life because of the resumption of atmospheric nuclear testing by the Soviet Union in September, and subsequent radioactive fallout over the state.

At Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo—the health department's cancer research facility—a research team discovered a possible link between viruses and cancer, he said.

Hilleboe said four drugs under study at the institute had proved valuable in prolonging lives of patients suffering from advanced stages of cancer.

Hilleboe said that, during 1961, the department had opened rehabilitation centers for the handicapped at Albany, Syracuse and Schenectady. Eventually, the department plans establishment of 27 such centers.

Supervisors Will Organize Monday

The final session of the annual meeting of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors was held Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at which time routine business was transacted and the date for the 1962 organization meeting was fixed.

The board will meet at 8 p. m. Monday, January 8 to organize for the year.

At that time a chairman for the 1962-63 session will be named to succeed Chairman Robert F. Phinney. A deputy clerk will be named to succeed Joseph Martorana, who resigned as of December 31, 1961, to take over the office of supervisor of the Town of Plattekill to which he was elected in November.

In submitting his resignation to Robert A. Snyder, clerk of the board, Martorana said it was with deep regret that he was submitting his resignation as deputy clerk to take over the office of supervisor. He thanked Snyder and the board for their cooperation and said it had been a pleasure to serve as deputy clerk. He complimented Clerk Snyder on his "keen knowledge of the duties of the office" and for his "invaluable assistance and fairness" in the conduct of the office.

Included in the routine business was adoption of necessary resolutions to approve the tax rolls and also adoption of a resolution renewing the contract between the county and the city laboratory for county work.

Five Children Die When Fire Destroys House

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Five children, one of them an 18-month-old girl, died Monday in a fire that swept their second-floor apartment on the fringe of downtown Buffalo.

The children, four sisters and their brother, were trapped by flames that partially wrecked a 2½-story frame house. Four of the children were found by firemen under a smouldering quilt.

A sixth child, 8-month-old Jerome, was saved by the mother, Mrs. Henrietta Bass.

The victims were Diana Bass, 8; Betty Jean, 6; Ronald, 5; Linda, 4; and Angela, the 18-month-old.

Mrs. Bass' sister, Mrs. Willa Mae Mickers, about 30, jumped from a second-floor window and broke her leg. Several firemen were treated for smoke inhalation.

A family of five living downstairs fled the flames safely.

Damage was estimated at $7,000. The fire started in a rear wooden shed, firemen said, but its cause was not immediately learned.

Mrs. Bass and the children had been receiving welfare aid. Her husband reportedly is living in California.

335 Traffic Deaths; 83 From Fires Over Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic	335
Fires	83
Miscellaneous	59
Total	477

A sharp spurt of accidents in the final hours of the New Year's holiday pushed the final toll of traffic deaths beyond the National Safety Council's preholiday estimate.

At midnight Monday, when the three-day holiday period ended, the count of traffic fatalities stood at 335. In addition, there were 83 deaths resulting from fires, a record for a New Year period since World War II, and 59 deaths attributed to miscellaneous accidents. The over-all toll from traffic, fires and miscellaneous causes was 477.

The National Safety Council, which had estimated that 330 persons might be killed in traffic accidents during the extended weekend, earlier had hopes that the toll might be a record low for the three-day New Year period.

The record low of 269 highway fatalities was set in the 1949-1950 New Year period. The record traffic toll for a three-day New Year period is 374, set in 1959-60.

In the three-day 1960-61 New Year celebration, there were 338 traffic deaths, 66 perished in fires and 78 were killed in miscellaneous accidents, a total of 482.

Traffic deaths totaled 524 in the recent three-day Christmas weekend, while 83 persons died in fires and 86 others in miscellaneous accidents, an over-all toll of 693.

The previous record of fire deaths for a New Year period since World War II was 74, set during the 1955-56 three-day celebration.

For comparative purposes, The Associated Press made a survey of accidents deaths in a non-holiday weekend, from 6 p.m. Friday, Dec. 8 to midnight Monday, Dec. 11. The count: 347 in traffic, 42 in fires and 57 in the miscellaneous group, a total of 446.

Becomes Mayor of City

John J. Schwenk (right) hand on Bible takes oath of office as mayor of Kingston administered by Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth.

Crowd Attends Inaugural

Council Committees Announced by Kaye

Common Council committees for the 1962-63 period were announced New Year's' Day at the inauguural of Mayor John J. Schwenk in the Council chamber, City Hall, at which appointments were also announced of those to serve in appointive posts during his administration.

The oath of office was administered by Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth of Port Ewen, a long-time friend, who formerly served as chairman of the Ulster County Republican party and prior to that as Supervisor of the Town of Esopus.

Others Sworn In

Justice Elsworth also administered the oath of office to Joseph D. Saccoman who was post of city judge.

The common council chamber was almost filled to capacity for the New Year's morning ceremonies during which aldermen elected in November and appointive city officials also took their oaths

Floral tributes bedecked the rostrum on which were seated those taking part in the program including members of the clergy from Protestant, Catholic and the Jewish faiths.

Mayor Schwenk was escorted to the Council Chamber by Alderman Frank Sass (D-Seventh Ward), Joseph Carroll (R-Eleventh Ward), Clark Myers (R-Second Ward) and Arthur Smith (R-Eighth Ward).

Kaye's Choices Announced

Alderman-at-Large Harold L. Kaye (D) appointed the following committees for 1962-63, naming a Democrat to head each committee as chairman:

Appointed to the Finance, Ways and Means committee were: Alderman Frank Koenig (D-Ninth Ward) chairman, Sass and Myers.

Other committees named by Mayor Schwenk were:

Auditing — Alderman Frank Adams (D-Fifth Ward) chairman, Alderman-at-Large Harold L. Kaye (D), and Alderman Edward Schrowang, (R-First Ward).

Building and Supply—Alderman Sass, chairman, Alderman Joseph Tomaszewski (D-Sixth Ward), Adams, Robert Slover (R-Fourth Ward), and Carroll.

Election - Alderman Tomaszewski, chairman, Alderman William Davis, (D-Thirteenth Ward) and John Machione (R-Twelfth Ward).

Railroad and bus - Alderman Arthur Smith (D-Eighth Ward) chairman, and Alderman Donald Quick (D-Tenth Ward).

Traffic control - Alderman Donald Hastings (D-Third Ward), chairman and Aldermen Koening and Myers.

Urban renewal - (temporary) Alderman Sass, chairman, and Tomaszewski, Adams, Quick,

Kennedy May Ask Congress to Give Him Tax Control

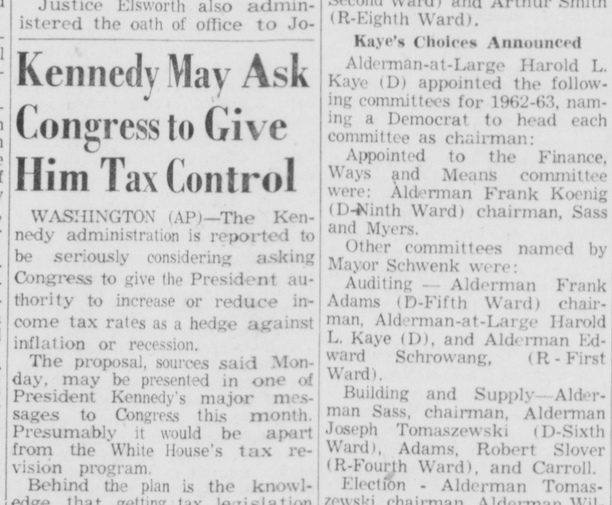
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration is reported to be seriously considering asking Congress to give the President authority to increase or reduce income tax rates as a hedge against inflation or recession.

The proposal, sources said Monday, may be presented in one of President Kennedy's major messages to Congress this month. Presumably it would be apart from the White House's tax revision program.

Behind the plan is the knowledge that getting tax legislation through Congress is often a drawn-out business. The informants said that by the time a tax bill has been written, put through hearings, amended, passed and signed, a recession could skid into a depression.

Although details were withheld, the plan was said to provide for presidential authority to cut the basic 20 per cent tax rate to possibly 15 per cent for a limited period only—perhaps, for six months—with the cut subject to congressional veto.

Assumes City Judge Post



Joseph D. Saccoman (right) becomes city judge as he swears in before Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth New Year's morning at city hall.

Stresses Cooperation Is Needed Of Council So City Can Advance

Outlining a program for the progress of Kingston economically, industrially and with a special emphasis on a downward tax tend, Republican Mayor John J. Schwenk called for the cooperation of a Democratically controlled Common Council to help him achieve his goals.

The council is composed of eight Democrats and five Republicans, and the alderman at large, the presiding officer, Harold Kaye is a Democrat. He appoints council committees.

Delivering his first annual message as mayor, Schwenk said:

Would Change Inaugural

One of the goals which I hope will be achieved during this administration, will be the modernization of our antiquated city charter. And, I'm sure that you all will agree, especially on this morning, that one of the revisions ought to be the postponement of New Year's Day morning inauguration ceremonies.

Nevertheless, I have some serious topics to discuss at this time, which perhaps ought to be faced on the first day of the new year.

As we look to the future here in Kingston, these facts are evident:

Our 1962 budget calls for a tax rate increase of $3.28 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation, and has been rising steadily for a number of years.

Our uptown business district, which bears the lion's share of our tax burden, is threatened by a ring of modern shopping centers outside of our city limits, which make no contribution to the tax burden of our citizens.

Our downtown area is depressed and decayed, and many of our people live in conditions that are not worthy of citizens of this city.

Our city charter is archaic and unable to provide the framework of modern and progressive governmental operations.

Our parks have become rundown and not fully utilized.

Frankly, we have not presented the growth picture of a well-run, prosperous city that is necessary to attract new industry, new job opportunities, increased earning power, and a future of secure expansion.

Unpleasant Facts

These are the unpleasant facts of life about Kingston, and while I urge you all to face them, I do not tell you to accept them. They need not be.

Rather, I can see a ceiling on our climbing tax rate this year, and the start of a tax downtrend in 1963.

I see an uptown business district that is more convenient, more attractive, and more versatile than any shopping center outside our city limits.

Hopeful of Future

I see an expanding central shopping area, and a revitalized downtown shopping district that will restore the tax producing ability of business properties throughout our city, and lighten the residential property owner's share of the cost of municipal government.

I see parks and receational programs that young and old alike can and will want to enjoy.

I see industry taking a look at Kingston and saying, "This is a good place for us to sink our roots. This is a good place for people to live and work."

I see more families growing and staying together because Kingston can provide new job opportunities, more earning capacity, more buying power, and better living conditions.

Are these dreams? They certainly are. But they can become realities if we want them badly enough, and are willing to work and fight for them.

Faces Other Realities

And there are certain other realities that I must face as mayor of this city. As I assume responsibility for the administration of Kingston, I realize all too well that I must achieve a relationship of cooperation with a Common Council in which the majority is not of my own party, and whose president was not my running mate in the recent election.

I realize that I must convince these honorable and conscientious gentlemen of the opposition party that the partisanship of political affiliation must not take priority over the pressing need for action and accomplishment that will achieve these goals for our people.

I urge you gentlemen who sit as the majority in our city's legislative chamber to consider carefully the goals I have just set forth for Kingston. And I ask you whether they are Republican or Democratic goals?

I suggest, gentlemen, that they are goals that all of our people, whether Democrat or Republican, want for our community. And I believe that if you will help me achieve these things, then the people will support you.

Cooperation Is Must

If the serious problems that confront our city are to be solved, and if the potentials for growth, prosperity, and security are to be realized, you and I are

Bitter Cold, Snow Hit U.S. Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bitter cold weather moved into the northeast sector of the nation today after a storm dumped up to a foot of snow in parts of Virginia and Tennessee before it whirled into New England.

A 12-hour snow storm spread a 6-inch carpet on the resort city of Atlantic City, N.J., coating the boardwalk and area highways with ice. Only one-half inch of snow was reported 40 miles inland.

Speads to New York

Colder weather spread into upstate New York and northern New England. Watertown, N.Y., recorded —14; Massena —8; Oneonta —7 and Albany 1 above. In northern New England readings hovered around zero.

The storm that moved over southern New England ended in the western sections about dawn. Early in the morning, Nantucket, Mass., measured 8 inches of snow, Boston had 2 inches and Providence, R.I., had 4.

Fairbanks Warms Up

Fairbanks, Alaska, warmed up to 2 degrees above zero today from —25 a day earlier. Thermal, Calif., recorded 78 degrees Monday.

Many schools in Virginia, Tennessee and Maryland were ordered closed because of the snow. Traffic was slowed and driving conditions were hazardous in many parts of the snow and rain belt.

-13 at Watertown

Colder weather spread into the Northeast, with temperatures below zero in some northern sections of New York State, including -13 in Watertown. Freezing weather was reported in parts of Alabama and Georgia.

The snow ended in the Southeast but continued in parts of the middle Atlantic Coast states and into the south Atlantic Coast states. Rain and drizzle sprinkled the south Atlantic seaboard.

There was a foot of snow in southwest Virginia and in mountain areas of Tennessee. Six to 8 inches of snow covered the ground in southern Virginia, with 4 in Richmond and 3 to 5 inches in areas east of Richmond. Schools in 24 counties and 3 cities were closed.

In addition to the 12 inches of snow in mountain areas in Tennessee, 1 to 4 inches was on the ground in the extreme eastern sections. Schools were ordered closed in Johnson City and four counties.

Some schools were closed in the eastern half of Maryland, hit by a 5-inch snowfall. Nearly four inches of snow fell in parts of lower Delaware, including Dover, the state capital, Georgetown and Bridgeville.

Snowfalls in Georgia ranged from nine inches in mountain areas to 4 to 7 inches in northern areas.

More than six inches of snow hit Atlantic City, N.J., during the night but smaller amounts were reported north and south of the Atlantic Ocean resort. Snowfalls measured 4 to 8 inches in western sections of the Carolinas. Rain fell along coastal areas, with some sleet and gusty northerly winds as the storm moved northeastward.

Fog snarled air transportation in Washington over the New Year holiday period and again blanketed coastal areas of Northern California.

Gen. LeMay to Visit Spain at Later Date

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, has postponed an official visit to Spain because of a cold which has kept him in a hospital for several days.

The Air Force said today he expects to make an inspection visit to U.S. bases and meet with Spanish officials at a later date.

Bus Lines Strike Reported Causing Little Confusion

NEW YORK (AP) — A strike against the two largest bus lines in the city forced 1.3 million regular riders to seek other means of transportation today. Police reported little confusion.

Subway traffic was heavier than usual. Automobile traffic from Queens and Brooklyn to Manhattan also was heavier, as bus riders switched to their own cars or car pools. Lines of cars outside midtown parking places were longer than usual.

An early morning snowfall in Queens and Brooklyn hampered automobile traffic somewhat.

Drivers for the Yonkers Bus Corp. reported they carried more passengers than usual from the suburban Westchester County area to city subway lines.

No negotiations were scheduled for today in the dispute that halted service on the struck private bus lines at the start of the New Year.

Passengers affected by the strike found alternate transportation for the most part on subways and city-owned bus lines and five private bus lines that were not struck. Taxicabs also did a heavy business.

Public schools were ordered opened an hour later—10 a.m.—to take the pupils out of the early morning crush. Catholic schools reopen Wednesday except in Queens and Brooklyn where they were to open today.

The strike by 6,400 members of the Transport Workers Union was born with the new year after last-minute conferences failed to resolve the cause of contention—city concessions to ease the lines' financial plight.

It closed down Fifth Avenue Coach Lines, and its subsidiary, Surface Transit, Inc. Another subsidiary, Westchester Street Transportation, Inc., also was hit.

The city offered concessions on transfers and other issues that would bring the lines about $4.5 million a year for the next two years, but management held off for more.

County Records First '62 Traffic Death; 27 in State

Ulster County recorded its first traffic fatality for 1962, and Dutchess had two highway deaths in what the Associated Press reported as a record toll of lives in New York State over the New Year's weekend.

Charles J. Kenny, 42, of RD 2, Pine Bush, a flight engineer for TWA airlines, was fatally injured about 1:25 a. m. Monday when his car left the road and struck a tree on Dwaarkill Road in the Town of Shawangunk. The accident happened on New Prospect Road about a mile off Route 52.

It was reported Kenney, who had been visiting several residents of the area, was traveling alone in a northerly direction when he lost control of his car. He was thrown out and sustained a compound fracture of the skull, severe concussion and other head injuries. Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson and Troopers William Cameron and Francis Steiner of Ellenville investigated. Dr. S. Acosta of Horton Memorial Hospital, Middletown, pronounced Kenny dead. The Rev. Bernard A. Quinn of he Infant Savior Church, Pine Bush administered last rites.

Born August 19, 1919 in New York City, he was a son of Charles and Catherine Sweeney Kenny of Walden. He had been employed by TWA as a flight engineer for nine years and was a veteran of World War II.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his wife, Georgie Hill Kenny; four children, Patricia, Elizabeth, Charles and Todd Kenny, all at home; a brother, James Kenny of Walden.

Funeral services will be held Thursday from DeWitt Funeral Home, Pine Bush; thence to the Infant Savior Church, Pine Bush where a high Mass of requiem

Three Arrested For Ellenville Area Burglaries

Arrest of three Town of Wawarsing men by Ellenville State Police is believed to have solved a series of burglaries in that area which have been reported over the past month.

Investigator Charles Teelon and Trooper Michael Mahoney arrested Edward McFarland, 24, Continental Road, Napanoch; Willard J. Whipple, 18, of Old Greenfield Road, Ellenville, and Edward Skiff, 22, of Continental Road, Napanoch, on a charge of third degree burglary. The trio was held by Justice of the Peace Herbert Poppel of Kerhonkson for grand jury action and remanded to jail.

Over the past month a number of places have been burglarized in the Town of Wawarsing area. State Police believe they have solved many of them with the arrest of the three men.

Among the places entered are the Ellenville bowling alleys, Smith's Garage at Napanoch, a hot dog stand near the Marine Room, Max Avery's premises at Napanoch and the G.L.F. store.

Rev. H. Diekmann Former Pastor in Area, Dies at 69

The Rev. Herman J. Diekmann, 69, of Claryville, former pastor of two area Methodist Churches, died at his home Monday.

He was born in New York City January 26, 1892, a son of the late Bernard and Emalie Diekmann. The Rev. Mr. Diekmann was married in Irvington, N. J., on November 12, 1918 to Wanda H. Davenport. He was a member of the Grange at Sharon, Conn.

The Rev. Mr. Diekmann served as a pastor in the New York Methodist Conference for 33 years and retired from Philmont Methodist Church in the Poughkeepsie District in 1957. He served as pastor of Grahamsville Church from 1942 to 1943.

Surviving are his wife; a son, Paul Diekmann of Hazardville, Conn.; a daughter, Mrs. Nell Griffiths of Sunbury, Pa.; also, three grandsons, one granddaughter and nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at Grahamsville Methodist Church Thursday at 10 a. m. The Rev. Howard P. West, pastor of Maybrook Methodist Church will officiate, assisted by the Rev. John H. McCombe, pastor of Grahamsville Methodist Church. Friends may call at Loucks Funeral Home Inc., State Road, Grahamsville, at any time.

Hunt Rebel's Associates In Beja Area of Portugal

BEJA, Portugal (AP)—The hunt was on today for political associates of a rebel leader who tried unsuccessfully to seize a military barracks and touch off a revolution against Premier Antonio Salazar's government.

Capt. Joao Maria Paulo Varela Gomes, 37, an army officer turned politician, lay near death in the Beja hospital. Manuel Serra, a former Roman Catholic youth leader who authorities said shared leadership of the uprising with Gomes, was captured while heading for the Spanish border with four heavily armed companions.

Between 40 and 50 persons, most of them workers, apparently were in the band that engaged Salazar's troops in a three-hour gun battle Monday at the barracks of the 3rd Infantry regiment. Officials at first announced all had been killed or captured.

But so far the government has announced only one rebel killed, two wounded and 20 others captured. It appeared some might still be at large, although the rebel casualties were believed to have been much higher than the government said.

Most notable casualty on the government side was Lt. Col Jaime Filipe da Fonseca, undersecretary for war who rushed to the southern city of Beja from Lisbon. He ordered the government forces to hold their fire and then walked into the barracks to demand that the rebels surrender. They shot him down. He died later in the hospital.

The government tightened security precautions by placing all police and military units in a "state of prevention." There was no general alert, but a huge Lisbon rally scheduled for Wednesday night was canceled, officially in mourning for Da Fonseca.

Salazar was to have addressed the rally to outline Portuguese policy for 1962 following a year of painful and embarrassing setbacks ranging from the seizure of the liner Santa Maria on the high seas to the Indian seizure of Goa.

The ill-fated uprising began in the sleepy New Year's morning.

Witnesses said the rebels burst past the guardpost at the barracks, smashed into the officers' quarters and overcame the drowsy men. Two junior officers managed to escape to another strong point in the barracks and sounded the alarm.

The rebels were pinned down in the officers' quarters by machine-gun fire but could not be dislodged. Then Da Fonseca arrived and tried to arrange a surrender, at the cost of his own life.

The shooting of the undersecretary for war aroused the loyal troops and panicked the rebels. A number attempted to escape by seizing army vehicles and driving from the barracks. All were captured, and resistance crumbled.

Council Committees Named by Kaye

Slover, Carroll and Machione.

Laws and rules - Alderman Quick, chairman, and Kaye, Adams, Slover and Carroll.

Official Papers Named

A resolution offered by Alderman Koenig and seconded by Alderman Schrowang designating the Kingston Daily Freeman and The Kingstonian as the city's official newspapers was approved.

The first meeting of 1962 opened with roll call, followed by invocation pronounced by the Rev. John H. Frenssen, pastor of the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church.

A resolution offered by Alderman Sass, seconded by Alderman Carroll that the tentative order of business as prepared by the city clerk be adopted was approved. A resolution offered by Alderman Hastings, seconded by Alderman Myers that the rules which governed the Council, as amended, for the years 1960 and 1961, be adopted for 1962-1963, was approved.

After the oath of office was administered to Mayor Schwenk, the oath of office was administered to council members.

Also taking the oath of office were: City Clerk Walter Scott Foster Jr., Deputy City Clerk Mrs. Eleanor Bruhn, Alderman-at-Large Kaye, City Treasurer Mathias Richardson, City Assessor Larry MacAvery, Corporation Counsel Harry Gold, and William C. Klein, clerk to the mayor.

The Council meeting adjourned following benediction by Rabbi Jacob Rubenstein.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. James V. Keating, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's Church.

The invocation was by the Rev. John H. Frenssen, pastor of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church.

A resolution offered by Alderman Quick, seconded by Alderman Machione that the mayor's message be received, filed and printed in pamphlet form was approved.

Mayor's Appointments

Mayor Schwenk announced the following appointments:

Edward Dasher of 86 Abruyn Avenue, fire commissioner for three years; Dr. Edward F. Shea, member of the Board of Managers at the city laboratory, five years; Martin E. Oberkirch, 308 Washington Avenue, member of the plumbing board, three years; Arthur F. Hallinan and Harry Gold, members of the planning board.

Alderman-at-large Kaye announced the appointment of Joseph Esposito for another term as Common Council page.

Flowers were presented to Mayor Schwenk and Alderman-at-large Kaye by the employes at City Hall. The Women's Democratic Club presented flowers to the alderman-at-large and members of the Common Council from their party. The Women's Republican Club, prior to the session, gave Mayor Schwenk a boutonniere and Mrs. Schwenk an orchid.

Four Drivers Escape Injury

Four automobile drivers escaped injury over the weekend in accidents which resulted in property damage. At Chichester on Sunday about 3:30 p. m., the car owned by Scott Sickler and operated by Thomas Sickler, 19, of Chichester, skidded on icy or wet pavement as it was traveling west on Route 214. The car struck and damaged a fence on the Dave Schulman property. County Identification Officer Earl Conro investigated.

Walter E. Howell Jr., 20, of Rt. 1, Box 319-A, Flatbush, operating a car northerly on Route 9W in Port Ewen, lost control of his car and struck a guard rail damaging the left side of the car. Constable Frank Bartroff and Deputy Ernest Longyear investigated.

Saturday James Welsh, 23, of 81 Wrentham Street, Kingston, and Keith D. Knudsen, 18, of Rt. 1, Stone Ridge, escaped injury in a two-car accident on Lapala Road, Lomontville. Welsh, driving a laundry truck had made a turn into a driveway at the John Monseese place when the truck became stuck on the ice. He was unable to move. Keith D. Knudsen, coming down grade operating the car owned by Eleanor R. Knudsen, was unable to stop because of ice on the pavement. His car struck the side of the laundry truck. With Knudsen was Robert Murphy, 16, Cottekill, and Terry Felsen, 15, of Lomontville. Deputy Sheriff Ernest Longyear investigated.

Deadline for Tax Filing Extended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxpayers will get an extra 24 hours this year in which to prepare their federal income tax returns.

Mortimer M. Caplin, commissioner of internal revenue, said today that because of the normal filing deadline of April 15 is a Sunday this year, the deadline will be extended until midnight Monday, April 16.

By law, returns must be received at IRS offices before the deadline. In practice, the bureau recognizes as timely any return postmarked by midnight of the final day.

Studebaker-Packard Plant Struck Today

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union called its members out on strike at Studebaker-Packard Corp. early today after extended weekend sessions set up by mediators had failed to bring company and union together.

The executive committee of Local 5 had set the strike deadline after the company terminated the contract, which had been extended from its Dec. 1 expiration date. The committee had had strike authorization from the membership since November.

Only a few volunteer pickets without signs were on hand at midnight, when second shift workers left the plants. Studebaker-Packard has not been operating a production force on the third shift. Regular picketing started at 6 a.m.

The strike involves 6,500 production workers.

Issues in dispute included washup time, shift premium, vacation computation, representation and management rights, a union spokesman said.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It was a rough weekend for television fans who can take football or—preferably—leave it alone.

The home screens were awash over the long weekend with gridiron warriors. Football may well be the No. 1 American spectator sport, but eight or nine televised bowl games, often occupying all three network channels, sometimes seems a bit excessive.

For spectacle lovers, there was also the Pasadena Tournament of Roses procession Monday. A few floats could go a long way in black and white, but for the lucky handful of viewers with color sets it was a handsome show. Betty White, handing part of NBC's commentary, was bright and amusing. But the CBS staff and Roy Neal of NBC handled their assignments with the solemnity and urgency normally reserved for getting a missile into orbit.

Football "Auld Lang Syne" and parades behind, we can settle down now to worry with Chet Huntey about the international situation again.

ABC may have a controversial variety show in the offing. It's a comedy special set for Feb. 4 in which Stan Freberg will serve as star, creator, writer and executive producer. Comedian Freberg, who has appeared only infrequently on television, plans to use parts of his satirical revue of American history. The revue has had some exposure in the form of a record album—but was banned by many radio stations because of its irreverent treatment of patriotic themes.

Looks as though "The Untouchables" will be around for still another season. ABC recently said that the show would be continued if star Robert Stack—who was making discontented noises about quitting his Eliot Ness role—would sign again and apparently he has agreed.

Recommended tonight: "Password," premiere, CBS, 8-8:30—night-time version of a popular day-time game show; "The Cake Baker," ABC, 10-11—Sheey Winters stars.

Bronx Man Held For Murder of Albany Resident

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A 23-year-old man was held today on a charge of first-degree murder in the stabbing of a restaurant owner who had ordered him from his place.

Leonard Porter of The Bronx was captured Monday shortly after police said, he stabbed William Berry, 38, in the throat. Berry died in a hospital.

Police said Berry had recognized Porter as a customer with whom he had trouble previously.

Instead of leaving as ordered by Berry, police said, Porter pulled a long-bladed carving knife from his pocket and stabbed him. Porter then fled, but was caught a few blocks away.

Porter is a Negro, as was Berry.

CONFIDENCE FOR 1962

When Janus stands with one face looking to the past and the other peering into the future, the time has arrived for illuminating utterance. What is wanted is a quick summary of the year, past, and perceptive speculation about what lies ahead.

There is difficulty in satisfying either of these requirements. The year 1961 was as momentous for what did not happen as for what did happen, and summary does its events small justice. As for assaying the future, who could do so with any confidence in a world where the rules are likely to be broken at any time by almost anyone? Imponderables make prediction, uncertain at best, almost pointless.

The year past was memorable especially because a new President and a new administration grasped the reins of power. Mistakes have been made—but progress has been made, too, and the people seem in a mood to give a young President a green light for additional moves in the same direction.

There was no lack of troubles. Khrushchev rattled his missiles, threatened the world with super-bombs. A wall split Berlin. We lost ground in Southeast Asia, and suffered a debacle in Cuba. There was disunity among the Western powers. Still, the Berlin "ultimatum" has passed; the tension there has eased. Serious economic and political troubles plague the Communist world. Red China was kept out of the United Nations with a surprisingly strong vote bolstering the U.S. position. The Alliance for Progress got under way promisingly in Latin America.

Difficulties lie ahead—but difficulties no worse than those we faced at the start of 1961. Our economy is stronger. We can move confidently into 1962.

EDUCATION BY SHOCK

The other day there was a news story about a Midwestern probation officer whose office walls are adorned with photographs of fatal auto accidents. They are there to remind traffic offenders—those, at any rate, whose violations were serious enough to get them sentenced to the workhouse—of what can happen with such awesome swiftness when a driver breaks the law.

This probation officer's special preoccupation is the drunken driver. His long daily experience with the consequences of bad driving has persuaded him that alcohol is the deadly ingredient in a majority of grave accidents. The conclusion is not unique, obviously; it is shared by many others who deal with offenders.

The trouble is that dealing effectively with the drunken driver is quite a different matter from assigning him his share of the blame for accidents. This gets us back to the probation officer's attempt to shock offenders into realizing what terrible consequences poor driving may have. Some such process of education may be the best way to reduce the toll caused by drunkenness at the wheel.

END OF THE TREE

The post-December 25 life of a Christmas tree varies from a day to a couple of weeks, depending on mother and the children. In this area, father's influence is nil; the matter is out of his province.

If mother is the type who can endure clutter only so long and whose youngsters bow to her will, the tree will be gone and the furniture back in place not later than December 27. But if the children are reluctant to let Christmas go, the tree will stay up until the New Year and probably until Twelfth Night, January 6. Trees have even been known to survive the entire first month of the year.

Methods of disposal differ, too. After the decorations have been removed, some families deposit the tree in the alley for the trash man to haul away. Those of a more sentimental turn snip off the branches and burn them in the fireplace.

Still others set the tree up in the back yard and place suet and fragments of bread in its branches for the birds. We think this latter custom should grow. It softens the transition from glitter to obscurity and permits the spirit of Christmas to linger longer.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

LIFE CAN BE SIMPLE

Carlyle Hall of Springfield, Illinois, has a solution to the political, social and economic problems of mankind. All the world's statesmen have not hit on his formula but to him it comes easily. This is what he says:

"Tell me why all civilized nations now members of the United Nations, could not get together, and agree on one universal language, and require this to be taught in all their schools, in addition to their native language, to enable the rising generation within a few years in all nations to intelligently converse with one another.

"If through the United Nations this could be brought about, along with other things they do, I believe it would be the most outstanding thing that the world has ever seen.

"This to me seems so simple and so important, can you tell me why it is not attempted, and worked out?"

Years ago, a colonel about to retire from the American Army in the Philippines came up to Shanghai to propose a solution to all the problems that faced the Chinese. He said that the Chinese had nearly 100 dialects which kept the Chinese in confusion because they could not talk to each other. Why, he asked, did they not drop Chinese and make English their language? I asked why not drop English and adopt Chinese as our language? Also, why English and not French or Russian?

That only annoyed him. He had undoubtedly spent years thinking out this problem. It never occurred to him that if all the Chinese became dumb and could not speak to each other at all, maybe they would have no problems.

This generation has forgotten Dr. Zamenhof who came from Warsaw and gave the world Esperanto. He invented a new language. If the 2,000,000,000 human beings on Earth spoke to each other in Esperanto, they would understand each other better.

But it has turned out that the better we understand each other, the less we like each other. It used to be that nobody understood the hundred or so dialects of India, most of them being local corruptions of Sanskrit. But now that the Indians have come to the United Nations and can hear all kinds of languages they not only want to quarrel with each other but with all the world.

Or look at China which has more languages than any nation on Earth, and for thousands of years the various races of China got along well enough together, having little wars but none of them amounting to too much, up to the Taiping Rebellion which decimated an enormous part of the people of China. But now the Chinese have attempted to have one language, Kwan Hua, or as the ignorant foreigners call it, Mandarin, and they have not only tried to exterminate each other but are fighting everybody in Asia.

It is curious that the better we understand each other, the more we dislike each other. George Bernard Shaw was so prejudiced against women that he regarded them as equal to men. Shaw was cruel, for what man would have his hair dyed each season for no better reason than that a new shade had become fashionable; or what man would paint his finger nails various colors except a savage warrior or an American Indian to indicate a tribal mark? Surely no man since the time of Louis XIV would wear the kinds of heels that are now fashionable among women which involve the risk of the heel breaking off and hurling the woman forward or making her walk ungracefully as though on stilts.

Far be it from me to be anti-female. In fact, I am so much pro that my wife often tells me to be my age which strikes me as utterly ridiculous. Why would anyone want to be his age if he can possibly be younger and gayer? But that is not the point. What we are talking about it that some folks find a simple solution to all problems which brings them great happiness except that the solutions do not work out.

Imagine if all the world spoke German what a guttural would prevail. And even German is divided into dozens of dialects depending upon lisps and low or high pronunciations. I once knew something about quite a few languages but I had a hard time convincing a young lady that I really understood her in each.

Puzzle of Food Allergies; What to Do About Them

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"I wish there were three simple rules to follow, or five foods to avoid, or seven things to do to solve the problem of food allergies in children. But there aren't. There are only puzzles."

Thus writes Prof. Susan Dees of the Department of Pediatrics of Duke University in the most frank and helpful article I've read on the subject in a long time.

Most children with allergies are the offspring of one or more allergic parents. But some are not.

In many instances, childhood sensitivity to a specific food disappears for no aparent reason. Perhaps these instances of spontaneous disappearance furnish the basic for many claims for "cure" made by the ignorant and those who exploit commercial remedies.

Contrary to these "disappearing allergies" are those that develop in oldsters who previously ate the particular food with relish and without trouble up to a certain age.

Skin tests may be negative in children with a definite food sensitivity. And positive in a child who can eat the particular food without difficulty.

Certain test extracts made from foods are so irritating that they give positive tests in practically everyone tested. These nonspecific reactors include spinach, white potato, tomato, banana, citrus fruits and many spices.

The clinical reaction to the food allergen may not always be the same each time it is eaten. Perhaps the food is altered in the preparation. Or the sensitivity of the allergic child may be altered, perhaps by its emotional state at the time of the meal.

Antihistamines are less effective in the relief of the symptoms of food allergy than they are, for example, in the relief of hay fever.

Desensitization by injections of very dilute extracts of the offending food is not practical. But desensitization by feeding minute amounts in increasing quantities is often effective.

For detection of a food allergy, Prof. Dees recommends the method with which constant readers of these columns are familiar (Sherlock Holmes method of inductive reasoning). Once again, here's how to do it without the aid of mirrors or special equipment:

Eliminate the suspicious food from the diet for a period of at least a week.

If the allergic symptoms disappear, re-introduce the food in small quantity twice or thrice weekly.

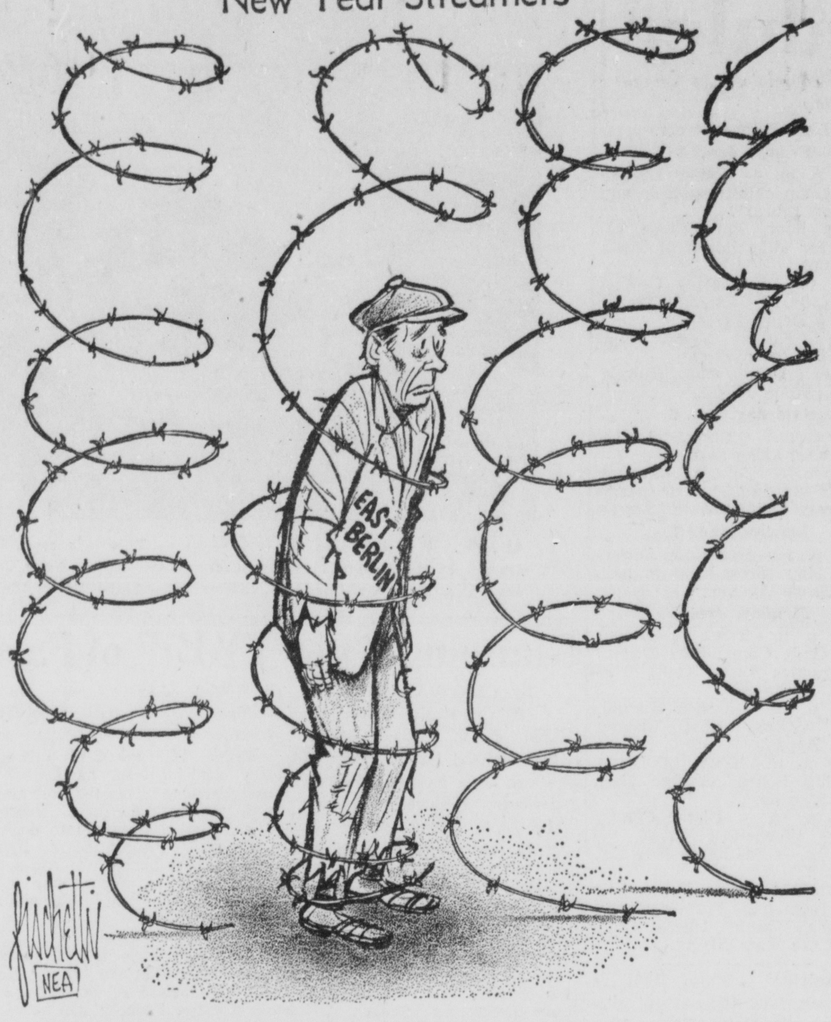
If the allergic symptoms reappear on re-introduction of the food, repeat the tests at the end of several weeks to be sure of your findings.

If the offending food is a nonessential (egg, fruit, vegetable, chocolate), omit it. Remember, then, to check labels on food mixtures to be sure that the allergen is not one of the hidden ingredients.

If the offending food is an essential, such as cow's milk or a grain, substitute a nutritional equivalent (soy bean milk or strained meat for cow's milk; rice or barley for wheat, etc.).

And finally, I suggest that if you are the mother of a child with an allergy to cow's milk, breast feed the brothers and sisters that arrive later.

New Year Streamers



Washington News

By WASHINGTON STAFF
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy the other day invited several Justice Department lawyers into his office for a chat. It was part of his mutual "get-acquainted" effort. He told the latest group:

"Ten years ago I was a lawyer in this department myself . . . It just goes to show you that anyone here who applies himself, works hard, puts in those extra hours, and has a brother who is President of the United States, can get to be attorney general."

FBI AGENTS on the trail of a fugitive who escaped from a New York prison finally tracked their quarry down in the toy department of a Los Angeles store.

Not wishing to create havoc in the jammed room, the agents quietly faded into the background, sweated it out for more than two hours while their man circulated around, patting children on the shoulders and handing out lollipops.

Fnally the store closed and as the last child, noisily sucking on his present, was bundled off by his mother, the agents quickly moved in and cornered the fugitive—who was clad in a Santa Claus suit and beard he had been wearing as a disguise for four days.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY of Defense for Public Information Arthur Sylvester used to be a crack newspaperman himself, when he was city editor and later Washington correspondent for the Newark News.

But they're telling one on him now he'd like to forget. When a new reporter was assigned to him as an assistant in the paper's Washington bureau, the young man asked his boss how he should look on government bureaucrats.

Art's answer: "Down!"

COMMENTING ON the number of uninformed and misinformed people who are now expressing weighty opinion on world events, Gerry Van Arkel of the National Committee for an Effective Congress tells about the young man who applied for a job selling shoes.

"Know anything about shoes?" asked the store owner.

"Well, I ought to," replied the job seeker. "I've been wearing them since I was two years old."

AIR FORCE SECRETARY Eugene M. Zuckert doesn't care much for titles. At a recent party he was addressed by another guest as "Mr. Secretary."

"Where do you get that 'Mr. Secretary' stuff?" exclaimed Zuckert. "That must have come in with the Eisenhower administration. Let's not have any more of that."

Calmly replied the other guest, who was meeting Zuckert for the first time: "Okay, Gene."

A REASONABLY high aide to Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, conversing with newsmen at a holiday party, admitted:

"I sure am glad you fellows are on the job. It's the only way I know what's going on in the department.

"But the big trouble with you is that if just one of you says, right or wrong, that something isn't just as it should be, we're on the spot and have to defend ourselves for months. Sure keeps us working overtime."

WHEN REP. EDWIN B. Dooley, R-N.Y., was mayor of Marmaroneck, an elderly lady—a member of numerous civic committees—called him to complain about the atrocious language used by a pair of construction workers near her home.

Dooley promptly wrote a note to the workers asking for a verbatim description of the offending conversation. He got this reply:

"Jim and I were building an addition to a house. He was throwing hot rivets up to me and I was catching them in a pail. I missed with the pail, caught one in my bare hand, and immediately let go of it.

"As I did, I said 'Look out below, Jim' but he didn't hear me and the rivet went down his shirt into his pants. He then looked up to me and said, 'For heaven's sake, Joe, please try to be more careful.'"

So They Say..

We named her Jacqueline after the first lady. But for us this will be our last lady.

—Robert Ingram, 43, Rossville, Ill., farmer, after his wife bore their ninth daughter.

Congress Likely to Debate Top Court and Communism

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Controversy over the alleged leniency of the Supreme Court toward the Communist menace inside America is bound to grow as Congress soon resumes its sessions.

The high court has said, in effect, that Americans can join the Communist party and that Congress cannot legislate against them except in cases in which it can be proved that they are knowingly intent on the overthrow of the government of the United States by force. This is considered an almost insuperable barrier because it involves endless technicalities over what constitutes legal proof of "intent."

The Department of Justice is trying now to prosecute the leaders of the Communist party in America on the ground that, under existing law, they can be required to register as agents of a foreign government, which they refuse to do. A few such persons, therefore, could ultimately go to jail, but in reality many thousands of others will be free to continue to carry on their support of the Communist party in America. The remedy would seem to be a constitutional amendment broadening the power of Congress to deal with this and other problems of the "cold war."

Right to Speak

Vice President Lyndon Johnson made a speech recently which was widely construed as, in part, a criticism of the John Birch Society, some of whose members have called for the "impeachment" of certain members of the Supreme Court of the United States. The address, which was carefully prepared in advance, deserves more attention than was given to it.

The Vice President was speaking at a luncheon honoring a new Federal judge at Houston, Tex., and he said that in America people have "a right to say what they wish—however popular or unpopular." He then added:

"Therefore, our courts are subject to attack. Those who disagree—even for partisan reasons—with a court decision have the right to say so. They may even go so far as to question the motives and the good faith of the judges who rendered the decision.

Open to Debate

"The right to raise such questions should never be challenged. This is—and must remain—a free society. But the wisdom of this course of action is open—and should be—to sharp debate.

"It is one thing to declare a court decision wrong and to seek its reversaal. The men who wrote the Constitution recognized that even the best-intentioned of human beings were fallible and they provided simple means for appeal. It is another thing to declare a judicial system wrong and to demand that all judges who render unpopular verdicts be impeached. This train of thought merely paves the way for the Communist dictatorship we seek to avoid."

But it all depends on what is meant by "impeachment." The legal meaning, as set forth in the Constitution itself, is that this remedy can be invoked only in the case of "treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors."

'During Good Behavior'

Impeachment, however, in a broad sense, could also mean steps leading to removal from office. Thus Congress can pass laws providing for the removal of any judge who violates the requirement of "good behavior." For the Constitution doesn't say that judges shall hold office for life, but only "during good behavior." Obviously, the Supreme Court itself can hardly sit in judgment on the behavior of its own members, so it can be argued that Congress has the power to provide for trial of such cases by the Senate, and the penalty could be removal from office.

Thomas Jefferson, who helped to write the Constitution, felt, after seeing the new government in operation for thirty years, that the "life tenure" idea was erroneous. He wrote in 1820:

"The judiciary of the United States is the subtle corps of sappers and miners constantly working underground to undermine the foundations of our confederated fabric. . . .

"To consider the judges as the ultimate arbiters of all Constitutional questions is a very dangerous doctrine, indeed, and one which would place us under the despotism of an oligarchy."

Favored 6-Year Terms

Mr. Jefferson recommended that all Supreme Court justices be appointed for six-year terms, with re-appointability by the President, and subject to confirmation by both houses of Congress, instead of just by the Senate.

The chief criticism throughout the years has been that the court has tried to become a policy-maker and has departed from judicial limits. In August 1958 the conference of state chief justices, by a vote of 36 to 8, severely criticized the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States and, in a formal report, said:

"We believe that in the fields with which we are concerned, and as to which we feel entitled to speak, the Supreme Court too often has tended to adopt the role of policy-maker without proper judicial restraint. We feel this is particularly the case in both of the great fields we have discussed — namely, the extent and extension of the Federal power, and the supervision of state action by the Supreme Court by virtue of the Fourteenth Amendment. In the light of the immense power of the Supreme Court and its practical non-reviewability in most instances, no more important obligation rests upon it, in our view, than that of careful moderation in the exercise of its policy-making role."

The foregoing is really an appeal to public opinion to achieve a reform. It is the right of individual citizens similarly to call for reforms, and that's why it isn't so simple to write off the "extremism" of some members of the John Birch Society as altogether unprovoked.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

A very interesting coverage of the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church is in the Kingston-Rondout-Wiltwyck Directory of 1858 loaned me by O. A. Goodsell of 43 Crane Street. It gives the location of the church as "On Main Street, between Wall and Fair Streets, Kingston, formerly called Esopus, or in the Indian dialect Wiltwyck, was settled by a few Dutch farmers as early as 1655. In consequence of difficulties with the neighboring Indians, during that year, the settlers left the place, but after a brief period returned."

It further goes on to say that in the spring of 1658, there were between 60 and 70 colonists at Esopus, when hostilities with the Indians were again renewed, and the former wrote to Governor Stuyvesant to send them soldiers, "to save the Esopus." The Governor visited the colony with 50 soldiers on the May 29, 1658, and the day following being Ascension Day, "the people having no church, assembled at the house of Jacob Jansen Stol, to keep the festival."

"During the following year, the Classis of Amsterdam encouraged Hermanus Blom, a candidate for the ministry, to visit New Netherlands; he came to Esopus, and having preached two sermons, was called on the 17th of August, 1659, to become their pastor. Blom returned to Holland, where his call was approved by the Classis of Amsterdam, and he was ordained, Feb. 16, 1660, to preach "both on the water and on the land, and in all the neighborhood, but principally in Esopus'." He began his ministry at Esopus, Sept. 12, 1660, with a church composed of 16 members. The records were started that year and kept in Dutch until 1808.

Blom continued as pastor of the church until March 5, 1667, when, in consequences of the death of his wife, he left the country. The Esopus remained without a clergyman for the next 11 years, or until 1678, during which interval the place was occasionally visited by ministers from Fort Orange and New Amsterdam. A list of the clergy and dates are given. The first building was of rude log structure; the second was in the ancient style, ornamented with highly colored painted and burnt window glass, bearing the national ensign and motto "Een dracht maakt macht;" the third was a larger building, erected in 1752, and was burned Oct. 16, 1777, during the Revolutionary War, when the place was taken and destroyed by the English.

This 1858 Kingston-Rondout directory explains "this church was rebuilt before the close of the war, and was used as the place of worship until 1832, when the brick church was erected. In 1852, the present stone edifice, 136 feet long by 64 wide was built. All these churches, except the brick one, stood on the lot at the corner of Wall and Main Streets, which was originally purchased and the title confirmed by the charter in 1719 from the British Crown, for the double purpose of a cemetery and a site for a place of worship."

"The bell at present used was imported from Holland in 1794, and is remarkable for the sweetness and richness of its tones."

The officers of the church in 1858 were: Pastor, the Rev. John C. Hoes, DD, Elders: Henry Snyder, Peter J. Davis, Henry E. Legg, Peter J. Dubois. Deacons: Wessel Ten Broeck, John P. Folant, William H. Conklin, and Frederick E. Shafer. Chorister and Organist, Hiram R. Romeyn. Sexton and Undertaker, Tunis O. Van Gaasbeck.

Half Billion in State Housing Under Way or to Start in 1962

State supervised low-rent and middle-income housing valued at close to half a billion dollars was either under construction in 1961 or planned for construction in 1962, according to a year-end report of activities of the New York State Division of Housing and Community Renewal to Governor Rockefeller by State Housing Commissioner James William Gaynor. Together with the State's $35 million investment in urban renewal financial assistance, the figure for current and planned activity topped the half-billion dollar mark and set a year-end record for the Division, Commissioner Gaynor reported.

"The total value of our low-rent and middle-income housing under construction and in planning, together with our share of community urban renewal programs, stands at $511,518,653," Commissioner Gaynor said. "We are specially gratified by the progress made this year in our middle-income housing program. As a result of our endeavors during the year, we now list 16,984 middle-income apartments in 30 projects valued at $299,758,653 either under construction or planned for construction in 1962. This is the largest single middle-income housing program ever developed in any one year anywhere.

Low-Rent Program

"At the same time, our low-rent program continued in 1961 with 9,681 apartments in 31 projects valued at $176,760,000 either under construction or planned for the future. By adhering to the Administration's policy of custom tailoring the services rendered by the State to meet the different needs of the communities of this State we are confident that the assistance rendered during the year and that scheduled for 1962 reflects the maximum application of the funds involved to obtain the most benefits for our citizens."

To maintain the level of continued service, housing and urban renewal assistance funds totalling $94,038,809 were paid out, committed or reserved during 1961, bringing the total funds committed or reserved for the programs administered by the Division of Housing and Community Renewal to $1,151,130,109.

Middle-Income Projects

The largest commitment of funds during the year went to private sponsors to build middle-income housing under the State's limited-profit housing program. A total of $75,960,809 was committed from either direct State loan funds or State Housing Finance Agency funds to extend 90 per cent mortgage loans to the sponsors of seven middle-income projects with 4,290 apartments. Four of the projects —Bridge Apartments (960 apartments) in Manhattan and Lafayette Apartments (900 apartments), Mayflower Terrace (120 apartments), and Concourse Village Section II (1,979 apartments) in the Bronx—will contain 3,959 apartments and will receive Housing Finance Agency loan funds totalling $71,324,000. In addition to receiving commitments for mortgage financing, Bridge and Lafayette Apartments also went into construction during the year. In Rochester, Plymouth Gardens (242 apartments) and Northside Apartments (48 apartments) received mortgage commitments from State loan funds totalling $3,072,000 and were placed under construction. Also upstate, $604,000 was reserved to finance the construction of Greenwood Estates (41 apartments) in Monticello.

Other projects which went into construction during the year were Rochdale Village (5,860 apartments) in Queens, Patrick E. Gorman Apartments (340 apartments) in Brooklyn, Bronx Park East (322 apartments) in the Bronx, Inwood Gardens (218 apartments) and Inwood Tower (169 apartments) in Manhattan, Chatham Gardens (184 apartments) in Rochester, and Fellowship Hall (71 apartments) in Bedford Town. Construction which had begun earlier was continued during the year on Ebbets Field Apartments (1,318 apartments) in Brooklyn, Inwood Heights (207 apartments) in Manhattan, Tower Apartments (90 apartments) in Buffalo, and Ballantyne Gardens Apartments (120 apartments) in Syracuse.

Construction was completed during the year on two middle-income projects — Tower Gardens (208 apartments) in the Bronx, and Park Regent Apartments (90 apartments) in Port Chester.

In the State's middle-income housing program at the end of the year there were 19,436 apartments completed, under construction or in planning in 44 projects receiving mortgage loans totalling $237,486,849. Of this total, 31 projects with 18,063 apartments receiving $218,777,449 in mortgage loans are in New York City. Statewide, 14 projects with 2,452 apartments were completed, 15 projects with 11,049 apartments were under construction, and 15 projects with 5,935 apartments were planned for construction in 1962.

Urban Renewal

In the State's program of urban renewal financial assistance, a total of $9,979,000 for 18 projects was paid out during the year to 15 communities throughout the State. Of this total, $5,776,000 went to New York City for the following urban renewal projects: Penn Station South ($2,940,000); Lincoln Square Amended ($436,000); Hammels ($1,328,000); and Seaside ($1,072,000). Other payments went to Albany ($145,000); Binghamton ($72,000), Catskill ($18,000), Glen Cove ($257,400), Huntington ($66,000), Middletown ($388,000), New Rochelle ($800,000), North Tarrytown ($55,000), Peekskill ($230,000), Poughkeepsie ($38,000), Rome ($309,000), Schenectady ($318,000), Syracuse ($1,195,000), and Yonkers ($311,000).

With the exception of the payment to Peekskill, all of the monies were advanced under loan and subsidy contracts which provide for yearly State subsidies to the communities to repay the loan plus interest. Peekskill, however, received a capital grant payment under a new financing method recommended by this Administration and established by the State Legislature in 1961. The new method will eliminate in the future the costly and cumbersome loan and subsidy formula devised by the previous administration. By substituting direct grants out of current revenues, the taxpayers were saved the interest costs that resulted in every dollar of aid extended costing $1.45 over the life of the 25-year loan.

Of the $10 million initially appropriated by the Legislature for the direct grant method, $9,609,260 has been reserved for 14 projects in Buffalo, Greenburgh, Long Beach, Newburgh, New Rochelle, New York City, Niagara Falls, Nyack, Peekskill, Rockville Centre and Utica. In addition, all of the $25 million authorized for the loan and subsidy method of financing has also been committed or reserved. Communities receiving assistance under this method, in addition to those which received payments during the year, will be Geneva, Hempstead Town, Hempstead Village, Kingston, Lewisboro, Little Falls, Lockport, Mechanicville, Mt. Kisco, Mt. Vernon, Oswego, Rochester, Sloatsburg, Suffern, Troy, Tuckahoe, Watertown and White Plains.

Saugerties Board Lists Constables At Annual Session

Saugerties Town Board at its annual meeting recently appointed 18 constables and attended to other official business closing out the year, 1961.

Constables named were Charles Riley, Samuel Fluckiger, Thomas Mayone, Vincent Wallot, Vernon Joe Benjamin, Donald Sullivan, John Roderer, Benjamin Newkirk, Charles Tiano, Salvatore DePasquale, Ralph Mayone, Anthony Ventriglia, Herbert Hommel, George Hayes, Charles Riley Jr., Edward Sweeney, John Pavlak and George Derbyshire.

Saugerties National Bank and Trust Company was named official bank depository.

Kingston Daily Freeman, Saugerties Post and Catskill Mountain Star were designated official newspapers of the township.

Carl Heese Jr., a charter member of Malden-West Camp Fire Company were awarded an approved fireman's exemption certificate.

If you use a pound of cranberries in making a raw relish, and some is left over, put it in your freezer for use later on. This amount of cranberries put through the food chopper with a couple of oranges and mixed with two cups of sugar should be ample for two turkey dinners.

THE DISTORTED PICTURE

Most of us have a distorted picture of our children's physical fitness. We know that today's youngsters are taller and heavier than yesterday's. But what about their strength, endurance, flexibility and stamina?

The fact is that our youngsters' physical fitness has slipped—slipped alarmingly. Now's the time to call a halt to the sedentary way of life that's sapping their vitality.

What can you do about it? At your next PTA meeting, you can urge your child's school to adopt a vigorous program for physical development.

Such a program of vigorous, daily exercise has been put into effect in many schools—providing youngsters the opportunity to develop their bodies—and to keep them fit.

Find out whether your child's school has an adequate program. And, if not, why not?

Off Broadway

NEW YORK (AP)—A play about Trinidad, "Moon on a Rainbow Shawl," is to be the first off-Broadway production of Kermit Bloomgarden, one of the White Way's top managers. Errol John, the author, won an English playwriting contest with the work and it was staged in London previously with Earle Hymann starred. Bloomgarden said that he would display the drama in January in an off-Broadway showcase because he does not regard it as the kind of project that would work in the commercial theater.

Hollywood News and Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — He appeared a different Larry Parks—bearded, serious, mature. But behind the sober look was the same sparkle as when he portrayed Al Jolson in two smash-hit movies.

Parks was in town for a holiday visit with his family and a look at his business enterprises. Then he had to return to Munich for the finish of "Freud," his first American-made film in nine years.

What has he been doing in that time?

"Working my head off," he said. "I've done a great deal of stage work—summer stock, a year with 'Teahouse of the August Moon,' 'Beg, Borrow or Steal' on Broadway. I've done television and night clubs.

"And I build apartment houses."

Builds them and operates them. He wouldn't say how many there were, but said he had put up seven apartment houses since last March. Some of his places have as many as 40 units.

"I had planned to start building two places in January, thinking I would be through with 'Freud' by then," he said. "But I won't be finished until mid-January, so I had to postpone construction. You see, when I'm building, I'm the first man on the job and the last one to leave, It's harder work than acting."

Parks said he got started in the building business back in 1940, when he came west for an acting job that disappeared. He and other out-of-work friends put up a house in Burbank.

"Sometimes we'd have to walk down the street to see how a real carpenter put in windows and other things," he said. But they got it built and Parks made $133 on the deal.

Building business was sidetracked for his movie career, which flourished and waned. When the drought set in, he and partner Lewis Mandell began building apartment houses.

Lease Bans Burlesque

NEW YORK (AP)—The lease bans burlesque shows, but an entertainment entitled "This Was Burlesque" is being planned anyway for the Phoenix Theater. Ann Corio, one of the former queens of striptease, is to star. Michael Iannucci, who has taken over operation of the playhouse with Milton Warner, says that the program is a satire of the oldtime mixture of girls and gags, and not burlesque itself.

Legislature Is Getting Plan to Keep Jersey Taxes

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A plan to keep in New York State's coffers $27 million paid in income taxes by residents of New Jersey—and eyed by that state—will be submitted by Gov. Rockefeller to the 1962 Legislature.

The governor will recommend cancellation of a credit under which non-residents may deduct from their New York State taxes their tax liability to their home states.

New Jersey enacted this year an income-tax law applicable only to commuters—its own residents working in New York and New Yorkers working in New Jersey.

The law was identical with New York State's tax law.

Under an existing credit, the 150,000 New Jersey residents who work in New York would have deducted their New Jersey commuter taxes from their New York bill and would have owed money only to their home state.

With cancellation of the credit, they will owe money to both states. Under the Rockefeller plan, it would be up to New Jersey to cancel its tax on the persons paying a New York tax or require them to pay double taxes to both states.

The credit would be continued in force for the 80,000 New York State residents who are employed in New Jersey. They will pay New Jersey an estimated $8 million a year and deduct that amount from any taxes they owe New York.

Thus, New York would realize a net gain of $19 million on the New Jersey taxes and another $1 million from residents of other states who no longer would receive a credit.

New York passed this year a bill giving the New Jersey residents more liberal deducations, provided that state agreed to supply New York with the names and addresses of New Yorkers working in New Jersey.

This agreement has not been reached. Rockefeller reportedly will urge the Legislature to put the more liberal deductions into effect for New Jersey residents without an agreement, provided New Yorkers paying taxes to that state are given equal treatment.

Lerner Tries TV

NEW YORK (AP)—Alan Jay Lerner, lyricist of "My Fair Lady" and "Camelot," is branching out as a television producer.

Under a five-year pact with the National Broadcasting Company, Lerner is to be chief executive for a number of special programs. No announcement yet of how many or subject matter.

Health for All

What Did Last Year Bring?

Tuberculosis, last year brought death to over 10,000 Americans and new active disease to over 50,000.

It also brought the first full year of a new campaign to wipe out this killer, to get rid of it before new generations have to suffer.

TB can be wiped out in this country, experts have reported. But we are far from this goal, though we've had an effective treatement for 15 years. The new campaign to bring this effective treatment to all TB sufferers has been mounted by the tuberculosis associations and health departments across the nation.

"It's now or never," says Dr. Rene Dubos, of New York Rockefeller Institute. "Conditions are at present favorable for the bold and decisive action that could virtually wipe out tuberculosis in this country because the general health of the nation is very good. But we can expect that more and more bacterial resistance to anti-tuberculosis drugs will develop. In 20 years it may be too late."

The tuberculosis associations have worked during 1961 to teach the facts about TB, to encourage everyone to have a yearly tuberculin test or chest X-ray — and to get the the best treatment right away if he needs it.

The year 1961 brought important gains in this fight against TB. Did you help?

Did you have a tuberculin test to find out if any TB germs are present? Did you have a chest X-ray to find out if TB germs are doing any damage?

Whether or not you did, look forward to 1962. Right after New Year's check with your doctor and have your yearly tuberculin test or chest X-ray.

And, while you still have time in 1961 to help in the campaign for 1962—have you sent in your Christmas Seal contribution? Please do.

IndianPopulation Now 509,147 Is Report of Bureau

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Indians of the United States can no longer be considered vanishing Americans, the Bureau of Indian Affairs says.

During the last ten years, the Indian population has been growing faster than the U.S. population as a whole, the bureau said Monday. However, it is still far less than it was when the white man arrived.

Historians estimate about 850,000 Indians were in the area now occupied by the United States when Columbus stumbled on the western hemisphere in 1492 on his way to India.

The blessings of civilization almost proved the undoing of the red men, as smallpox, tuberculosis, whisky and wars of extermination steadily reduced their numbers to less than 250,000 by the end of the 19th century.

From that low point, the Indians have been making a steady comeback with the 1960 showing, 509,147, of whom 285,000 live on reservations. This does not include 14,000 Indians living in Alaska, since the Alaskan indians were not counted in the pre-Columbus estimate.

Between 1950 and 1960, the annual rate of growth for the Indians was 2.5 per cent, compared with 1.7 per cent for the U.S. population as a whole.

First Traffic Victim

SOMERSET, Wis. (AP) — Blais B. Paschall, 21, of Ithaca, N.Y., killed in an automobile accident Monday, was the first reported traffic victim this year in Wisconsin.

Paschall, a student of Mankato, Minn., State College, died when his car missed a curve, overturned and struck a utility pole in this western Wisconsin community. The accident occurred at 12:25 a.m.

Heavy Casualties Among Civilians In North Katanga

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe has conceded the loss of the north Katanga stronghold of Kongolo to troops of the central Congolese government but claims his forces have beaten off Congolese attacks at Kapona, south of Baudouinville.

Tshombe charged at a news conference Monday in Elisabethville that 13,000 Congolese troops advancing on Kongolo had murdered hundreds of civilians and burned villages.

He claimed that the Congolese abandoned heavy equipment and fled in the face of strong Katangan resistance at Kapona. The secessionist leader said both sides suffered heavy casualties there, asserting that most Katangan casualties involved civilians.

Tshombe also declared that he has rejected an order by Congo President Joseph Kasavubu that the Katanga Assembly convene Wednesday in Kamina under U.N. protection.

He said he had informed the U.N. Command in Elisabethville that the order for the Assembly to meet and ratify Tshombe's Kitona unity agreement with Premier Cyrille Adoula was "contrary and in direct violation of the Congo constitution" and "an abuse of power."

Tshombe has summoned the assembly to meet in Elisabethville tomorrow to discuss the Kitona agreement. But he said he was no longer sure the meeting would be held on schedule.

The U.N. Command announced that Bashi tribesmen in Kivu Province had killed at least 12 of their tribal enemies while trying to elect a new chief.

A U.N. spokesman said a Malayan patrol halted the bloodshed but that reports from the patrol indicated the death toll may actually be much higher. The U.N. spokesman was unable to say whether the chief had been elected.

Holiday Party Held by Cubs

Cub Scout Pack 32 of the Atonement Lutheran Church observed Christmas at its monthly meeting Friday night at the church hall following the regular business meeting which was conducted by Stanley Benham Jr. and Harold Bauser, pack committeemen, in the absence of Cubmaster Joseph Gaglianello.

Ms. Gerald Rosenberger's Den 2 led the opening ceremonies, after which Jeff Leisendahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Werner Leisendahl and George Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Young, were welcomed as new Bobcats in the pack.

Advancements earned during the past month were awarded to the following:

Gold arrow under Wolf, Richard Mullaney; Bear badge, Daniel Wynne; Webelos badge, Timothy Hally and Philip Crank.

One year attendance pins were presented to Cubmaster Joseph Gaglianello, Jack Staudacher, advancement chairman, Harold Bauser, committeeman, William Holden, Gary Walton, Kenneth Bauser and Michael Kohler. Benham, who is also treasurer of the pack, received a three year pin.

Announcement was made of the gift of three figures for the Nativity scene on display in front of the church, and hand-made ornaments for the Christmas tree in the Sunday school room. The pack also sang Christmas Carols at Dales Sanitarium and at the Ellen Russell Finger Home during Christmas week. Ice cream was donated to both homes as a Christmas gift from the pack.

Santa was present during the evening to assist in the exchange of gifts to the boys and parents, and each Cub received a Boy Scout flashlight as a present from the pack.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Charles Mullaney, chairman, and the Mmes. Richard Walton, Ralph Hayes and Harry Anders.

Community Notes

All schools in the Saugerties Central School District will reopen on Wednesday morning following the Christmas holiday.

Wednesday, 2 p. m., Saugerties Chapter DAR meets at the home of Mrs. Carroll Neiffer, Beech Street. All members will bring dress material to be send to DAR approved school in south.

Wednesday night, Saugerties Dartball mid-season tournament will be held at Legion Hall, John Street.

Thursday, 8 p. m., St. Mary's Rosary Society meets in the school cafeteria.

Saturday, 10:30 a. m. Jayncee Story Hour will be held at the Saugerties Public Library for 5 to 7 year old children. Miss Louise Pleines, kindergarten teacher at the Mt. Marion School will be guest story teller.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Vozdik of Simmons Drive left Thursday for a three month vacation in Florida.

Albion Adams of New York City was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester B. Glunt of Lighthouse Drive over the weekend.

County Records

will be offered by the Rev. Bernard A. Quinn. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery, Montgomery. Friends may call at the funeral home this evening and Wednesday evening.

Drivers of both cars involved in an accident near Millbrook, Dutchess County, died New Year's Day in a head-on collision on Route 44.

The victims were Carmine Calabro, 40, of Vauxhall, N. J., and Louis Bambrick, 57, of Rhinecliff. Both men were reported to have been riding alone at the time.

According to the Associated Press 27 persons died between 6 p. m. Friday and Monday midnight in automobile crashes or when struck by cars. In addition, fires killed nine persons, including five children in a single fire. In Newburgh, Harold Kennedy and his wife, Clara, died in an apartment fire. Five persons died in other types of accidents.

Roads Slippery

Some of the traffic deaths were blamed on snowstorms or slippery roads.

New Year's day was sunny over much of the state.

The weekend traffic deaths surpassed the 17 deaths during the three-day New Year's weekend a year ago, when 15 persons also died in fires and one life was lost in another type of accident.

The highest previous traffic death total in the state for any New Year's weekend in the last 10 years was 25 during the four-day holiday that ushered in 1959, according to Associated Press records.

51 Persons Died

Over the Christmas holiday a week ago, 51 persons died accidentally in the state. The total included 37 traffic deaths, the most for a Christmas holiday in a decade, and 13 fire deaths.

In Buffalo Monday, five children of Mrs. Henrietta Bass perished in a fire that swept the family home. Mrs. Bass carried an 8-month-old son to safety. The children who died were Dianne, 8, Betty Jean, 6, Ronald, 5, Linda, 4, and Angela, 1½.

Just before the end of the New Year's weekend, three cars collided Monday night at Middle Island, Suffolk County, killing a man, his wife and their daughter. They were Salvatore Spatafora, 60; Jean Spatafora, 50, and Mary Spatafora, 35, all of Southampton.

Other accidental deaths Upstate by community:

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market began its 1962 career by backing away from an early rise and showing a mixed pattern in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 262.70 with industrials off .40, rails up .50 and utilities up .10.

Most key stocks showed gains or losses running from fractiolns to about a point.

Some of the motors and aerospace issues remained well ahead but initial gains by other sections of the list tended to melt away as trading slackened.

Steels were mixed. Bethlehem held a fractional gain. U.S. Steel dipped moderately.

Communist Countries Admit 1961 Bad Year

TOKYO (AP)—All three Communist countries behind Asia's Bamboo Curtain have admitted in New Year's statements that 1961 was a bad year because of "natural calamities" or other difficulties.

The leaders and official organs of Communist China, North Korea and North Viet Nam in New Year's greetings to their people all placed emphasis on domestic problems rather than on international issues. Drought and flood contributed to the domestic difficulties.

More U. S. Soldiers Will Go to Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 4,000 additional U.S. soldiers in two infantry battle groups will be flown to Germany in mid-January, informed sources report.

Also involved in the move will be Air Force planes and their crews. They will come from several bases around the country.

It was understood that the two battle groups will be drawn from the 4th Infantry Division, a regular Army outfit based at Ft. Lewis, Wash. Maj. Gen. William F. Train, 4th Division commander, declined comment.

Three Local Organizations Honor Alf Evers, Historian

Alf Evers, long time Woodstock resident and widely known author and historian, was honored on Friday evening by three Woodstock organizations in which he has been active. They presented him with a handsome citation in the form of an illuminated scroll.

The organizations participating were the Woodstock Library Association, represented by its president, Arthur E. Hansen; the Woodstock Historical Society, Edgar C. Leaycraft, president; and the Woodstock Association for the Conservation and Improvement of the Township, Inc., Benjamin L. Webster, chairman. The scroll was executed by John Pike.

Evers' service to the library has been of long duration. He has been on the board since 1953, was vice president in 1958 and president in 1959. As chairman of the book committee, he has been responsible for the selection of books and the building of a fine collection. He was also a leader in organizing the Hudson Library System, which has arranged mutual cooperation among many libraries throughout the region.

As a long-time member and president of the Woodstock Historical Society, he personally uncovered many early records of Woodstock and the Catskills and has done much to shed light on the earlier life and times of the area. Many records which he discovered are now in the custody of the society. His dream was to create a center which could serve as a museum and proper archive for these valuable maps and documents.

Extensive Research

As a member of the Woodstock Association, he collected and arranged a rare collection of illustrative material to form a point of departure for future planning. Some of this was presented last year in lecture form and will also be incorporated in the next issue of the Association's Bulletin, to be published in January.

But these obvious services are overshadowed by his unstinting interest in the town which has been of great practical value, it was noted at the ceremony. He has acquired and reproduced early town records which were thought lost and have been invaluable in confirming rights of way and other easements belonging to the town.

The text of the scroll was written by Janet Steinlauf and approved by unanimous vote of the governing bodies of each of the three sponsoring organizations.

The text follows: "By the Power and Grace invested in the memberships of the Woodstock Library Association, The Woodstock Historical Society, and The Woodstock Association for the Conservation and Improvement of the Township, Inc., we do hereby make known our very necessary and cherished privilege in honoring Alf Evers, esteemed member, faithful friend, erestwhile irreplaceable officer, upon his impending departure from the Town of Woodstock; whereas, by his wise stewardship he has caused the Association to prosper and grow, and, whereas in all the many years he dwelled among us, by his unstinting labors and enthusiastic example, he did most certainly create for us an image of a friendly town, wherein harmony in living might prevail, where the long-gone past might challenge the shape and flow of the imminent future; and, whereas he has shown us the practical need for a unity of interests: we do now therefore give thanks for this bounty from his hands and regretfully yet with solemn faith, wish him God-speed and the blessings of health, happiness and success in his undertakings."

Dutch Will Talk Sans Conditions On W. N. Guinea

By NEL SLIS

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) —The Dutch government announced today its willingness to discuss the future of West New Guinea with Indonesia without setting conditions beforehand.

Premier Jan de Quay read the government declaration in the lower house of Parliament at the start of debate on West New Guinea, last remnant of Holland's East Indies colonial empire which Indonesia has threatened to invade.

President Sukarno Monday proclaimed the disputed territory a province of Indonesia and ordered a special military command set up to direct the invasion if he orders it.

De Quay said the Netherlands is willing to enter into negotiations without making self-determination of New Guinea's Papuan population a prerequisite. Previously the Dutch had said they would negotiate only if the Papuans were assured the right of self-determination.

The Labor party opposition had been pressing the government to announce willingness to relinquish the territory and then to negotiate for some autonomy for the Papuans.

Foreign Minister Subandrio of Indonesia recently said Indonesia might consider giving West New Guinea "a great measure of autonomy."

Preferred Stocks Seldom Good Buys

Each month I receive letters from readers who ask whether they should buy preferred stocks. In my opinion, preferreds are seldom good buys—unless income is mandatory—and under present money conditions, they are distinctly poor buys.

A preferred stock, unless it is convertible into common, is something of an anomaly. It has neither the security of a bond nor the appreciation potential of a common stock.

I can remember in the 1920's the very popular shibboleth, "U. S. Steel preferred is as good as a bond." This was heard no more after the dividend was partially defaulted in 1932 and the shares fell from 118 to 51½.

Since dividends on preferreds will not be increased, their price movements on the upside are limited. However, there is no such limitation on the downside if the corporation gets into trouble.

Like other fixed income securities, the market price of preferred shares is largely determined by money rates. Since money rates have been firming of late, it is likely that most preferreds will work lower as the economy moves ahead.

It is interesting to look back a few years and examine the experience of a holder of General Motors preferred compared with the man who bought GM common. In 1950, the 5 per cent preferred sold at an average of 124, while the common's price was about 15. Today the man who bought the preferred has sseen his capital diminish by 12 per cent. During the same perior, though, the holder of the common shares had a profit of some 270 per cent.

I don't know what the future growth rate for General Motors or other firms will be, but I do believe that many companies will continue to expand and that investors should be situated so they'll be able to join in this growth. Those holding preferred stock will get a fixed income and nothing else, while common shareholders will have the chance to prosper greatly.

Esopus Youth Injures Foot in Gun Accident

Frank Sessler, 15, son of the caretaker at Mt. St. Alphonsus, Esopus, was taken to Kingston Hospital Monday for treatment of a foot injury resulting from the accidental discharge of a .22 calibre rifle.

The youth was admitted about 10:20 a. m. Monday.

An investigatioh by Deputies John Seaholm and Emil Kuhnen of Sheriff Claude Bell's staff, indicated the boy had been at the home of Francis Sims Jr., 13, preparing to go rabbit hunting with Francis Sims Sr. Sessler stood the .22 calibre rifle on his left foot awaiting the others. The gun, which was not known to be loaded, was discharged and the scatter-shot went through the left foot striking a toe. Sessler said he was not aware the gun was loaded.

East German Reds Boast About Wall

BERLIN (AP)—East German Communists boasted today that their wall through Berlin is "so high and strong that neither God nor the devil" can help in getting across. But West Berlin newspapers reported at least two refugees escaped over the weekend.

The Communist statement was directed at Bishop Otto Dibelius, head of the German Evangelical Church. Bishop Dibelius in a New Year's message quoted a line from the 18th Psalm about leaping over a wall with the help of God.

Neues Deutschland, the official East Berlin Communist daily commented sarcastically: "In the first place our walls, unlike those of Jericho, are so high and strong that neither God nor the devil's help would permit him to get over it."

Rifle Theft Probed

Bradley Wilson, of 22 West O'Reilly Street, complained to police Monday that someone stole a .22 caliber rifle from his parked car.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Soviet vs. U. S. System In Teaching of Reading

"Mrs. Black had three happy pigs.
We know her pigs were happy.
They looked for something to eat.
They could not find it.
Still the three pigs were happy."

This arresting piece of prose is a sampling from one of this nation's "basal" school readers. It and books like it are American children's introduction to the grace and majesty of English literature.

Note, please how it harps on certain words. Three times it repeats the words "pigs" and "happy." This reiteration is deliberate. Its authors are not the lunatics they appear to be. Instead, they are the tools of this country's educational powers who, 30 years ago, rejected the phonic reading instruction of children for that "whole"-word memorizing method which wiser folk than I hold responsible for increasing reading disability among our youngsters. So, inevitably their works are babbling dullness.

It stands to reason that if you are going to try to teach a child to read by pushing words into his memory, two results will occur. You will have to repeat those words to the point of nausea, and you'll have to restrict the number of new words you can offer him in deference to the limits of human memory.

So what happens is that we Americans equip fourth grade Johnny with a vocabulary of 1,500 words while the Soviet Union, using the rejected phonic system, equips its fourth grade Ivan with at least 10,000 Russian words.

This is the point of an explosive new book "What Ivan Knows That Johnny Doesn't" by Arthur Trace Jr. Its facts may detonate action on the educational front just as the feat of Yuri Gagarin aroused us to roar at our space experts, "Get going! Stop dithering—and move!"

I, for one, surely hope so. For Russia's Ivan, phonically trained to explore new words by sounding their syllables into recognizable wholes, uses a ninth grade reader that offers him Shakespeare, Tolstoy, Goethe and Chekov. But your ninth grade Johnny—what does his reader offer? A collection of such gems as "Pass That Puck!" sparked with occasional selections from people like Carl Sandburg and James Thurber. Yes, like the small boy who had to prove he could spit farther than his rival, we may now set ourselves to proving that we can teach reading to children, too.

Buy this book. Read it. Then, at your next PTA meeting get up and ask the question: "Why is my child involved with Mrs. Black and her happy pigs when Russian children are given a fairy tale by Leo Tolstoy?"

3 Shakespearean Plays

STRATFORD, Ont., (AP) — The 10th anniversary season of the Shakespeare Festival is to include three of the bard's dramas—"Macbeth," "The Tempest" and "The Taming of the Shrew." The acting company is to be headed by Christopher Plummer, Canadian-born actor prominent on both the New York and London stages. In addition to the three plays by Shakespeare, Edmond Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac" will be inserted into the repertoire July 30, six weeks after the festival opens June 18.

What's behind the 4% headlines?

All of a sudden, many banks in town are advertising four percent on savings and time deposits held for one year or more.

WHAT'S BEHIND IT?

Interest rates at commercial banks are regulated by state and federal authorities. They put a top limit on the amount of interest that the banks may pay. Recently, they raised that limit, effective January 1, 1962.

So some of the banks are increasing the interest they pay on savings and time deposits.

AND SO ARE WE.

In three ways.

One: We'll pay 4% a year at the end of each quarter on savings deposits up to $25,000 that have been in your account one year or more.

Two: We'll pay 3½% a year at the end of each quarter on savings deposits that remain in your account less than one year. Interest will be paid on a savings deposit received during the first 10 calendar days of any calendar month from the first day of such calendar month.

Three: We'll pay 4% per annum on any time deposit having a maturity date 12 months or more after the date of deposit, and 3½% per annum on any time deposit having a maturity date less than 12 months and not less than 6 months after the date of deposit, without limitation on the amount of the deposit.

It's always our policy to give our customers the latest and the best.

Montreal Jail Has Riot

More Trouble Feared From 400 Prisoners

MONTREAL (AP)—More trouble was feared today from 400 prisoners who rioted and battled police for four hours in Montreal's Bordeaux jail.

The men spent the night in cells of two unheated, water-logged wings where they were herded finally after their outburst Monday in the dining hall.

Lt. Col. Leon Lambert, governor of the jail, said prisoners in a block for persons awaiting trial took part in the rebellion and that "some of them looked drunk—possibly from goof balls (barbiturates)."

"The disturbance is far from over," Lambert told newsmen. "We have to get them back in their own cells yet."

He said three prisoners and a fireman manning a water hose were injured, none seriously. The fireman was believed struck by a piece of metal thrown by a prisoner.

Lambert said the rioting started with some grumbling and shouting about 4:30 p.m. which developed into open rebellion as the men were being served a roast beef New Year's dinner.

An electric power failure followed two hours later, knocking out the tower which controls the cell gates. "Without electricity, we could do nothing," Lambert said. "We had no lights or water here for two hours."

About 90 city and provincial police rushed to the jail and entered the prison yard with baseball bats and tear gas. Firemen were forced to run in hoses from outside the jail when water pumps failed to work.

Windows, plumbing, walls and bunks were smashed or ripped in both wings and a foot of water covered the floors.

Firemen doused fires the prisoners set in blankets and mattresses but "we didn't have to use the hoses on men," said prison controller J. A. Pilon. "When they saw the hoses, they got scared. They didn't want to get wet."

Lambert said he didn't know yet what had caused the riot, that "you can't talk to these fellows when they are in revolt." The jail for the past decade has been plagued by rioting prisoners and poor conditions. It houses 750 prisoners.

New Year's Riot Occurs in Reno, 22 to See Judge

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Twenty-two persons were ordered to appear in municipal court today, charged with taking part in a wild New Year's riot that began with stolen kisses and ended in a fog of tear gas and water from fire hoses.

Police Capt. Robert Peel said the 22 were booked on assorted charges from inciting riot to creating a disturbance. In addition, he said, 16 servicemen arrested were turned over to military authorities for disciplinary action.

At least 30 persons were injured, none seriously.

The riot began when officers arrested several youths who were stopping cars and kissing the women occupants. Jeering crowds attacked a police car and hurled liquor bottles and glasses for two hours before tear gas and fire hoses dispersed them. About 1,000 persons were involved.

Second Death From Crash

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — A fatal crash New Year's Day has claimed a second victim — Santo A. Lamark, 21, of Binghamton.

Lamark died Monday night in Binghamton General Hospital of injuries suffered when the automobile in which he was riding left Route 11 about five miles south of here and struck a tree. Mervin Houser, about 34, of Windsor, was killed in the crash.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Serve Sea Food in Patty Shells

SPOONED into patty shells, or over toast points, this sea food and olive mixture is ideal for postseason eating.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

For a postholiday supper party, try this pleasant recipe. Use a white sauce flavored with onion and cheddar cheese as a base, then add sea food mixture and sliced pimento-stuffed olives. Serve in patty shells ordered from your baker or heat the frozen packaged kind from your grocer.

HOLIDAY OLIVE SEA FOOD
(Makes about 10 servings)

6 tablespoons butter or margarine
6 tablespoons all-purpose flour
3 cups milk
2 cups grated cheddar cheese (about 8-ounces)
¼ cup chopped onion
1¾ cups cooked boned lobster
OR
1 can (10-ounces) lobster, drained and boned
3 cups cooked, shelled and deveined shrimp
OR
3 cans (4½-ounces each) shrimp, drained.
¼ cups cooked, boned crabmeat
OR
1 can (6½-ounces) crabmeat, drained and boned
1 cup sliced pimento-stuffed olives
Patty shells or toast points

Melt butter or margarine; add flour and stir until smooth. Gradually add milk and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in cheese until melted. Add onion, lobster, shrimp, crabmeat and olives; stir. Heat to serving temperature; stir frequently. Serve with patty shells or toast points.

General Cargo Ship Is Reported Adrift

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A 300-foot general cargo ship reported itself adrift in the Gulf of Mexico without power early today, then its radio went dead.

The Coast Guard reported that one of its search planes failed to locate the vessel, the Catalina S., in a position given in earlier distress calls. It added that this did not necessarily mean that the ship was lost since it could have widely miscalculated its position.

The Catalina S. is of Panamanian registry. The destination of the vessel and number of persons aboard were not learned.

Schwenk Aim: Downward Trend in Taxes

going to have to work together; to forget party labels; to think first and foremost of our people.

I would also point out that I bring to the office of mayor an outlook that is quite different from most of my predecessors. As you all know, I have just retired from a job I have held for many years in order to assume the responsibilities of mayor.

I have no financial dependency on the office of mayor, nor do I have further political ambitions. In short, I do not need this position to earn my living, or as a stepping stone to higher political office.

What I hope to accomplish as mayor of Kingston, I seek for the people of Kingston alone. And, I intend to use every ounce of political skill and administrative knowledge gained in more than 20 years of government service to solve the serious problems that Kingston faces today, and leave the people of our city with a well defined path towards future happiness.

I will welcome wholeheartedly your support and cooperation towards these aims, and sincerely hope that you will join with me to achieve them for our city.

And now, I woud like to indicate some of the actions that I feel must take priority in building a bright future for Kingston.

Parking First Goal

I think all of us, and myself particularly, are very much aware that I've placed heavy emphasis on the parking problems of our uptown business district in recent months, and that I promised to be ready to present my recommendation to the Common Council on my first day in the office.

It will be my pleasure tomorrow, on the occasion of the first business meeting of this Common Council, to present my recommendations for Phase One of my parking program, which will provide off-street parking facilities for 250 cars in the uptown business district, without eliminating a single, high potential tax producing business property from the assessment rolls.

I feel that this recommendation is extremely important as a stop-gap measure to thwart the deterioration of our uptown business area, and provide our major tax producing properties with the ability to compete with the shopping centers now in operation, or soon to open their doors, at the southern, northern, and western approaches to our city. And, I would point out, that I consider the program that the Common Council will receive tomorrow as only a preliminary step towards making Kingston the most important retail marketing center in the mid-Hudson valley. It is obvious to me that 250 off-street parking spaces will not bring our uptown district on par with parking facilities at shopping centers outside our city limits.

May Reduce Meter Levy

The next matter to receive priority attention, of course, will be the 1962 budget, which I intend to examine in detail with the various department heads, to determine whether any changes can or should be made before submitting my recommendations to the Common Council later in the month.

I hope to find within the budget, sufficient flexibility to provide funds for the change-over of our parking meters to nickel and penny parking. This reduction in parking meter fees, I believe, is another necessary step that must be taken to provide assistance to our merchants, and make shopping more convenient and less costly to our citizens and visitors.

Favors Charter Changes

Also, in the early part of the year, I shall recommend a change in a section of the city charter which will permit certification of our tax assessment rolls to the Kingston Consolidated School District in August, when all other local governments in the consolidated school district certify their tax rolls. This will put a halt to tax free construction of new buildings and building improvements, increase our total tax assessments by many thousands of dollars, and reduce the individual school tax share of all of our citizens.

Another responsibility that will receive top priority from this administration will be a careful evaluation of the progress of urban renewal to date, and consideration of the next logical actions to be taken through urban renewal to further the growth and improvement of our city.

At this moment, I have had only one opportunity for first hand information on the procedures and potential benefits of the urban renewal program, and do not feel sufficiently indoctrinated with the many facets of our master plan to make definite statement about future policies on urban renewal.

Eyes Urban Conferences

However, I am aware of Kingston's needs for rehabilitation and rejuvenation within the framework of citywide planning, and I have hopes that urban renewal can provide the means for accomplish many of our aims. It is with this point of view that I shall have several meetings with our planning consultants before this month has passed.

I also intend to work closely with department heads to evaluate their manpower requirements and utilization, and determine whether our property owners are receiving the best of city services for their tax dollars.

Stand on Street Work

By the time weather conditions permit a resumption of street maintenance work, I hope to have new cost saving procedures in effect, including the new resurfacing methods which are being used so successfully in Binghamton and several other municipalities in the East.

I am confident that if these programs can be initiated during the first half of the year, that Kingston will be on its way to providing the tax structure, and quality of city services and facilities that will be necessary to attract new industry and capital to our city.

To Name Commission

Therefore, I plan to appoint a group of leading citizens, who are expert in various phases of business and professional life, to a special Commission on Industrial Development. This commission will concern itself with contacting firms that are seeking to relocate or expand, acquaint them with the resources and facilities available in Kingston, and help them to investigate the feasibility of locating in our city. In this way, we will be taking direct action towards creating new opportunities for growth and security in our community.

I have one other appointment yet to make, which I will announce later in the week. It is that of a city historian to fill the position vacated when my very good friend Joseph F. Sullivan passed away last week. Although I have already decided on an eminently qualified resident of Kingston to assume this post, I would defer announcing his appointment until I have made clear the sadness I personally feel, and the loss I think our city has suffered with the death of Joe Sullivan. It was his responsibility to preserve for posterity a record of the Kingston of our times, and he did this task with great dedication and objectivity. There is nothing better one can say about a historian.

And, speaking of history, I sincerely hope that next year at this time, when what we have done in 1962, has already become history, that our future will be brightened considerably by the accomplishments we will achieve in the next 12 months.

Pledges Best Efforts

With deep gratefullness for the position that the people of Kingston have bestowed upon me, I promise to do my best to live up to the promises I have made, and wish you all a very healthy and prosperous New Year with God's will.

Syracuse Night Club Fire Loss $100,000

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Fire caused an estimated $100,000 damage at a night club destroyed shortly after a New Year's Eve party ended.

Fire Chief Irving Lynch of East Syracuse said the fire started early Monday in the kitchen of the Brookside Restaurant, a one-story, brick and stone building.

The cause was not determined.

No one was injured.

Fire officials estimated the damage.

Invasion of Cuba Declared Success

GUATEMALA (AP)—President Miguel Ydigoras says last April's invasion of Cuba by forces trained in Guatemala so frightened Fidel Castro "that his warlike activities outside Cuba ceased since that date."

The Guatemalan president, disclosed officially in a New Year's message Saturday night for the first time that anti-Castro Cubans were trained in Guatemala.

"President Kennedy still has the responsibility of a sequel," he said.

He did not explain that statement clearly, but went on to say: "The Bay of Pigs (scene of the April invasion) was a victory, not a defeat, and he who begins under such auspices must go on with the great task of decommunizing that part of the American territory. There are signed commitments in South America."

Referring to the April invasion, he said Guatemala "encouraged thousands of exiled Cubans to fight to regain their own homeland instead of lamenting their ill fortune."

He said Guatemala reached an understanding with the exiled Cubans and "they entered into arrangements with a friendly government able to give arms and sustain training and a military campaign."

A secret training base was set up in Guatemala and another operated openly, he added.

Winners Named In Art Contest For Yule Program

Winners in the elementary school art contest were announced at the annual Christmas Eve program on the Village Green which was attended by several hundred children, parents and friends.

First and second place winners in the various grades were: Kindergarten, first gift, $10, Danny Plate; second gift, $5, Angela Tomaselli; First grade winner, Edmund Tomaselli; second place, the Geertsema twins, Leslie and Coral; second grade, Sally Kinns and Adrian Baptiste; third grade, John Langling and Peter Anderson; fourth grade, Edmond Sturgeon and Carol Beisele. All the winners received their prizes in the mail.

Thirty five paintings were submitted by the children in the township. The paintings depicted the theme: "What I See When I Think of Christmas."

Several entries could not be considered for either of two reasons: The child submitted more than one painting or because the work did not appear to be spontaneous or original. The judges were: Ainslie (Pat) Burke of the Woodstock Artists Association; Nancy Summers, former art teacher, and one of this year's Woodstock Foundation Award winners, and Allen Cochran, one of Woodstock's most widely known artists.

Dane Winner and Sandra Baccari, who were selected by their schoolmates, reigned as Snow King and Queen. They sat on enther side of Santa Claus during the traditional service. Both are in the second grade and were noted in Santa's Books for being good all year, in school as well as home, and both are seven years old.

Workers Listed

Santa Claus made another of his surprise and spectacular appearances. He was first spotted on roof top of the Cousins building, but Woodstock Fire Company No. 1 had to be called in with an extension ladded the get him down. The fireman made a pathway through the crowd and escorted him across the street.

Many townspeople have requested the names of those whom they might thank for the Christman program and the various other contributions.

The Christmas Eve Committee is made of a 12-member board consisting of Robert Carr, chairman; Frank Benson, treasurer; William R. West, in charge of distribution of Cheer and Food baskets; Ruth Kinns, who sees that Santa's stockings are filled and the others packed. Gordon Anderson is in charge of programming and Milton Combs attends to all the arrangements of the Christmas tree, its lighting and transportation. The creche on the green was done by local artist, John Pike. Combs is also responsible for microphones, wiring and sound. Assisting Combs are George Eichler, George Laws and Gottlob Wagner. Kermit Schwarz and others also assist the committee from time to time. Costumes are another department but are handled by one person, Mrs. Maryland Goddard. The department of publicity and the children's art work is another one-person operation handled expertly by KiKi Godwin.

Then, of course, there is Joseph Holdridge, who is Stanta Claus's right hand man in the town of Woodstock. Though the town wishes to thank the committee, it is through the support of the township that the committee is able to function. The thank yous work both ways.

Post Office Has Record Volume

Along with other postoffices in the country, the Woodstock Postoffice has handled a record volume of mail this Christmas season, Postmaster Leon Carey announced.

From Dec. 1 through Dec. 23, approximately 341,790 pieces were handled at the Woodstock office, compared to 289,452 last year, an 18 per cent increase.

The records show that more people mailed earlier this year than they have in previous years. This, along with the use of addresses by some of the patrons added greatly to the efficiency in handling the mail.

This year's two-day record was on Monday-Tuesday, Dec. 18-19, when the Woodstock office handled 52,710 pieces of mail.

Local Artists Of Another Era In Whitney Show

The works of several Woodstock art titans of an earlier era were included in a specially super exhibition at the Whitney Museum which presented a selection of the finest works of its collection arranged chronologically from 1900 to 1960.

Among the artists honored are Philip Guston, Yasuo Kuniyoshi, Robert Henri, George Bellows and Eugene Speicher.

Works by Guston and Kuniyoshi were shown on the first floor. Henri, Speicher, Bellows and Kuniyoshi also bracketed on the third floor which reviews the period from 1900 to 1939.

In conjunction with this 30th anniversary exhibition, the Whitney Museum also announces a book called American Art of Our Century, with text by Lloyd Goodrich, director, and life member of the Art Students League and John I. H. Bauer, associated director. There are reproductions of 81 works in color and 166 in black and white.

Martin Is Judge in Albany Art Show

Fletcher Martin of Woodstock and Theodore Batzell and John Watrous of Schenectady were the judges in the 17th annual show sponsored by the Albany Artists Group.

First prize winner was Madeline Novlotsky's abstraction "From The Italian Hill" which took the Frances Manning prize. The Raymond Schofield Patrol prize for the best watercolor went to Edwin Becker for his "Fifth and The Park."

Seventy-five paintings participated in this year's show which will be on view at the Albany Institute through January 28.

Civil Defense Talks at OCS

Major Edgar H. Timmerman, Director of Civil Defense for Ulster County, will give two important lectures on Tuesday, Jan. 9, and Tuesday, Jan. 16. Both of these talks will be presented at the Onteora Central School starting at 7:30 p. m.

On January 9, Major Timmerman will discuss "Basic Civil Defense," and on January 16 his topic will be "Civil Defense and What to Do About It."

Major Timmerman is appearing as part of the Onteora Central School Adult Education Program. The general public is invited to attend.

Demonstration Unit Meets on January 9

The next meeting of the Woodstock Home Demonstration Unit will be held in the Overlook Methodist church hall on Tuesday, January 9, at 1:30 p. m.

All members are urged to attend to hear Mrs. Ronald Herrick of Kingston discuss the history of puppets. This promises to be a most interesting meeting.

Hostesses for the day will be Theresa Duane, Agnes Anderson, Mura Cochran, Peggy Cummins and Annette Dietz.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The labor Management battle over the effects of automation of jobs is being complicated today by another struggle.

That is the growing competition between American goods and jobs and foreign goods and jobs. The two problems are becoming hard to separate.

A number of U.S. firms say they are able to hold their own or conquer new markets only because of mechanical advances in their factories.

But others are sighting a new threat: What they call the even faster move of late toward automation abroad than in America, long thought of as its home.

During the early postwar years technical advances and superior skills let many U.S. firms offset the advantages that Western European and Japanese manufacturers had through lower wage rates. But these countries have been mechanizing fast, and the United States is losing that advantage. Productivity—the amount of goods turned out per man hour of labor—has increased much faster in Europe and Japan than here.

In recent months Europeans have been reported stepping up the automation drive-and for one of the reasons that inspired its growth here. Wage rates, although starting from a much lower base, have been rising faster in several of these countries than here.

In addition, European management has been spurred on by a general labor shortage, felt here only in certain skilled trades.

Executives of Reliance Electric and Engineering Co., Cleveland, report European factories are installing automated machinery much faster now than five years ago. As a result, they joined a European firm in setting up a company in Switzerland to meet the demand for electronic controls and variable speed drives.

The same increasing demand, here and abroad, is reported by Warner Electric Brake & Clutch Co. of Beloit, Wis.

Bell & Howell says its precision photographic lenses can be produced by automated equipment economically enough to be sold abroad under the noses of foreign competitors.

Lincoln Electric Company also says automation enables it to compete in foreign markets.

Roger Bolz, member of Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg's Committee on Automation and Manpower and pubisher of Automation Magazine, says that engineers in Europe are hard at work on automation and mass production methods needed to compete in an unrestricted market. They are using American techniques but generating new ones of their own.

Bolz holds that American manufacturing engineers will have to develop even more sophisticated automation systems to meet a twofold challenge: Modern technological advances of competitors, domestic or foreign, and the still lower, if rising, wage rates abroad.

The Soviet Union, too, is getting into the act. The Institute of Automation in Kiev is reported to have been authorized to expand its staff from 2,000 to 10,000 persons.

Long Diamonds Squeeze Partner

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The Corpus Christi tournament was the scene of one of the luckiest hands of 1961.

It did not matter whether South opened one no-trump or one heart. At all tables except one he wound up playing a four-heart contract. Due to the fact that South had the same number of spades and diamonds as his partner and because clubs failed to break, no one made four hearts.

When Joe Musameci of San Antonio sat South, he opened one no-trump and North decided to forego using Stayman and jumped right to the no-trump game.

Joe won the first diamond trick and ran off five hearts. He had little hope of making his contract, but miracles sometimes happen at bridge.

His next play was to throw West in with a diamond. West promptly cashed four diamond trick and the miracle came to pass. Joe discarded down to the ace-nine of clubs and a spade in dummy and East had to go down to three cards also.

That meant East could keep only a singleton spade or singleton club. He chose to unguard the club king whereupon Joe, who discarded behind him hung onto the queen and one club and the ace of spades and made the last three tricks and contract.

Gov. Lawrence Sees Surplus in Sight

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. Lawrence, beginning the last full year of his term in office, had some heartening financial news today both for the new General Assembly and the citizens of Pennsylvania.

He said the state's financial house was in order for the first time in recent history, a surplus is in sight for the end of this fiscal year next June 30, and no new taxes will be needed to keep the budget balanced.

The 72-year-old governor presented his budget message the day the legislature convened, something of a precedent in itself. Normally, the budget is not ready before the third week of the session.

Would Have London Homeless at Palace

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, England (AP)—A Presbyterian minister suggested today Queen Elizabeth should invite some of London's homeless to come and live in Buckingham Palace.

"There must be a great deal of spare room in the palace," the Rev. William Barbour wrote in his church magazine.

"I know if the queen allowed people in need of accommodation to share her house many other people would follow suit."

There are about 3,000 homeless in London. The vast palace has more than 600 rooms, many of them unused.

Contrary to popular belief, some owls see well in the daylight.

Newsmen Are Told:

Kennedy Plans in 1962 Call For No Surprises, No Heat

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's plans for 1962 — as outlined to newsmen over the weekend at Palm Beach — call for no surprises and little heat.

His views are authoritatively based on discussions he has had with men close to him.

What he is reported to have said adds up to leadership but of a kind neither sensational nor original. It was that way in 1961. He apparently wants it that way.

In foreign affairs he plans a steady plugging away at policies already established and, on domestic problems, a mild and cautious attitude which some may think too mild and overly cautious.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk once remarked to people around him that he does not want to be judged on the merit of some particular action but, when he is through, on the over-all value of events, past and ahead, seems to have pretty much the same view.

A Comparison

While Premier Khrushchev at 67 is 23 years Kennedy's senior, it is the older man who sounds like a romantic, the younger, the one without illusions.

While Khrushchev has predicted the triumph of communism like a man taking pep pills, Kennedy has repeatedly regarded the East-West struggle as long, bleak and rugged.

This showed up again in the Palm Beach reports which said he thinks the balance of power is on the side of the West—but perhaps only marginally.

Over the long run, he thinks the West can keep the margin but not so much as to have full freedom of action.

Otherwise, what came out of Palm Beach on his thinking about foreign affairs can be boiled down to this: That this country will follow the Truman-Eisenhower policy of aiding newly emerged nations, neutrals included, to help them stay free of Moscow. It will keep strong militarily and stand with its allies.

Will Continue

In other words: he'll keep on doing in 1962 what he did in 1961.

At home this year, as last, he has to deal with a Congress where, although his own Democrats are in a majority, the prevailing mood is and has been conservative.

His own performance last year, in dealing with Congress, was pretty conservative, too. He did not fight hard enough for his programs to make anyone very mad at home.

His own explanation for this may have been revealed at Palm Beach: that while he considers his administration progressive, his progressive aims are tempered by reality.

This could mean he did not spend time fighting Congress for something he didn't think would be approved or that he did not want to make so many people mad at him on one issue that they would gang up to block him on something else.

This, the Palm Beach stories indicate, will be his policy this year also.

Dice Game Thought Reason for Shooting

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 41-year-old man was under a first-degree murder charge today in a shooting that apparently stemmed from a dice-game brawl.

The victim, Ananias Duckworth, 29, an east side restaurant owner, was found New Year's Eve between two parked cars near his restaurant.

Police said Duckworth was shot in the chest by Neal Crescenzo, an uncle of a man Duckworth allegedly stabbed in a recent fight at a dice game. The shooting apparently occurred in the street.

Duckworth had been free on bail on a second-degree assault charge in the stabbing.

New York State Man Killed in Maryland

MITCHELLVILLE, Md. (AP)—The collision of an automobile and a small, foreign-made car killed a New York State man and sent four members of his family to a hospital.

Frederick Duchano, 37, of Star Lake, St. Lawrence County, N.Y., died in the crash Saturday night on U.S. highway 50, just east of here.

Police said his wife and three children, passengers in the smaller car, were not injured seriously. All were taken to a hospital in Annapolis for observation.

Dies of Burns

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Elsie Gross, 57, of suburban Cheektowaga, died Sunday night in St. Joseph's Inter-community Hospital of burns suffered in a kitchen fire several weeks ago at her home.

Former Mayor Dies

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Harrison R. Franklin, mayor of Pulaski from 1937 to 1949, died Sunday in House of Good Samaritan Hospital after a short illness. He was 87.

Why We Say--

FROM NOSE: If you put up your "dukes," your prepare your fists for a fight. The expression started because the Duke of Wellington had a large nose referred to as a "duke." A large fist was soon called a "duke buster" (or nose buster) and finally fists were just called dukes.

Scientific Advances Aid Nation's 26 Million Dogs

It was inevitable that with the giant steps being taken by the various sciences, "man's best friend" would come in for his share of the benefits. The dog population of this country, which is now in excess of 26 million, can boast of having some of the finest minds in dentistry, biology, virology, pathology, psychology, and medicine — among others — working in its behalf.

The scientific community's attention to dogs stems not only from the warm spot we hold for this animal, but from the undeniable fact that they are big business.

Half Billion Spent

In one recent year, for example, the American dog-owning public spent more than half-a-billion dollars for the care and service of this one category of pets. Some $350 million went for 2,500,000,000 pounds of dog food; leashes, collars and grooming aids cost $25,000,000. Another $35,000,000 was spent for dog licenses, and $100,000,000 on the original purchase price of dogs, medical care, and assorted items. With the canine population explosion over the past 30 years amounting to better than 200 per cent (as compared with only 50 per cent for humans) it looks like just the beginning.

Our canine companion is insurable, too. There are firms that will write up to $15,000 worth of life insurance on your pet. All you need do with one such company — aside from paying the fee — is place on record a "nose" print of your dog.

When dog owners want to purchase one of the larger policies, however, the company is a little more concerned about the estimated worth of the dog and requires proof of its value.

On the scientific side, psychologists have become involved in studies of dog-owner relationships which can create emotional problems such as the effect of a dog's illness or death on its owner. One case described is that of a man whose Doberman pinscher represented for him a symbol of independence. According to the psychologists, should the animal become ill and in need of nursing, the owner's attitude is likely to change.

React Differently

A very different reaction will take place in the woman whose need is to "mother" her poodle. Recovery time in each case would be different as would the way the owners should be counseled by the veterinarian.

In dentistry, new and improved methods have been developed for the care of canine teeth. The techniques, which are all performed under anesthesia, include tartar removal, painting teeth with tincture of iodine, brushing with coarse pumice, and the use of prophylactic paste, which is supposed to be helpful in cases of halitosis.

The nutritionist has had a great deal to do with dog's present well-being. Throwing him a bone or filling his plate with the left-overs from dinner is a far cry from the meals supplemented with protein, fat, carbohydrates and minerals which he receives today. The modern dog-owner watches calories; adds calcium to the puppy's or gestating dog's diet; and regulates vitamin intake.

Biscuits keep his teeth in trim, and he has a choice of tidbits flavored with beef, veal, chicken or liver.

It is on the medical frontier, however, where research advances are proving most beneficial for the dog. There is available a choice of almost every antibiotic, from penicillin through the tetracyclines. His worms are facing an all-out attack; his distemper has been inoculated almost out of existence; and a host of other diseases are being investigated and attacked.

Difficult to Medicate

Animals are notoriously difficult to medicate (as anyone who has ever attempted to give a cat an enema can attest) but researchers are now making this easier. As an example, a vetinol preparation for treating cough due to upper respiratory infection is now made to taste like liver.

Mark Twain provided a somewhat satirical justification for man's emotional investment in dogs when he observed that "if you pick up a starving dog and make him prosperous, he will not bite you. This is the principal difference between a dog and a man."

matter of Fact

The gold stock at Fort Knox is valued at more than $10 billion. And the government is taking no chances. The fabulous treasure is housed in a bombproof building, constructed of granite, steel and concrete, enclosing a torchproof steel and concrete vault. Added security is provided by guards, sentries, a steel fence and a photoelectric eye. And if that isn't enough, a nearby army post gives further protection.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

Social Scientists Will Look at College Years In Special Vassar Conference

Eminent Sociologists, Psychologists and Educators will gather at Vassar College this month (Jan. 12 and 13) to discuss challenging new findings about intellectual and personality development during the college years as reported in "The American College: A Psychological and Social Interpretation of the Higher Learning" (to be published by John Wiley, N. Y. on 1/2/62).

Discussion at the two-day Conference, which is titled 'The American College: The Social Scientists Challenge the Educators,' will take off from some of the research reports and analysis in the above volume. It is edited by Nevitt Sanford, Director of the Institute for the Study of Human Problems at Stanford University, and former Coordinator of the Mary Conover Mellon Foundation at Vassar College under whose auspices much of the research reported in the book was done.

The implications of these findings for higher education and the desirability of change in liberal arts institutions will be the subject of the opening address on Friday evening (1/12) by Karl W. Deutsch, Professor of Political Science at Yale University. Harold Taylor, former President of Sarah Lawrence College, will comment on Dr. Deutsch's address.

On Saturday, leading figures in social science and education, including seven college and foundation presidents, will examine present day liberal arts education in America. Miss Katharine McBride, president of Bryn Mawr College, will act as moderator. Panel Speakers will be Donald Young, president of the Russell Sage Foundation, who will reflect the sociologist's point of view; William C. H. Prentice, dean of Swarthmore College, who will speak from a psychologist's point of view; Benson Snyder, M.D., physciatrist-in-chief at Massachusetts Institute of Technology; and William Fels, president of Bennington College. Other participants in the discussion will be:

Louis T. Benezet, president, the Colorado College.

Frederick Burkhardt, president, American Council of Learned Societies.

Dana L. Farnsworth, M.D., director, health services, Harvard University.

Clarence Faust, president, the Fund for the Advancement of Education.

Mervin B. Freedman, coordinator of the Mellon Research Program and a contributor to "The American College."

Peter Madison, director, Counseling Service, Princeton University.

Jeanne L. Noble, School of Education, New York University.

Edward S. Noyes, acting president, College Entrance Examination Board.

Esther Raushenbush, Sarah Lawrence College.

Nevitt Sanford, former coordinator of the Mellon Research Program and editor of "The American College."

Father Charles E. Sheedy, dean, College of Arts and Letters, University of Notre Dame.

Robert J. Wert, vice provost, Stanford University.

Thirty-eight special guests, along with members of the Vassar College faculty and students, will join in the afternoon session.

According to Dr. Sanford "the book reveals the enormous impact of personality and social factors upon intellectual development. It demonstrates how various factors, such as the teacher's personality and the student society, do their work. It offers models for the analysis of the workings of such factors in colleges. The 'challence' is that colleges must understand such factors and learn to control them to the students' advantage."

AT THE COLLEGE YEARS —3

Some of the questions likely to be discussed at the conference will be:

What are the functions of colleges in American society?

What is success in college? How is degree of success to be estimated?

What is the ideal relationship of research and teaching?

What are the qualities to look for in entering students?

What do we know about fitting different educational programs to different kinds of students?

What are some of the main psychological barriers to effective performance by teachers, in the classroom and in other settings?

Is everybody happy about the present most typical organization of teaching — departments, classrooms, examinations?

The MARY CONOVER MELLON FOUNDATION was established at Vassar in 1949 by a grant of $2 million from Old Dominion Foundation. Among its objectives are the development of methods of education for maturity, and the fostering of the growth of mental and emotional maturity of students coincident with their intellectual development. A basic assumption of the program is that the period of adolescence and development, including the college years, can be crucial in the achievement of independence and maturity and can play an important role in developing character and personality as well as mind.

Some of the results of 6 years of Mellon studies of Vassar students and alumnae, made by means of tests, questionnaires, and interviews, appear in ten of the chapters of "The American College." The full findings are scheduled for future publication in a two-volume work devoted exclusively to Mellon Foundation studies of contemporary and former Vassar students.

Benedictine Auxiliary

The Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary will hold its first business meeting of the new year on Wednesday, Jan. 3 at 8:30 p. m., in the auditorium of the Nurses' Residence. Plans for the year will be made. Mrs. William Cranston, president, invites all members to attend. A social hour is planned. Refreshments will be served.

If you want your baked custard to be gold-color and smooth as glass, substitute 2 egg yolks for every whole egg called for.

Home Extension Service News

Making sewing a smaller gamble is discussed in the following article by Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent of the Ulster County Extension Service Association.

In a sense, sewing is a gamble; you have to invest money in a pattern and fabric—and time in making a garment, before you can see it.

Some women find it easy to imagine how a garment will look. Others do not. However, choosing a pattern does take some consideration as to ease of construction, which would involve the number of pattern pieces and the amount of detail. Also, the lines of the garment on your particular figure should be considered. Many times the drawings or sketches are not realistic. It does help to look for photographs of patterns made into garments and to carefully study them.

Choosing the correct size is another big consideration in dressmaking. Four measurements are important—the bust, waist, and hips, plus the back waist length.

The back waist length is the distance from the prominent bone at the base of the back of the neck—to the natural waistline in the middle of the back. This measure helps you determine the type of pattern—junior, misses, women's, or half-sizes—best for you.

Two women, a tall one and a short one, can have identical bust, waist, and hip measurements, but certainly should use different types of patterns. The back waist measure is the key to the appropriate type for each.

The bust measurement is most important when a dress, blouse, coat, or suit pattern is being selected. The tape measure should be placed over the fullest part of the bust.

The measurement at the natural waistline helps you find the size of pattern you should buy when the garment to be made is a skirt, shorts, or slacks. However, when the hip measurement is proportionately larger than the waist measurement, the hip measure should be respected. Hips usually are measured around the fullest part—about seven inches below the waistline.

When pattern shopping, forget about ready-to-wear sizes. Buy patterns according to body measurements and the size charts in the pattern books. Although pattern sizes are pretty much standardized now, patterns from different companies will allow varying amounts of ease. This accounts for the fact that a pattern from one company say in a size 14, does not fit as well as the size 14 pattern made by another pattern company. So when you find a make that seems to fit well and have the right amount of ease throughout, you would be wise to stay with that particular make pattern.

We have a number of interesting and helpful bulletins on sewing—stop in our office, 220 Wall Street, Kingston, N. Y.—brouse through the bulletin shelf. See for yourself. You may be pleasantly surprised at what Home Economics Extension has to offer.

At the Markets

Vegetables—Vegetable choices are numerous. Among the nutrient-packed green and yellow ones, choose broccoli, broccoli rabe, cabbage, carrots, leafy greens, and squash—both yellow and green types. Other top choices include snap beans, beets, Pascal celery, eggplant, green and yellow onions, potatoes, green peppers, radishes, and tomatoes.

Fruits and Nuts — Citrus top fruit choices — Florida oranges and grapefruit, limes, and kumquats. Avocados and cranberries are also abundant. McIntosh and Rome apples are low-cost choices whereas well-colored Red and Golden Delicious are high-cost ones. Pecans are in record-large supply. Use them in winter fruit cup with grapefruit and orange segments and apple slices. Or add them to cranberries in a cooked relish.

Activities Listed By B'nai B'rith For This Year

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 27 the Kingston Chapter of B'nai B'rith Women met at the Ahavath Israel Vestry Hall. Mrs. Charles Ronder, vice president, conducted the business meeting. The correspondence was read by Mrs. Robert Ronder. A letter was received from the Middletown State Hospital thanking the group for gifts sent to patients. A farewell letter from past president, Mrs. Max Goldberg, was read.

Mrs. Irving Alcon announced that during February the group will once again visit and plan a program for the veterans at the Castle Point Hospital in Beacon. Mrs. William Kline reported a successful party given by B'nai B'rith Women for the girls at the Wassaic Colony in Kingston. Mrs. Stanley Caple and Mrs. Arnold Pinsly reported on the calendar which will be distributed in March. This is the organization's sole fund-raising effort. A report on the B'nai B'rith Youth Convention held in Kingston, December 22-25 was submitted by Mrs. Stanley Plasker. The convention was attended by more than 100 young people and was an educational as well a social success.

Mrs. R. Bernstein and Mrs. Garland were introduced as guests for the evening. It was announced that a coffee hour for prospective members would be held January 31 at the home of Mrs. Stanley Kohnberg, membership chairman.

The program for the evening was a Game Night. Mrs. Howard Geller and Mrs. Harvey Kronick served as program chairmen. A committee of hostesses directed by Mrs. Ross Ellis, provided refreshments.

Faculty Member At Lourdes Receives Fine Arts Award

Witnesses Set Final Plans for Weekend Meet

The Kingston Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses is making final plans for the three-day Bible Study Conference to be held at the Municipal Auditorium here Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 5-7. Convening with them will be Witnesses from this and five surrounding counties.

The announcement came from Ernest Kidd Jr., presiding minister of the local group. He also told of special car pool arrangements being made to transport the 1200 delegates expected.

"These three-day conferences, held semi-annually, are training programs in active Christianity," Mr. Kidd explained. "The program is extended into missionary activity in and around the community in which all the family may share."

Friday evening's ministry training school and missionary service meeting will set the theme for the door-to-door ministry activity scheduled for Saturday. "All are encouraged to take part in this apostolic method of promoting Bible knowledge," he added. Saturday afternoon there will be a mass baptism.

Witnesses will invite all in the Kingston area to attend the public lecture, Uniting Men in a Split Up World. The talk will be delivered by the District Director of Jehovah's Witnesses, Bruce E. Giffin, Sunday at 3 p. m.

DAUGHTERS' NAMES NOT ON INVITATION

Q: The daughter of a friend is to be married in three weeks. Some time ago this friend said my whole family (my husband, myself and two teen-age daughters) were invited to the wedding. However, the invitation was addressed to Mr. and Mrs. alone, and asks for a reply. Should I accept for myself and my husband, or should I take the hostess's verbal invitation seriously and accept for my daughters as well?

A: As long as she told you they were expected, you can perfectly well call her on the telephone and say, "In speaking of the wedding some time ago you said Mary and Jane were to be invited. The invitation that has just come did not include them. Does this mean that you now find you haven't room for them?"

Q: I am to be married in the minister's study. The guests will include just our immediate families and a few very close friends of each, 35 in all. I have been told that this is too many to invite to the minister's house. Will you please give me your opinion?

A: Thirty-five will be too many.

Q: Would it be proper to send a card reading, "Just to say 'Hello'" to a young man with whom I went out two months ago and whom I haven't heard from since? He is very nice.

A: While not improper, such a card could give him the impression that you are running after him and defeat its purpose.

Mrs. Muller Improving

The condition of Mrs. Helen Muller, 54, of Purling, seriously injured in a car crash on Route 23 in East Windham December 20, which took the life of another woman, was reported improving today at Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill. According to troopers Mrs. Muller suffered a fractured back and internal injuries in the skidding accident which caused the death of Miss Ruth Seward, also of Purling. Mrs. Muller's husband, who was also injured in the crash has since been discharged from the hospital. The car in which the trio was returning to Purling from Ashland, Greene County, skidded at the top of the mountain, went off the road and rammed into a tree, troopers reported.

Former Broome DA Is New County Judge

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — Louis M. Greenblott, Broome County district attorney since 1956, is the new judge of the county court.

Greenblott, 42, and a Republican, was sworn in Monday, two days after his appointment by Gov. Rockefeller.

Greenblott succeeded Robert O. Brink, also a Republican, who was elected a justice of the State Supreme Court last November. Brink assumed his new office yesterday.

The new county judge is a graduate of Cornell University and Cornell Law School. He lives in Binghamton.

'Paper Dolls' for Grownups Save Work in Room Planning

As little girls, most of us adored playing with paper dolls. What fun, changing from one dress to another! And now, a grown-up version of paper dolls can do a lot to help in deciding on a new look for our homes.

First, draw an outline of a room that needs a different look. Make it to scale showing windows, doors, fireplace and so on. To the same scale, cut little pieces of paper that will represent furniture to go in the room.

Shift and reshift until you come up with a furniture arrangement (on paper) that you like. Your husband will be delighted when he discovers that you know just where you want each piece when it's time to move the actual furniture.

This should come before the selection of colors and pattern for furniture covers. You can even use an actual doll house to the plan in mind.

Dear Polly: I gave my son and his wife his great-grandmother's bedroom furniture. It is beautiful burl walnut; the bed has a big carved headboard and footboard; there are a wash stand and marble-topped dresser.

I am sick about it. She painted it all, tacked material on the headboard and threw the footboard away. And then, of all things, she took the mirror off the dresser and placed it on the wall.

Don't young people have any respect for beautiful antiques? What can I say to her about the awful thing she has done?—Mrs. K. D.

Dear Mrs. K. D.: Nothing. You gave her the furniture so it is no longer yours to comment on. Keep hands off. Age doesn't make everything beautiful.

The word "antiques" is often stretched to cover some ugly pieces. Sounds to me as if you have a rather clever daughter-in-law.

Dear Polly: Please help me with my living room. Walls are pearl color and rug is medium brown. There are two chairs in pumpkin brocade.

I have blonde furniture handmade by my husband that I want to keep. Curtains are cream with gold line stripe. What color shall I choose for a new sofa?—Mrs. A. H.

Dear Mrs. A. H.: Introduce some pattern by means of a sofa covered with quilted fabric that has a design in pumpkin, green and off-white on a brown ground. Some other touches of green should help, too.

Dear Reader: A heavy volume of mail doesn't permit Mrs. Cramer to answer her letters and post cards individually. But she will comment in her column on decorating problems of general interest. She cannot undertake to return floor plans or fabric swatches which are enclosed with letters.

Why is Kansas called the Sunflower State?

The sunflower was proposed as the State flower and emblem of Kansas as early as September 2, 1880, when Noble L. Prentis wrote in the Atchison Champion:

The capitol square (at Topeka) is surrounded by a dense growth, rods in width, of rampant sunflowers. They grow as big, rank and yellow as if they were forty miles from a house. The sunflower ought to be made the emblem of our State. Nothing checks it or kills it. It is always "happy as a big sunflower." Grasshoppers have never held the edge on it; and in droughty times when everything else wilts and throws up its hands, the sunflower continues business at the old stand. It probably has some private arrangements with nature for securing aid.

Crimson Tide Solidifies High Grid Ranking

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Alabama's convincing Sugar Bowl victory over Arkansas left the Crimson Tide still towering over the field today as the No. 1 college football team in the country.

Aabama's 10-3 decision in New Orleans Monday turned out to be pretty much of a routine job—a rock-ribbed defense and enough offense to keep the enemy off balance.

But if Alabama didn't get much satisfaction out of its Sugar Bowl victory, Minnesota and Texas, two other bowl victors, were walking on air.

Minnesota defeated UCLA in the Rose Bowl 21-3 to make amends for its loss a year ago. The Gophers got in the back door, when Big Ten champion Ohio State declined a bid.

Texas, playing before a home crowd in Dallas in the Cotton Bow, defeated Mississippi 12-7. Oe Miss was installed as a 3½ point favorite. The Rebels were the ony favorite to go down.

Louisiana State polished off Colorado as expected 25-7 in the rain in Miami's Orange Bowl.

Alabama managed to score only one touchdown, and that is a tribute to Arkansas. It came in the first period when Pat Trammell climaxed a 79-yard march by going over from the 12. The big gain during the drive was a 43-yard jaunt by Mike Fracchia, who shrugged off a broken nose to play.

Tim Davis added a field goal and Mickey Cissell kicked one for Arkansas.

Nine Heart Attacks

Alabama coach Bear Bryant said he had "nine heart attacks" during the game.

"Arkansas was in better shape than we were and was well prepared for us," he added.

"It was their defense," said Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles. "We couldn't move the ball on the ground."

Minnesota lost last year's Rose Bowl game to Washington, 17-7. This, combined with the fact they were the second choice, made the game a critical one for the Gophers.

Al-America Sandy Stephens was the big gun for Minnesota, scoring two touchdowns, both on line bucks. Bill Munsey plunged over from the 3 for the other. Bobby Smith kicked a 28-yard field goal for UCLA in the first period.

"This squad heard a lot about that loss to Washington for a solid year," said Minnesota Coach Murray Warmath. "I guess the boys were as tired as I was listening to it."

Said UCLA Coach Bill Barnes: "Minnesota didn't surprise us with anything. They just overpower you. They have a big strong line and can move anybody around."

Passer Is Stopped

Texas' big problem was to stop Mississippi's ace passer Glynn Griffing. The problem was solved and that spelled the difference. Griffing did connect with Reed Davis on a 20-yard flip in the end zone in the third quarter for the Rebels' only touchdown, but otherwise spent a frustrating day.

The Rebes, for their part, pretty well bottled up All-America Jim Saxton. He bucked over from the 1 for the first Longhorn score. Otherwise, Mike Cotten handled the offense and tossed a 25-yard pass to Jack Collins for the other touchdown.

"I had never beaten Mississippi," said Texas Coach Darrell Royal. "This makes up in part for the drubbing they gave us in the Sugar Bowl in 1958."

Mississippi Coach Johnny Vaught said his club was surprised by a man-in-motion series.

"We didn't know what to do with it until after the half," he commented gloomily.

Trouble at the Start

Louisiana State, the heaviest favorite of all four bowl teams, appeared in for trouble at the start. Wendell Harris sent the Bengals in front with a first-period field goal, and they scored two more points on a safety a few minutes later.

Then Colorado fullback Loren Schweninger intercepted a pass and whipped 59 yards to zip the Buffaoes into the lead. It didn't last long, though. Charles Cranford plunged over from the 1, Jimmy Field sprinted 9 yards for another touchdown and Gene Sykes blocked an attempted punt by Huck McBride in the end zone and fell on the ball for a third score.

"I believe we are as good as any team in the country," said LSU Coach Paul Dietzel, who is rumored to be heading for Army.

"I don't think the team was as sharp as it was in the reguar season when we played a major opponent every week."

Colorado Coach Sonny Grandelius said his club "just made mistakes," and, he added wistfully, "we picked the wrong day to make all our mistakes."

Packers' Shares Hit $5,195.44

By PAUL CLIFFORD

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The National Football League champion Green Bay Packers settled down today, protected against a long, cold winter by the glow of success—their resounding 37-0 triumph over the New York Giants.

The Packers also were snug in the high temperatures of prosperity, their individual shares of $5,195.44 from the receipts of Sunday's game. They agreed it was great to do business with the Giants.

So did the players' wives, wrapped in the warmth of mink stoles presented by the Green Bay management when the club won the Western Division title a month ago, also by beating the Giants.

The new crown is the seventh championship for the Packers and the first won at home since the club entered the league as a charter member in 1921.

The title was the first for Green Bay since beating the Giants in New York in 1944 and it was the climax of a complete rebuilding begun three years ago when Vince Lombardi quit as a Giant assistant coach to become coach and general manager of the Packers.

The conquest came on a combination of a battering Packer defense that created opportunities and a sparkling offense that cashed in on them.

The Packer defensive unit held the New Yorkers to 31 yards rushing, 119 in the air and six first downs. The defensive corps grabbed four Giant passes and recovered one New York fumble.

The Packer offense, directed by quarterback Bart Starr and sparked by halfback Paul Hornung, did the rest.

Starr's play calling produced 19 first downs, gained 181 yards on the ground and 164 in the air. Starr passed for three touchdowns, and when his passes were not wrecking the Giants, Hornung was running through big holes in the New York line.

Hornung, on leave from his jeep-driving chores with the Army at Ft. Riley, Kan., carried the burden of the ground attack.

Hornung, the league's most valuable player in the past season and its scoring leader for the past three years, carried 20 times for 89 yards. He scored 19 points, setting an individual title game record. He scored one touchdown, booted four extra points and kicked three field goals to break the mark of 18 set by Cleveland's Otto Graham in the 1954 game with Detroit.

Each Giant received $3,339.99 as his share of the gate.

Ray's, Trailways Cafeteria Register Rec Cage Loop Wins

Ray's Tackle Shop recovered from its only loss of the season in Poughkeepsie on Saturday and turned back Adolph's of Red Hook, 56-49, in a Rec Cage league tilt last night at the Municipal Auditorium.

In the other contest, Trailways Cafeteria defeated the Byrne Chevrolet squad, 61-52, thanks to a 24 point performance by Richie Strong.

The Tackle Shop led by only three points, 26-23, after the half but Coach Ward Dunham's cagers had a big third period and won easily, despite a late flurry by the Red Hook team.

Champ Holstein, Chick Boice, Harry Pratt and Joe Klonowski were in double figures for the winners. Ron Miller and Howie Mann led Adolph's.

Strong tallied 12 baskets to spark the Trailways. He was aided by Bill DuBois, who had 14 points. High Scoring Al Byrne had only five markers and Marty Kaye didn't play so the others picked up the scoring slack in splendid fashion.

Bruce Wiederspiel and Mel Williams were high for Byrne, which had 25 points in the final period but could score only 27 in the first three quarters.

Steers Shatter Saints Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Kansas City Steers have snapped the most impressive winning streak compiled during the first part of the American Basketball League's inaugural season and ballooned their lead to 3½ games in the Western Division.

Playing a sub-par San Francisco team that had three players hampered by injuries, the Steers rolled to a 107-93 victory Monday night, ended the Saints' 10-game victory string at home and padded their first-place edge over idle Los Angeles.

Meanwhile, Cleveland and Pittsburgh remained in a tie for the top spot in the East. The Pipers whipped Chicago's Majors 117-99 and the Rens defeated the Hawaii Chiefs 106-87 in the other games scheduled.

The Steers, led by Bill Bridges and Nick Mantis who split 40 points, built a 24-point lead against the Saints at one point and breezed to their 24th win in 34 games—the best record in the ABL.

Fulk, Sims Win Bridge Club Game

Lloyd Fulk, Syracuse, and Laszlo Sima, Woodstock, posted a fine 60% game to take first place as the Glenerie Bridge Club held its regular fractional point game last week at the Ridgely Casino in Stone Ridge.

Second went to Dr. Habeeb Maroon and Dr. John Olivet of Kingston with a 59½% game. Third went to Milton Dubin and Stanley Kaplan of Kingston with a 58% game and fourth was won by Roy Wulff and Carl Kunz of Kingston with a 54% game.

Muncie Fastest Skipper; Cats Are Most Exciting

By WM. TAYLOR McKEOWN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Something like 35,875,000 boatmen and women enjoyed the water during 1961, according to estimates.

A small percentage made big attempts to go faster than anyone else.

Speediest skipper of all was Mill Muncey of Seattle.

Competing in the unlimited hydroplane class, where the skittering bombs must move at more than 100 miles per hour to qualify for many events, Muncey won the three-heat Gold Cup in Reno without ever placing first. The trick there is to drive consistantly and build up points without blasting off some ripple at 150 mph and blowing up your boat.

Muncey's supercharged steed also took the President's, Governor's and Diamond Cups.

Winning as Miss Thriftway last year, Muncey's boat is now called Miss Century 21.

For the third year in a row, and last time, Bob Hayward of Ontario won for Canada the International Harmsworth Trophy and turned back United States challengers with his unlimited hydro, Miss Supertest.

One month after his Harmsworth victory, Hayward's craft went airborne and flipped at high speed and he was killed.

High point drivers in the smaller inboard and outboard classes included Dave Berg, Minneapolis; Hugh Entrop, Seattle; Keith Stippich, Milwaukee, and Dick O'Dea.

Top performer in predicted log racing — the only contest where speed doesn't count — was Elias Kalil of Manhasset.

Sailing speeds are slower, but racing fleets are larger and competition just as spirited. Fastest sailboats are the lake scows. An expert in this league, Bud Melges, Jr., of Lake Geneva, Wis., switched to sail a Dragon and conquered all comers in Montreal to take the Mallory Cup and the North American Sailing Championship for the third time.

Women's winner of the equivalent Adams Cup, Timothea Schneider of Oyster Bay, N. Y., a coed studying naval architecture at Michigan, captured her final series and the title for the continent.

One-design championships went to America's Cup skipper Briggs Cunningham in the Atlantics; Thomas Allen of Buffalo for Lightnings; Erik and Axel Schmidt, twins from Brazil, in Snipes; and Bill Buchan, Seattle, sailing Stars.

Most exciting of the new sailboat designs are the swift catamarans. For the first international championship in this class an English Hellcat sailed circles around America's best.

Offshore, Bill Luders' sloop Storm, from Stamford, Conn., stirred up a gale by winning with a tremendous jib and practically no mainsail.

Jack Powell's new fiberglass yawl from St. Petersburg, Fla., Paper Tiger, won the Miami-Nassau race and the Southern Circuit title. Newbold Smith's Reindeer, out of Philadelphia, did the equivalent in the north by taking the Annapolis-Newport race and enough others to earn top score in the Northern Ocean Racing circuit.

Dick Kaup's Blue Horizon rated a first in the Chicago-Machinac event. Bob Robbs, from the drylands of Phoenix, went the long wet way between San Pedro and Honolulu in Nam Sang to win the Trans-Pacific classic.

Ohio State Unanimous No. 1 Pick

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

If there is any dissension about it, it isn't apparent. Ohio State seems to have convinced everyone it is the undisputed leader in college basketball.

The ten teams the mighty Buckeyes have rolled over so far are convinced. So are the 42 panel members voting in The Associated Press poll. They again made Ohio State the unanimous choice for No. 1 in this week's balloting.

The Buckeyes, deep in talent and experience and with a magnificent leader in Jerry Lucas, swept to three victories and the title in the premier event of the hectic holiday tournament program, the Los Angeles Classic. They beat Washington, UCLA and nationally ranked Southern California.

Cincinnati (10-1), Kansas State (10-1), Kentucky (8-1) and Duke (8-1) bolstered their national ratings with a successful week, while Villanova (11-0), Mississippi State (9-0) and Bowling Green (8-1) climbed into the top ten with tournament triumphs. Southern Cal (9-2) and Duquesne (8-1) slipped in the rankings, and West Virginia (7-1), Wichita (10-2) and Purdue (7-2) fell out entirely.

Cincinnati took a firmer grip on second place by beating St. John's, LaSalle and Wisconsin in the Holiday Festival at New Yok. Kentucky jumped from sixth to third after victories over Yale and Notre Dame, Kansas State advanced one place to fourth following decisions over Nebraska, Missouri and Iowa State in the Big Eight tourney, and Duke's 75-73 squeaker over Wake Forest moved the Blue Devils from tenth to eighth.

Villanova powered its way from nowhere to No. 5 on the strength of three impressive performances in the Quaker City tournament in Philadelphia. The spirited Wildcats knocked over Niagara, Duquesne and Iowa. Mississippi State stretched its winning string to nine by trimming Maryland and Louisiana State in the Sugar Bowl and grabbed the ninth spot. Bowling Green took over No. 10 after clipping a strong field in the All-College tournament. The Falcons scored over Seattle, Wichita and Houston.

With its sweep of all 42 first place votes, Ohio State gained the maximum of 420 points, based on ten for first, nine for second and so on. Cincinnati was a near-unanimous choice for runnerup, collecting 357 points out of a possible 378.

The top ten:

1. Ohio State	420
2. Cincinnati	357
3. Kentucky	268
4. Kansas State	231
5. Villanova	195
6. Southern California	176
7. Duquesne	118
8. Duke	113
9. Mississippi State	90
10. Bowling Green	67

Hall Leads Hawks To 2-0 NHL Win

The Chicago Black Hawks held down sole possession of fourth place in the National Hockey League today, thanks to goalie Glenn Hall.

The Hawks blanked the league-leading Montreal Canadiens 2-0 Monday night with Hall kicking out 32 blasts at his net. It marked the fourth shutout of the year for the 30-year-old goalie and was by far his most impressive.

The victory snapped a string of four straight ties for the Hawks and enabled them to edge ahead of the idle Detroit Red Wings in their battle for fourth.

In the other other game, the New York Rangers turned back the last place Boston Bruins 4-2.

Art Tokle Captures First In Lake Placid's Ski Jump

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP—Art Tokle of Bear Mountain, a former national ski-jumping champion, is the winner of Lake Placid's New Year's ski jump.

Tokle barely edged Roy Sherwood of Salisbury, Conn., another former national champion, in distance Sunday but outclassed him by 7.9 points in performance.

Tokle was awarded 219.8 points on leaps of 214 and 215 feet. Sherwood, with leaps of 214 and 212 feet, amassed 211.9 points.

Robert Birk of Lake Placid won the Class B championship with jumps of 191 and 198 feet for 189 points.

Twenty-five jumpers competed in the annual event.

On Saturday, 17-year-old Jim Barker of Lake Placid jumped 89 and 90 feet to win the Class 1 competition of the New York State Junior Ski-Jumping championship. He scored 210.5 points, compared with 208.1 points for Pete David of Gould Academy in Maine, who leaped 93 and 91 feet. The event was for boys 16-18 years old.

David Merrill of Brattleboro, Vt., took the Class 2 title for 14 and 15 year olds with jumps of 81 and 83 feet for 185.8 points. James Colby of Lake Placid, with leaps of 78 and 83 feet and 184.6 points, finished second. Sandra Vitvitsky of Lake Placid, the only girl entered in the competition, placed third with jumps of 74 and 80 feet for 182.2 points.

In another competition Saturday, Karl Bohlin of Minneapolis won the 15 kilometer cross-country ski race in the first event of tryouts for the four-member U.S. Nordic team, which will compete in an international meet in Poland next month. He was timed in 1:01.26.

Mike Elliot, 19, of Durango, Colo., finished second in 1:02.33.

Fifteen skiers were entered in the race, sponsored by the U.S. Amateur Ski Association.

Art Market Is Winner Of Santa Anita Race

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Art Market won his second victory in four days Monday at Santa Anita and this one really counted.

J.J. Fendrick's 4-year-old son of To Market captured the $28,250 San Gabriel Handicap before a crowd of 42,699. He won in a blanket finish, beating Grey Eagle by a nose and The Axe 2nd by a head. The mile and one-eighth was run in 1:48 2-5.

Last Thursday Art Market beat Micarlo by a half length in the Seattle World's Fair purse. But the stewards disqualified him for lugging in near the wire and placed him second. For failure to keep Art Market straight, jockey Willie Shoemaker is sitting out a suspension. Ismael Valenzuela was aboard the winner Monday and he gave him a fine ride.

Westchester Stars Clobber Tackle Shop for Title, 98-74

Combining their superior height with some fantastic shooting, the Westchester All-Stars routed Ray's Tackle Shop of Kingston, 98-74, in the finals of the first annual NSO Holiday Cage tournament Saturday at Lincoln Center in Poughkeepsie.

The Westchester club moved to an early 18-5 lead and was never headed. The champions had four players over 6-5 and they not only controlled the backboards but hit with almost every kind of shot from the outside. It was a mismatch.

The Tackle Shop, which had been unbeaten until the contest, came to within nine points on two different occasions, the final time late in the game. But it was unable to get any closer as the winners came up with late scoring spurts.

Seven players saw action for Westchester and six of them were in double figures. Harry Pratt tallied 19 points for the losers in a superb show. Bob Bondar, Leo Armstead and Joe Klonowski were also in double digits but to no avail.

In the third place game, NSO Walloped the Pine Plains Bombardiers, minus Bill Smith, 90-64.

The box score:

Westchester All Stars (98)

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

78, 61, 55, 54, 52. . . check. . 43, 50, 57, 55, 59, 51. . No that's not a quarterback snapping off signals.

It's just a rundown on the scoring totals for Wilt Chamberlain in 11 of his last 13 games. It divides off to a fantastic 55.10 average for the distance.

And what effect does it have on some segments of our sports thinking? A gloomy prediction that professional basketball is on the way. The prophets of gloom and doom claim they can see the unmistakable warnings on the wall.

Wilt (The Stilt) racks up points at incredible pace. Roger Maris shatters (or did he?) Babe Ruth's seasonal record with 61 home runs and the purists scream. The basketball points and baseball home runs are getting too cheap. Professional football teams make shambles of the once sacred touchdown and what do we hear? Pro football is on its way to replacing baseball as the national pastime. Don't mortgage the family homestead on it.

It is possible that Wilt Chamberlain may be, in the words of Phog Allen, his mentor at Kansas, "the greatest player who ever lived." Would the purists grudgingly concede that Chamberlain just gets better as he goes along? Or is basketball deteriorating?

Let's examine the record. In 1951, Big George Mikan of the fabled Minneapolis Lakers averaged 28.4 points a game and was acclaimed the Basketball Player of the Half Century. That was a record until Bob Pettit averaged 29.2 in 1959. In the 1959-60 as an NBA rookie, Chamberlain averaged a record 37.6. He upped it to 38.4 in his sophomore year. Right now he is close to the 50-mark.

• How Much Change:

Pro basketball has changed, but has it really changed that much? Maybe it's hard to believe but only three players have ever exceeded Mikan's average of 10 years ago. Elgin Baylor, rated by some experts a better player than Wilt, opened with 29.6 as a frosh and hit 34.8 last season. Jack Twyman had 31.1 two years ago and Oscar Robertson, 30.5, a year ago.

The history of basketball is dotted with the names of "homers" - players who can burn up the boards in friendly confines but choke on the road. Not so with the Stilt. In his first 14 home games in Philly, he averaged 49.7. In 18 road games and on neutral courts he fashioned a 47.0 average. Hardly the statistics of a homer.

Admittedly, Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen, who lured Chamerlain to Kansas may be slightly prejudiced, but he refuses to back down on his appraisal of Wilt as the greatest ever. "And he will remain in a class by himself for a long, long time. He is one of the finest all-round athletes I've ever seen and one of the most intelligent, too. He had an IQ of 127," says Dr. Allen.

Dr. Allen told the Sporting News he wanted to postpone his retirement from coaching for one year so that he could have Chamberlain play for him. "Frankly, I only wanted to stuff the 10-foot basket down the throat of the Rules Committee. I was sure I could have easily designed my plays with Wilt as the key so he'd tally 50 to 60 points a night." And a college ball game lasts only 40 minutes compared to 48 minutes for the pros.

Dr. Allen believes that the baskets should be higher than any man can reach or touch by jumping. "It should be four feet above the tallest player's head," he says. "Back in 1929, when I had Al Wellinghaus who was 6 feet 7 - a big man for his era - I wrote a magazine story, "Dunking Is Not Basketball."

• The Very Greatest:

How great is Chamberlain? In the eyes of Allen, he is in a class by himself. "I had 16 All-America stars in my day. Wilt is in a seperate category. One just cannot compare him with any of the other greats. Few realize it, but with his 250 pounds, Wilt can jump 24 inches off the floor. Just how good is that? Well, there isn't one player in 20 - big or small - who can do that!"

"Only by raising the hoops to 12 feet will they be able to cut him down to size. I had four 12-foot goals which I used to emphasize the necessity of arching his shots. I once mentioned to Wilt that they might raise the baskets to 12 feet and he quickly replied 'Why discriminate against the tall man?"

That's part of the Wilt Chamberlain legend. What can we expect of him next? Oh, probably a 100-point NBA performance, that's all.

Clarkson Points For 12 in Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Undefeated Clarkson, Upstate New York's top college hockey team, tries for its 11th and 12th victories of the season this week against opponents from New Jersey and Massachusetts.

The Engineer, idle since winning the ECAC holiday tournament Dec. 22, meets Princeton tomorrow and Boston College Saturday. Both games will be played at Potsdam.

Princeton also faces two other Upstate teams this week — St. Lawence at Canton tonight and Rensselaer Poly at Troy Friday.

RPI, winner of two straight games in its annual, three-game round-robin tournament last week, lost the third contest Saturday night and finished second to Michigan in the four-team competition. Michigan defeated RPI, 8-3, for a sweep of its three games.

Alworth Signs Charger Pact

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The rest of the American Football League may not be faring well in its fight with the rival National Football League for the top collegiate players, but the San Diego Chargers are more than holding their own.

Charger end Coach Al Davis handed Arkansas halfback Lance Alworth a contract under a goal post at the end of the Sugar Bowl game between Arkansas and Alabama Monday.

Alworth immediately signed it.

A few yards away, Coach Red Hickey of the NFL's San Francisco 49ers, looked dejected. He had reached Alworth first as the 178-pound halfback walked off the field. The 49ers picked Alworth in the first round of the NFL draft.

Alworth, a Brookhaven, Miss., product, said he picked San Diego because "The AFL is a new league. I'll have a chance to grow with it."

He became the second No. 1 choice of the NFL to be signed by the Chargers, who two weeks ago got Kansas Quarterback John Hadl — Detroit's selection. Hadl was picked the outstanding player in Saturday's East-West game at San Francisco.

Otherwise, the NFL has signed seven of its first round selections —headed by Heisman Trophy winner Ernie Davis of Syracuse, who went to Cleveland, after the Browns obtained rights to him from Washington.

The jubilant Al Davis said terms of the contract would't be released.

"It was very respectable. That's all I can say," said the 32-year-old Charger assistant.

Alworth was Oakland's second choice in the AFL player draft, but Davis said the Chargers "swapped several players" for the speedy player.

In Oakland, Raider General Manager Wes Fry said his team got four Chargers for rights to Alworth. He said Oakland has decided on two, but hasn't picked the others and did not announce any names.

Baylor Leaves Lakers Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Lakers, Western Division leaders of the National Basketball Association, are slated to lose All-Star Elgin Baylor to the U.S. Army today.

Baylor, the league's second leading scorer with a 38 point average, is due to report for Army duty at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Baylor's final game as a civilian was a Los Angeles victory. The Lakers turned back the Philadelphia Warriors 114-111 at Los Angeles Monday night.

The former Seattle star, in his fourth season in the NBA, collected 33 points but yielded scoring honors to teammate Jerry West who hit for 36.

In other games Monday night, the Syracuse Nats defeated the Cincinnati Royals 110-106 and the St. Louis Hawks whipped the Detroit Pistons 145-139.

The Lakers opened up a 9½ game lead over Cincinnati in the Western Division in beating Philadelphia for the fifth time in eight meetings.

MORE THAN 15,000 women bowlers are expected to compete in the annual WIBC National Championship tournament at Squaw Peak Lanes, Phoenix, Arizona, beginning April 5. Tournament entries close January 24.

By far the largest sports event in the world in which women participate, the 1962 National Championship Tournament will draw from two million sanctioned women bowlers throughout the country.

Team entrants will compete in two divisions—Division No. 1 for teams averaging 751 and over, and Division No. 2 for teams averaging 750 and under. Doubles and Singles events have no divisions.

Last year's tournament at Ft. Wayne drew 3330 teams—1087 in Division No. 1 and 2243 in Division No. 2 — and 5877 Doubles. Truly a national event, 540 local Associations were represented, coming from 41 states, Canada, and Puerto Rico. Contestants divided $160,632 in prize money.

During the Tournament, on May 7-9, more than 1000 delegates will gather for the 25th Annual WIBC Convention at the Hotel Westward Ho. These delegates, representing women bowling in 50 states, will discuss and decide the rules which will govern women's bowling locally and the WIBC nationally.

Marshall Paces Springfield Club

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If the Hershey Bears had two Willie Marshalls, they probably would be at the head of the American Hockey League today instead of panting along behind the Springfield Indians.

Marshall scored his second hat trick of the season Monday night and his production spelled the difference in Hershey's 6-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Hornets.

Marshall now has scored three goals in one game 15 times in his career and holds the all-time AHL record in that department. This was his second hat trick of the year.

Parker MacDonald, Hec LaLande and Les Duff each chipped in with one goal for the Bears, who trail the Indians by eight points. Gene Umbriaco scored two goals for the losers.

In other games, the Providence Reds downed the Rochester Americans 6-4 and the Buffalo Bisons whipped the Cleveland Barons 4-2.

The Reds raced to a 5-0 lead in the first two periods on goals by George Ranieri, Stan Balulk, Pierre Brillant, Matt Ravlich and Jim Bartlett. The Americans came back in the final stanza on goals by Jim Pappin, Dick Gamble, Bruce Draper and Bill White. Player-Coach Fernie Flaman got the last Providence goal.

The Cullen brothers, Brian and Barry, ganged up on the Barons scoring the last three Bison goals in the final period. Brian scored twice, breaking a 1-1 tie. Fred Glover got one for Cleveland. Barry then cashed his 20th goal of the season into an empty net.

Upstate Fives Fare Badly in Tourney Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Except for Rochester and Union, Upstate New York's tournament-minded college basketball teams fared badly in New Year's weekend competition.

Rochester defeated Columbia, 82-65, Saturday night to win the Downeast Classic at Bangor, Maine. Union, with a 70-65 victory over St. Lawrence, shared with Kenyon the championship in Union's round-robin tournament at Schenectady. Kenyon downed Hamilton, 72-61.

St. Bonaventure and Cornell were beaten in championship games. The Bonnies fell to Detroit, 77-70, in the Motor City Tournament at Detroit. Drake beat Cornell, 66-65, for the Queen City title at Buffalo.

DePaul trounced Syracuse, 96-59, in the consolation game of the Motor City. St. Joseph's trimmed Canisius, 66-63, in the consolation game of the Queen City.

Niagara, with a 77-70 victory over Penn State, had to settle for seventh place in the Quaker City tournament at Philadelphia.

Rochester Tech finished seventh in its invitational tournament at Rochester by defeating Brooklyn Poly, 63-55. Buffalo came in sixth in the Springfield, Mass., tournament, by losing to Vermont, 66-58.

Activity for Upstate teams this week will be slim until Saturday night, as students returned gradually to their campuses after the Christmas vacation.

The week's schedule:

Wednesday—Belmont Abbey at St. Bonaventure.

Thursday — Utica at Rochester Tech, Syracuse at Colgate.

Friday—Potsdam at Rochester Tech, Ithaca at New York Athletic Club, Hartwick at Alfred, Toronto at Buffalo State.

Saturday—Plattsburgh at Cortland, Ithaca at Utica, Harpur at Union, Clarkson at Rochester, Syracuse at St. Johns, Potsdam at Brockport, St. Bonaventure vs. Duquesne and Dayton vs. Canisius at Buffalo War Memorial Auditorium, Iona at Niagara, Hamilton at Rensselaer Poly, Toronto at Rochester Tech, Siena at St. Francis, Pace at Albany, LeMoyne at Hobart, Hartwick at Roberts Wesleyan, Buffalo at Boston University.

Accord Defeats Yellow Jackets In 'Y' Contest

Accord nipped the Yellow Jackets, 44-41, in a Kingston YMCA Winter league basketball game Saturday. Fred Wustrau rimmed 15 points to pace the winners while Rick Gray and Bob Smith had 10 each for the Yellow Jackets.

Accord led, 12-7, 20-19 and 31-29, at the quarter stops. It was close all the way.

Tonight's slate has Eddie's facing Accord at 7:15 and Doran meeting the Yellow Jackets at 8:15. On Wednesday, Byrne and Ray's will clash at 7:15 with Baliton meeting the Hub at 8:15. Saturday's slate finds Hayes vs. Delanoy at 7:15 and Newkirk vs. Dick's at 8:15.

The box score:

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS
The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept help wanted advertisements from employers covered by the Federal Wage-Hour Law if they offer less than legal minimum wages. Beginning September 3, 1961, employees engaged in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce must be paid not less than $1.15 an hour and at least time and one-half for hours worked after 40 in a workweek, unless specifically exempt. Employees of certain large retail, service, construction, and other enterprises must be paid not less than $1.00 an hour after September 3, 1961, but no overtime for such employment is required until September 3, 1963. If you are offered less by covered employers, or if you have questions concerning this law or other activities of the U. S. Department of Labor, call or write the Department's local office at Bronx: Abraham Klainbard, Investigation Supr., 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. WYandotte 2-1235.

LEGAL NOTICES

PROCLAMATION

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK—TO THE SHERIFF OF THE COUNTY OF ULSTER: GREETING:

Whereas, a Trial Term of Supreme Court and Jail Delivery is to be held in and for the County of Ulster, at the Court House, in the City of Kingston, on Wednesday the 3rd day of January, 1962.

We command you in pursuance of the provisions of Section 222-a of the Code of Criminal Procedure, in that case made and provided

FIRST: That you summon the several persons who shall have been drawn in said County of Ulster, pursuant to law, to serve as Grand Jurors and Trial Jurors at the said Court to appear thereat.

SECOND: That you bring before the said Court all prisoners then being in the Jail of said County, together with all process and proceedings in any way concerning them in your hands as such Sheriff.

THIRD: That you make Proclamation, in the manner prescribed by Section 222-c of the Code of Criminal Procedure, notifying all persons bound to appear at the said Court by recognizance or otherwise, to appear thereat, and requiring all Justices of the Peace, Coroners, and other officers who have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at such Court, or who shall have taken any inquisition, or the examination of any prisoner or witness, to return such recognizances, inquisitions and examinations to the said Court at the opening thereof, on the first day of its sitting.

WITNESS, HON. LOUIS G. BRUHN, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, at the Court House in the City of Kingston, this 15th day of December, in the year one thousand nine hundred and sixty-one.

DAVID W. CORWIN
District Attorney of the County of Ulster.

• •

In pursuance of the above precept, I hereby make Proclamation that a term of Supreme Court of Ulster County and Jail deliverance will be held at the Court House in Kingston, in and for the County of Ulster, the 3rd day of January 1962, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, and all persons who will prosecute against persons confined in the Jail of said County are required to be then and there present to proceed as may be just; and all persons bound to appear at the said Court by recognizance, or otherwise are required to appear thereat, and all Justices of the Peace, Coroners and other officers who may have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at the said Court, or who may have taken any inquisition or the examination of any prisoner or witness are required to return such recognizances, inquisitions and examinations on to the said Court at the opening thereof, at the first day of the sitting thereof, and to be then and there present with their rolls and records, indictments and remembrances to do those things which to their office pertain.

CLAUDE BELL
Sheriff of Ulster County

Dated: City of Kingston, December 15, 1961.

The Annual Meeting of the stockholders of the Universal Road Machinery Company will be held at the office of the company in Kingston, Ulster County, New York on Monday, January 8th, 1962 at 12:00 o'clock noon, for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year, inspectors of election and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before such meeting.

Man in Stabbing Termed Still Serious

Raymond Barten, 40, of Lake Katrine, who according to state police stabbed himself in the diaphragm Thursday morning in the kitchen of his home, was reported still in serious condition today at Kingston Hospital.

Barten's wife told Kingston troopers that her husband had been despondent over personal matters and stabbed himself several times with a bread knife. The Bartens have three children.

Judge Ryan Retires After 30 Years Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Presiding Judge Bernard Ryan of the State Court of Claims has retired after more than 30 years on the bench.

Ryan reached the mandatory retirement age of 70 last May 28. He stepped down on Sunday.

Ryan, the father of Rep. William Fitts Ryan, D-N.Y., plans to return to private law practice. He has a home at Albion, near Rochester.

B. F. Fairless, Leader of Steel Industry, Dies

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP)—Benjamin F. Fairless, 71, the son of a coal miner who rose to head a steel empire, died Monday at his home in the foothills of the Allegheny Mountains.

Fairless was president of the American Iron & Steel Institute and retired board chairman of the U.S. Steel Corp.

His life story was an American success saga. He was the son of a Welsh immigrant; he started his business career as a newsboy; he worked as a parttime janitor in his high school, and he financed his college education by teaching in country schoolhouses.

He started at the bottom and he worked his way up to the top by what friends and adversaries agreed was ingenuity, diplomacy and hard work.

Fairless was the very model of the rugged individualist. He was a staunch defender of big business, and if he had to talk gruffly to congressmen in pleading its cause, he did.

"In what other country of this world could I have fared as well as I have here in the United States?" he once remarked in a speech.

Fairless recently spent six weeks in a Pittsburgh hospital under treatment for pleurisy.

Just two weeks ago, he had been granted a divorce from his second wife, the former Hazel Hatfield, daughter of former West Virginia Gov. Henry D. Hatfield. His first wife, Jane Blanche Truby, died in 1942.

Fairless was born on May 3, 1890 to Mr. and Mrs. David D. Williams in Pigeon Run, Ohio, a mining town near Canton. His struggling parents sent him to live with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fairless, at Justus, Ohio, when he was only 5 years old. They later adopted him.

Rams Building In Saugerties One Person Hurt

One person was injured Monday afternoon when a car reportedly forced off the road by an unidentified vehicle, crashed into a fence and brick building on Hill Street in the Village of Saugerties, police reported.

Patrolman Jack Washburn reported Mrs. Helen Bakes, 76, of Finger Street, a passenger in a 1951 sedan operated by John Bakes, of the same address, suffered injuries to her left wrist and lacerations under the chin. She was treated by Dr. Herman Ash of Saugerties. Police reported Mrs. Bakes struck her head against the windshield of the car during the crash.

The car was extensively damaged on the front end, village police said. The car damaged the picket fence on the property of John Legg, 16 Hill Street and when it hit the west corner of a brick building owned by Angelo Provenzano, 5 Hill Street, smashed several bricks and caused cracks in the masonry joints, police said.

According to the police report, Bakes told Patrolman Washburn he was proceeding south when he failled to negotiate a turn at Hill and Partition Streets because an unknown vehicle coming in the opposite direction forced him to mount the curb. The car continued on, hit the Legg fence, veering across Hill Street and coming to rest at the Provenzano building, police said. The mishap occurred at 2:45 p. m.

Truck Driver in Fatal Crash Is Satisfactory

The driver of the tractor-trailer involved in the fatal crash which took the lives of two Kingston High School youths early Thursday morning, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill.

Francis Di Dona, 36 of Seneca Falls, according to Thruway troopers was suffering from severe scalp injuries, lacerations, abrasions and compound fracture of the arm.

The youths, Charles Edward Senor, 18 of Grove Street, and Peter Fiore Jr., 17 of 71 Lindsley Avenue died when their disabled car was struck in the rear by the tractor-trailer, operated by Di Donna, according to the troopers. Troopers said they had run out of gas at the 106 mile post in the southbound lane of the Thruway.

Mercury Dips To -21 Upstate Kingston 9 Above

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New Yorkers returning to work today after the New Year's holiday shivered in temperatures down to 21 below zero.

Kingston recorded 9 above according to the low reading at the City Engineer's Office.

The Weather Bureau predicted continued cold through Wednesday.

The temperature plunged to 21 below zero overnight at Saranac Lake.

Watertown, buried by more than two feet of snow as 1961 passed, recorded an overnight low of 14 below at 7 a.m. today. To the north, Massena registered -8.

Other sub-zero readings included:

Oneonta -7; Plattsburgh -6; Binghamton -4; Rome -3 and Glens Falls -2. Albany had an even zero.

On the plus side were:

Utica 1; Syracuse and Olean 2; Buffalo 8; Newburgh 12; Rochester 13; Poughkeepsie 14; Westhampton Beach 26, and LaGuardia Field 27.

In addition to Watertown, Buffalo was smothered with a two-foot-plus snowfall on New Year's Eve. Most of the rest of the state, much of it blanketed with pre and post-Christmas snowfalls, enjoyed nippy, but sunny weather.

Five deaths were attributed to the Watertown-Buffalo storms.

Taxi Operator Is Burned as Flames Destroy Vehicle

A taxicab driver suffered burns of both hands shortly after 9 a. m. Sunday and the interior of a 1959 sedan owned by the Economy Taxi Co. was completely burned when fire believed to have started from a lighted cigaret swept the vehicle on Hudson Street.

Burton Quick, operator of the taxicab, was treated at Benedictine Hospital for first and second degree burns of both hands and burns of the right thumb. He was later released.

When firemen responded to an alarm they found flames pouring from the windows of the car. The car started to roll down the hill near Abeel Street and it stopped after crashing into a parked car owned by Delbert Sapp of Hudson Street, damaging the left side and rear of the vehicle.

The blaze was extinguished with a stream of water from Engine Two.

At 9:17 a. m. today firemen were summoned to the Kingston Stuyvesant Hotel where they found a kitchen range overheated. Employes were unable to close the gas valve, causing the range to overheat. Firemen shut off the flow of gas.

Lake Katrine Meeting

Lake Katrine Unit of Ulster County Home Extension Service will meet Wednesday at 1 p. m., in the home of Mrs. William Hookey, Neighborhood Road. Miss Louise Karkago, assistant agent of the county organization will speak.

18 Horses Die In Buffalo Fire

HAMBURG, N.Y. (AP) — A stable fire New Year's Eve killed 18 horses at Buffalo Raceway harness track here. Some were promising colts bought recently at auction sales.

The fire leveled one stable and scorched another, where 15 other horses were led out of the flames. The horses destroyed were valued at more than $100,000 and the burned-out stable at $40,000.

One trotter, Megan Hanover, was bought two weeks before for $15,000 at a Delaware, Md., auction by Edward C. Fallon of Hamburg.

The horses were in winter quarters under the care of trainer Johnny Chapman who lost a three-year-old he owned in the fire.

Chapman lost a trotter Allwood Allborne, a three-year-old that he owned and he described as promising. Other major losses were Gay Joyce, a three-year-old and half-sister of Mighty Tarheel by Solicitor, and Panzer Hanover, which Leo Genecco of Canandaigua had bought for $7,000 at Harrisburg, Pa., in November.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

In 1951, 33 standardbreds were destroyed in a fire that swept five stables here during the racing season.

Severs Finger in Door

LONDON (AP)—The tip of Van Johnson's left middle finger was stitched back on Monday night after the actor severed it in a door while performing in "The Music Man." Johnson hopes to return to his leading role in the musical tonight.

Dead at 83

NEW YORK (AP) — William More Parke, 83, a lawyer and a trustee of Colgate University for 35 years, died at his Brooklyn home Monday.

Parke was graduated from Colgate in 1900.

Parke's survivors include a daughter, Mrs. William A. Carpenter of Whitesboro.

Flames Quelled By City Firemen In VanAlen House

Fire broke out in brooms, mops and other material in the back of a furnace at 47 Murphy Street, shortly after 11 a. m. today and firemen extinguished the flames with pressurized water from Engine 2.

Engines 1 and 2, Wiltwyck Fire Co., Excelsior apparatus and Wicks Salvage truck responded to an alarm at 11:04 a. m. in command of Chief James M. Breit and Deputy Chief Edwin Murphy.

Firemen said the occupant of the dwelling owned by James VanAlen, 51 Murphy Street, was not at home when a neighbor discovered smoke in the house and summoned firemen to the scene.

The fire originated near the furnace and damaged the motor. Considerable smoke spread through the house.

Parked Car Damaged

Alfred Nault, 23, of Fort Myers, Fla., who resides at 346 Albany Avenue and is employed by IBM, complained Monday to city police that his car was parked on Broadway when an unidentified vehicle struck it and continued on without stopping.

Brooks' Condition Is Reported Fair

Bartley J. Brooks of Kerhonkson was taken by H. B. Humiston Ambulance Service to Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, shortly after 1:30 a. m. Monday after his car had struck a tree on Minnewaska Trail near the Log Cabin.

His condition was reported as "fair" at the hospital today Trooper James Kaljain of the Highland station investigated the accident. Brooks was apparently alone in the car when the accident happened.

Thompson, Gromyko Details Kept Secret

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko conferred for 2½ hours today as the first step in a new attempt to find a mutually satisfactory basis for East-West negotiations on Berlin.

The American diplomat, asked if there would be more of his sessions with Gromyko, said, "I suppose so but I do not know when." He declined to say how the meeting went.

Jennings Attends

Thompson took Kempton Jenkins, embassy secretary specializing in German affairs, to the meeting. Gromyko was accompanied by Ivan I. Ilyichev, a Soviet Foreign Ministry official who was formerly ambassador to East Germany.

Thompson said he would fill in the British and French ambassadors here about the conference. He did not mention the West German ambassador, but it is assumed that he will give him a briefing too.

Looking for Berlin Basis

President Kennedy has instructed Thompson to probe the Soviet position on the Berlin issue to see if there is a profitable basis for formal talks.

Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had agreed to have the U.S. ambassador handle the preliminary round for both Britain and the United States. There is a possibility that British Ambassador Sir Frank Roberts may also take a hand.

Depends on Outcome

If the Thompson-Gromyko talks are successful, the next step is expected to be a foreign ministers' conference to determine the future of Berlin.

Thompson's last round of talks with Gromyko in Moscow took place at the end of October. The subject of those talks was not the general Berlin situation but the problem of identification procedures at the checkpoints along the Berlin border. This problem, involving questions of whether Allied officials should show their papers to East German guards, had brought U.S. and Soviet tanks to the border for a time.

Legislature Opens Jan. 3 At Albany

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State's lawmakers, with an eye on re-election this year, will meet at the Capitol tomorrow to open the 185th session of the Legislature. The emphasis will be on education and politics, as the Republican majority kicks off a campaign to retain control of the state's executive and legislative branches.

Gov. Rockefeller will deliver his fourth, annual message to a joint meeting of the Senate and Assembly at noon.

The Republican governor, who has announced plans to seek re-election, will outline proposals that will become part of the 1962 GOP campaign platform.

Rockefeller has said that his record, including developments this ear, would form the basis of his campaign.

Education on Agenda

State aid to education will be a major issue during the session, which will run until late March.

A legislative committee is drafting proposals for a major change in aid formulas. The committee staff issued last week a preliminary plan for a $96.5-million an nary plan for a $96.5-million annual increase in the aid, which now totals $800 million a year.

The governor's program, it has been learned, will include proposals for increasing from $50 to $55 a week the maximum benefits under workmen's compensation, additional benefits under a tax-paid plan of medical help to the needy aged and expansion of the State Commission against Discrimination.

Plan for Narcotics

The Rockefeller plan also will include a recommendation for legislation under which persons accused of crimes involving use of narcotics could volunteer for treatment at state mental hospitals.

They would be treated in special wards at Central Islip, Manhattan or Utica State Hospitals.

The courts in which they were arraigned would retain jurisdiction during the treatment.

Russell Is Named To NATO Command

NAPLES, Italy (AP) —Adm. James S. Russell, former vice chief of U.S. naval operations, took over today as commander in chief of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in southern Europe.

Russell, a specialist in naval aviation, replaced Adm. Charles R. Brown, who has retired after holding the NATO command post for the past three years.

Clair Glocks Are Parents of First Baby at Hospital

First baby of 1962, a boy, was born this morning at 9:24 at Kingston Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Claire Glock of Hurley Ridge, West Hurley. The baby weighed eight pounds and is the couple's fifth child. Dr. Hamilton Boyd was the attending physician. The other Glock children are Thomas, 7, Susan, 5, Barbara, 4, and Karen, 2.

Mr. Glock is a trainmaster for the New York Central Railroad, River Division, and has been in the company's employ for approximately 10 years.

Health Bureau Is Expecting Relief On Big Problems

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The State Health Department looked today for some relief this year from its 1961 major problems that included a noticeable rise in lung cancer among men, a polio outbreak and radioactive fallout.

Significant progress was made last year, however, in the rehabilitation of the handicapped and in combatting air pollution and chronic diseases, Commissioner Herman E. Hilleboe said Monday.

He said that, in the year just ended, lung cancer became the commonest form of disease among men in the 57 counties outside New York City. Between 1943 and 1961, he said, the disease's incidence had increased from 12.09 to 46.46 cases for every 100,000 men.

Research "clearly indicates that lung cancer occurs much more frequently in persons who smoke cigarettes than among nonsmokers," Hilleboe a physician, said.

The polio outbreak struck the Syracuse area and 80 persons suffered paralysis. The Upstate-Long Island area had a total of 186 paralytic cases in 1961, compared with 126 cases in 1960.

During the Syracuse-area outbreak, the new type 1 Sabin oral vaccine was given to approximately 400,000 persons.

The commissioner said increased emphasis was placed on monitoring radioactivity levels in the air, milk, water and marine life because of the resumption of atmospheric nuclear testing by the Soviet Union in September, and subsequent radioactive fallout over the state.

At Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo—the health department's cancer research facility—a research team discovered a possible link between viruses and cancer, he said.

Hilleboe said four drugs under study at the institute had proved valuable in prolonging lives of patients suffering from advanced stages of cancer.

Hilleboe said that, during 1961, the department had opened rehabilitation centers for the handicapped at Albany, Syracuse and Schenectady. Eventually, the department plans establishment of 27 such centers.

Supervisors Will Organize Monday

The final session of the annual meeting of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors was held Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at which time routine business was transacted and the date for the 1962 organization meeting was fixed.

The board will meet at 8 p. m. Monday, January 8 to organize for the year.

At that time a chairman for the 1962-63 session will be named to succeed Chairman Robert F. Phinney. A deputy clerk will be named to succeed Joseph Martorana, who resigned as of December 31, 1961, to take over the office of supervisor of the Town of Plattekill to which he was elected in November.

In submitting his resignation to Robert A. Snyder, clerk of the board, Martorana said it was with deep regret that he was submitting his resignation as deputy clerk to take over the office of supervisor. He thanked Snyder and the board for their cooperation and said it had been a pleasure to serve as deputy clerk. He complimented Clerk Snyder on his "keen knowledge of the duties of the office" and for his "invaluable assistance and fairness" in the conduct of the office.

Included in the routine business was adoption of necessary resolutions to approve the tax rolls and also adoption of a resolution renewing the contract between the county and the city laboratory for county work.

Five Children Die When Fire Destroys House

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Five children, one of them an 18-month-old girl, died Monday in a fire that swept their second-floor apartment on the fringe of downtown Buffalo.

The children, four sisters and their brother, were trapped by flames that partially wrecked a 2½-story frame house. Four of the children were found by firemen under a smouldering quilt.

A sixth child, 8-month-old Jerome, was saved by the mother, Mrs. Henrietta Bass.

The victims were Diana Bass, 8; Betty Jean, 6; Ronald, 5; Linda, 4; and Angela, the 18-month-old.

Mrs. Bass' sister, Mrs. Willa Mae Mickers, about 30, jumped from a second-floor window and broke her leg. Several firemen were treated for smoke inhalation.

A family of five living downstairs fled the flames safely.

Damage was estimated at $7,000. The fire started in a rear wooden shed, firemen said, but its cause was not immediately learned.

Mrs. Bass and the children had been receiving welfare aid. Her husband reportedly is living in California.

335 Traffic Deaths; 83 From Fires Over Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic	335
Fires	83
Miscellaneous	59
Total	477

A sharp spurt of accidents in the final hours of the New Year's holiday pushed the final toll of traffic deaths beyond the National Safety Council's preholiday estimate.

At midnight Monday, when the three-day holiday period ended, the count of traffic fatalities stood at 335. In addition, there were 83 deaths resulting from fires, a record for a New Year period since World War II, and 59 deaths attributed to miscellaneous accidents. The over-all toll from traffic, fires and miscellaneous causes was 477.

The National Safety Council, which had estimated that 330 persons might be killed in traffic accidents during the extended weekend, earlier had hopes that the toll might be a record low for the three-day New Year period.

The record low of 269 highway fatalities was set in the 1949-1950 New Year period. The record traffic toll for a three-day New Year period is 374, set in 1959-60.

In the three-day 1960-61 New Year celebration, there were 338 traffic deaths, 66 perished in fires and 78 were killed in miscellaneous accidents, a total of 482.

Traffic deaths totaled 524 in the recent three-day Christmas weekend, while 83 persons died in fires and 86 others in miscellaneous accidents, an over-all toll of 693.

The previous record of fire deaths for a New Year period since World War II was 74, set during the 1955-56 three-day celebration.

For comparative purposes, The Associated Press made a survey of accidents deaths in a non-holiday weekend, from 6 p.m. Friday, Dec. 8 to midnight Monday, Dec. 11. The count: 347 in traffic, 42 in fires and 57 in the miscellaneous group, a total of 446.

Becomes Mayor of City

John J. Schwenk (right) hand on Bible takes oath of office as mayor of Kingston administered by Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth.

Crowd Attends Inaugural

Council Committees Announced by Kaye

Common Council committees for the 1962-63 period were announced New Year's' Day at the inauguural of Mayor John J. Schwenk in the Council chamber, City Hall, at which appointments were also announced of those to serve in appointive posts during his administration.

The oath of office was administered by Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth of Port Ewen, a long-time friend, who formerly served as chairman of the Ulster County Republican party and prior to that as Supervisor of the Town of Esopus.

Others Sworn In

Justice Elsworth also administered the oath of office to Joseph D. Saccoman who was post of city judge.

The common council chamber was almost filled to capacity for the New Year's morning ceremonies during which aldermen elected in November and appointive city officials also took their oaths

Floral tributes bedecked the rostrum on which were seated those taking part in the program including members of the clergy from Protestant, Catholic and the Jewish faiths.

Mayor Schwenk was escorted to the Council Chamber by Alderman Frank Sass (D-Seventh Ward), Joseph Carroll (R-Eleventh Ward), Clark Myers (R-Second Ward) and Arthur Smith (R-Eighth Ward).

Kaye's Choices Announced

Alderman-at-Large Harold L. Kaye (D) appointed the following committees for 1962-63, naming a Democrat to head each committee as chairman:

Appointed to the Finance, Ways and Means committee were: Alderman Frank Koenig (D-Ninth Ward) chairman, Sass and Myers.

Other committees named by Mayor Schwenk were:

Auditing — Alderman Frank Adams (D-Fifth Ward) chairman, Alderman-at-Large Harold L. Kaye (D), and Alderman Edward Schrowang, (R-First Ward).

Building and Supply—Alderman Sass, chairman, Alderman Joseph Tomaszewski (D-Sixth Ward), Adams, Robert Slover (R-Fourth Ward), and Carroll.

Election - Alderman Tomaszewski, chairman, Alderman William Davis, (D-Thirteenth Ward) and John Machione (R-Twelfth Ward).

Railroad and bus - Alderman Arthur Smith (D-Eighth Ward) chairman, and Alderman Donald Quick (D-Tenth Ward).

Kennedy May Ask Congress to Give Him Tax Control

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration is reported to be seriously considering asking Congress to give the President authority to increase or reduce income tax rates as a hedge against inflation or recession.

The proposal, sources said Monday, may be presented in one of President Kennedy's major messages to Congress this month. Presumably it would be apart from the White House's tax revision program.

Behind the plan is the knowledge that getting tax legislation through Congress is often a drawn-out business. The informants said that by the time a tax bill has been written, put through hearings, amended, passed and signed, a recession could skid into a depression.

Although details were withheld, the plan was said to provide for presidential authority to cut the basic 20 per cent tax rate to possibly 15 per cent for a limited period only—perhaps, for six months—with the cut subject to congressional veto.

Assumes City Judge Post

Joseph D. Saccoman (right) becomes city judge as he swears in before Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth New Year's morning at city hall.

Stresses Cooperation Is Needed Of Council So City Can Advance

Outlining a program for the progress of Kingston economically, industrially and with a special emphasis on a downward tax tend, Republican Mayor John J. Schwenk called for the cooperation of a Democratically controlled Common Council to help him achieve his goals.

The council is composed of eight Democrats and five Republicans, and the alderman at large, the presiding officer, Harold Kaye is a Democrat. He appoints council committees.

Delivering his first annual message as mayor, Schwenk said:

Would Change Inaugural

One of the goals which I hope will be achieved during this administration, will be the modernization of our antiquated city charter. And, I'm sure that you all will agree, especially on this morning, that one of the revisions ought to be the postponement of New Year's Day morning inauguration ceremonies.

Nevertheless, I have some serious topics to discuss at this time, which perhaps ought to be faced on the first day of the new year.

As we look to the future here in Kingston, these facts are evident:

Our 1962 budget calls for a tax rate increase of $3.28 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation, and has been rising steadily for a number of years.

Our uptown business district, which bears the lion's share of our tax burden, is threatened by a ring of modern shopping centers outside of our city limits, which make no contribution to the tax burden of our citizens.

Our downtown area is depressed and decayed, and many of our people live in conditions that are not worthy of citizens of this city.

Our city charter is archaic and unable to provide the framework of modern and progressive governmental operations.

Our parks have become rundown and not fully utilized.

Frankly, we have not presented the growth picture of a well-run, prosperous city that is necessary to attract new industry, new job opportunities, increased earning power, and a future of secure expansion.

Unpleasant Facts

These are the unpleasant facts of life about Kingston, and while I urge you all to face them, I do not tell you to accept them. They need not be.

Rather, I can see a ceiling on our climbing tax rate this year, and the start of a tax downtrend in 1963.

I see an uptown business district that is more convenient, more attractive, and more versatile than any shopping center outside our city limits.

Hopeful of Future

I see an expanding central shopping area, and a revitalized downtown shopping district that will restore the tax producing ability of business properties throughout our city, and lighten the residential property owner's share of the cost of municipal government.

I see parks and receational programs that young and old alike can and will want to enjoy.

I see industry taking a look at Kingston and saying, "This is a good place for us to sink our roots. This is a good place for people to live and work."

I see more families growing and staying together because Kingston can provide new job opportunities, more earning capacity, more buying power, and better living conditions.

Are these dreams? They certainly are. But they can become realities if we want them badly enough, and are willing to work and fight for them.

Faces Other Realities

And there are certain other realities that I must face as mayor of this city. As I assume responsibility for the administration of Kingston, I realize all too well that I must achieve a relationship of cooperation with a Common Council in which the majority is not of my own party, and whose president was not my running mate in the recent election.

I realize that I must convince those honorable and conscientious gentlemen of the opposition party that the partisanship of political affiliation must not take priority over the pressing need for action and accomplishment that will achieve these goals for our people.

I urge you gentlemen who sit as the majority in our city's legislative chamber to consider carefully the goals I have just set forth for Kingston. And I ask you whether they are Republican or Democratic goals?

I suggest, gentlemen, that they are goals that all of our people, whether Democrat or Republican, want for our community. And I believe that if you will help me achieve these things, then the people will support you.

Cooperation Is Must

If the serious problems that confront our city are to be solved, and if the potentials for growth, prosperity, and security are to be realized, you and I are

Bitter Cold, Snow Hit U.S. Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bitter cold weather moved into the northeast sector of the nation today after a storm dumped up to a foot of snow in parts of Virginia and Tennessee before it whirled into New England.

A 12-hour snow storm spread a 6-inch carpet on the resort city of Atlantic City, N.J., coating the boardwalk and area highways with ice. Only one-half inch of snow was reported 40 miles inland.

Speads to New York

Colder weather spread into upstate New York and northern New England. Watertown, N.Y., recorded —14; Massena —8; Oneonta —7 and Albany 1 above. In northern New England readings hovered around zero.

The storm that moved over southern New England ended in the western sections about dawn. Early in the morning, Nantucket, Mass., measured 8 inches of snow. Boston had 2 inches and Providence, R.I., had 4.

Fairbanks Warms Up

Fairbanks, Alaska, warmed up to 2 degrees above zero today from —25 a day earlier. Thermal, Calif., recorded 78 degrees Monday.

Many schools in Virginia, Tennessee and Maryland were ordered closed because of the snow. Traffic was slowed and driving conditions were hazardous in many parts of the snow and rain belt.

-13 at Watertown

Colder weather spread into the Northeast, with temperatures below zero in some northern sections of New York State, including -13 in Watertown. Freezing weather was reported in parts of Alabama and Georgia.

The snow ended in the Southeast but continued in parts of the middle Atlantic Coast states and into the south Atlantic Coast states. Rain and drizzle sprinkled the south Atlantic seaboard.

There was a foot of snow in southwest Virginia and in mountain areas of Tennessee. Six to 8 inches of snow covered the ground in southern Virginia, with 4 in Richmond and 3 to 5 inches in areas east of Richmond. Schools in 24 counties and 3 cities were closed.

In addition to the 12 inches of snow in mountain areas in Tennessee, 1 to 4 inches was on the ground in the extreme eastern sections. Schools were ordered closed in Johnson City and four counties.

Some schools were closed in the eastern half of Maryland, hit by a 5-inch snowfall. Nearly four inches of snow fell in parts of lower Delaware, including Dover, the state capital, Georgetown and Bridgeville.

Snowfalls in Georgia ranged from nine inches in mountain areas to 4 to 7 inches in northern areas.

More than six inches of snow hit Atlantic City, N.J., during the night but smaller amounts were reported north and south of the Atlantic Ocean resort. Snowfalls measured 4 to 8 inches in western sections of the Carolinas. Rain fell along coastal areas, with some sleet and gusty northerly winds as the storm moved northeastward.

Fog snarled air transportation in Washington over the New Year holiday period and again blanketed coastal areas of Northern California.

Gen. LeMay to Visit Spain at Later Date

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, has postponed an official visit to Spain because of a cold which has kept him in a hospital for several days.

The Air Force said today he expects to make an inspection visit to U.S. bases and meet with Spanish officials at a later date.

Bus Lines Strike Reported Causing Little Confusion

NEW YORK (AP) — A strike against the two largest bus lines in the city forced 1.3 million regular riders to seek other means of transportation today. Police reported little confusion.

Subway traffic was heavier than usual. Automobile traffic from Queens and Brooklyn to Manhattan also was heavier, as bus riders switched to their own cars or car pools. Lines of cars outside midtown parking places were longer than usual.

An early morning snowfall in Queens and Brooklyn hampered automobile traffic somewhat.

Drivers for the Yonkers Bus Corp. reported they carried more passengers than usual from the suburban Westchester County area to city subway lines.

No negotiations were scheduled for today in the dispute that halted service on the struck private bus lines at the start of the New Year.

Passengers affected by the strike found alternate transportation for the most part on subways and city-owned bus lines and five private bus lines that were not struck. Taxicabs also did a heavy business.

Public schools were ordered opened an hour later—10 a.m.—to take the pupils out of the early morning crush. Catholic schools reopen Wednesday except in Queens and Brooklyn where they were to open today.

The strike by 6,400 members of the Transport Workers Union was born with the new year after last-minute conferences failed to resolve the cause of contention—city concessions to ease the lines' financial plight.

It closed down Fifth Avenue Coach Lines, and its subsidiary, Surface Transit, Inc. Another subsidiary, Westchester Street Transportation, Inc., also was hit.

The city offered concessions on transfers and other issues that would bring the lines about $4.5 million a year for the next two years, but management held off for more.

County Records First '62 Traffic Death; 27 in State

Ulster County recorded its first traffic fatality for 1962, and Dutchess had two highway deaths in what the Associated Press reported as a record toll of lives in New York State over the New Year's weekend.

Charles J. Kenny, 42, of RD 2, Pine Bush, a flight engineer for TWA airlines, was fatally injured about 1:25 a. m. Monday when his car left the road and struck a tree on Dwaarkill Road in the Town of Shawangunk. The accident happened on New Prospect Road about a mile off Route 52.

It was reported Kenney, who had been visiting several residents of the area, was traveling alone in a northerly direction when he lost control of his car. He was thrown out and sustained a compound fracture of the skull, severe concussion and other head injuries. Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson and Troopers William Cameron and Francis Steiner of Ellenville investigated. Dr. S. Acosta of Horton Memorial Hospital, Middletown, pronounced Kenny dead. The Rev. Bernard A. Quinn of he Infant Savior Church, Pine Bush administered last rites.

Born August 19, 1919 in New York City, he was a son of Charles and Catherine Sweeney Kenny of Walden. He had been employed by TWA as a flight engineer for nine years and was a veteran of World War II.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his wife, Georgie Hill Kenny; four children, Patricia, Elizabeth, Charles and Todd Kenny, all at home; a brother, James Kenny of Walden.

Funeral services will be held Thursday from DeWitt Funeral Home, Pine Bush; thence to the Infant Savior Church, Pine Bush where a high Mass of requiem

Three Arrested For Ellenville Area Burglaries

Arrest of three Town of Wawarsing men by Ellenville State Police is believed to have solved a series of burglaries in that area which have been reported over the past month.

Investigator Charles Teelon and Trooper Michael Mahoney arrested Edward McFarland, 24, Continental Road, Napanoch; Willard J. Whipple, 18, of Old Greenfield Road, Ellenville, and Edward Skiff, 22, of Continental Road, Napanoch, on a charge of third degree burglary. The trio was held by Justice of the Peace Herbert Poppel of Kerhonkson for grand jury action and remanded to jail.

Over the past month a number of places have been burglarized in the Town of Wawarsing area. State Police believe they have solved many of them with the arrest of the three men.

Among the places entered are the Ellenville bowling alleys, Smith's Garage at Napanoch, a hot dog stand near the Marine Room, Max Avery's premises at Napanoch and the G.L.F. store.

Rev. H. Diekmann Former Pastor in Area, Dies at 69

The Rev. Herman J. Diekmann, 69, of Claryville, former pastor of two area Methodist Churches, died at his home Monday.

He was born in New York City January 26, 1892, a son of the late Bernard and Emalie Diekmann. The Rev. Mr. Diekmann was married in Irvington, N. J., on November 12, 1918 to Wanda H. Davenport. He was a member of the Grange at Sharon, Conn.

The Rev. Mr. Diekmann served as a pastor in the New York Methodist Conference for 33 years and retired from Philmont Methodist Church in the Poughkeepsie District in 1957. He served as pastor of Grahamsville Church from 1942 to 1943.

Surviving are his wife; a son, Paul Diekmann of Hazardville, Conn.; a daughter, Mrs. Nell Griffiths of Sunbury, Pa.; also, three grandsons, one granddaughter and nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at Grahamsville Methodist Church Thursday at 10 a. m. The Rev. Howard P. West, pastor of Maybrook Methodist Church will officiate, assisted by the Rev. John H. McCombe, pastor of Grahamsville Methodist Church. Friends may call at Loucks Funeral Home Inc., State Road, Grahamsville, at any time.

Hunt Rebel's Associates In Beja Area of Portugal

BEJA, Portugal (AP)—The hunt was on today for political associates of a rebel leader who tried unsuccessfully to seize a military barracks and touch off a revolution against Premier Antonio Salazar's government.

Capt. Joao Maria Paulo Varela Gomes, 37, an army officer turned politician, lay near death in the Beja hospital. Manuel Serra, a former Roman Catholic youth leader who authorities said shared leadership of the uprising with Gomes, was captured while heading for the Spanish border with four heavily armed companions.

Between 40 and 50 persons, most of them workers, apparently were in the band that engaged Salazar's troops in a three-hour gun battle Monday at the barracks of the 3rd Infantry regiment. Officials at first announced all had been killed or captured.

But so far the government has announced only one rebel killed, two wounded and 20 others captured. It appeared some might still be at large, although the rebel casualties were believed to have been much higher than the government said.

Most notable casualty on the government side was Lt. Col Jaime Filipe da Fonseca, undersecretary for war who rushed to the southern city of Beja from Lisbon. He ordered the government forces to hold their fire and then walked into the barracks to demand that the rebels surrender. They shot him down. He died later in the hospital.

The government tightened security precautions by placing all police and military units in a "state of prevention." There was no general alert, but a huge Lisbon rally scheduled for Wednesday night was canceled, officially in mourning for Da Fonseca.

Salazar was to have addressed the rally to outline Portuguese policy for 1962 following a year of painful and embarrassing setbacks ranging from the seizure of the liner Santa Maria on the high seas to the Indian seizure of Goa.

The ill-fated uprising began in the sleepy New Year's morning.

Witnesses said the rebels burst past the guardpost at the barracks, smashed into the officers' quarters and overcame the drowsy men. Two junior officers managed to escape to another strong point in the barracks and sounded the alarm.

The rebels were pinned down in the officers' quarters by machine-gun fire but could not be dislodged. Then Da Fonseca arrived and tried to arrange a surrender, at the cost of his own life.

The shooting of the undersecretary for war aroused the loyal troops and panicked the rebels. A number attempted to escape by seizing army vehicles and driving from the barracks. All were captured, and resistance crumbled.

Council Committees Named by Kaye

Slover, Carroll and Machione.

Laws and rules - Alderman Quick, chairman, and Kaye, Adams, Slover and Carroll.

Official Papers Named

A resolution offered by Alderman Koenig and seconded by Alderman Schrowang designating the Kingston Daily Freeman and The Kingstonian as the city's official newspapers was approved.

The first meeting of 1962 opened with roll call, followed by invocation pronounced by the Rev. John H. Frenssen, pastor of the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church.

A resolution offered by Alderman Sass, seconded by Alderman Carroll that the tentative order of business as prepared by the city clerk be adopted was approved. A resolution offered by Alderman Hastings, seconded by Alderman Myers that the rules which governed the Council, as amended, for the years 1960 and 1961, be adopted for 1962-1963, was approved.

After the oath of office was administered to Mayor Schwenk, the oath of office was administered to council members.

Also taking the oath of office were: City Clerk Walter Scott Foster Jr., Deputy City Clerk Mrs. Eleanor Bruhn, Alderman-at-Large Kaye, City Treasurer Mathias Richardson, City Assessor Larry MacAvery, Corporation Counsel Harry Gold, and William C. Klein, clerk to the mayor.

The Council meeting adjourned following benediction by Rabbi Jacob Rubenstein.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. James V. Keating, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's Church.

The invocation was by the Rev. John H. Frenssen, pastor of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church.

A resolution offered by Alderman Quick, seconded by Alderman Machione that the mayor's message be received, filed and printed in pamphlet form was approved.

Mayor's Appointments

Mayor Schwenk announced the following appointments:

Edward Dasher of 86 Abruyn Avenue, fire commissioner for three years; Dr. Edward F. Shea, member of the Board of Managers at the city laboratory, five years; Martin E. Oberkirch, 308 Washington Avenue, member of the plumbing board, three years; Arthur F. Hallinan and Harry Gold, members of the planning board.

Alderman-at-large Kaye announced the appointment of Joseph Esposito for another term as Common Council page.

Flowers were presented to Mayor Schwenk and Alderman-at-large Kaye by the employes at City Hall. The Women's Democratic Club presented flowers to the alderman-at-large and members of the Common Council from their party. The Women's Republican Club, prior to the session, gave Mayor Schwenk a boutonniere and Mrs. Schwenk an orchid.

Four Drivers Escape Injury

Four automobile drivers escaped injury over the weekend in accidents which resulted in property damage. At Chichester on Sunday about 3:30 p. m., the car owned by Scott Sickler and operated by Thomas Sickler, 19, of Chichester, skidded on icy or wet pavement as it was traveling west on Route 214. The car struck and damaged a fence on the Dave Schulman property. County Identification Officer Earl Conro investigated.

Walter E. Howell Jr., 20, of Rt. 1, Box 319-A, Flatbush, operating a car northerly on Route 9W in Port Ewen, lost control of his car and struck a guard rail damaging the left side of the car. Constable Frank Bartroff and Deputy Ernest Longyear investigated.

Saturday James Welsh, 23, of 81 Wrentham Street, Kingston, and Keith D. Knudsen, 18, of Rt. 1, Stone Ridge, escaped injury in a two-car accident on Lapala Road, Lomontville. Welsh, driving a laundry truck had made a turn into a driveway at the John Monseese place when the truck became stuck on the ice. He was unable to move. Keith D. Knudsen, coming down grade operating the car owned by Eleanor R. Knudsen, was unable to stop because of ice on the pavement. His car struck the side of the laundry truck. With Knudsen was Robert Murphy, 16, Cottekill, and Terry Felsen, 15, of Lomontville. Deputy Sheriff Ernest Longyear investigated.

Deadline for Tax Filing Extended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxpayers will get an extra 24 hours this year in which to prepare their federal income tax returns.

Mortimer M. Caplin, commissioner of internal revenue, said today that because of the normal filing deadline of April 15 is a Sunday this year, the deadline will be extended until midnight Monday, April 16.

By law, returns must be received at IRS offices before the deadline. In practice, the bureau recognizes as timely any return postmarked by midnight of the final day.

Studebaker-Packard Plant Struck Today

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union called its members out on strike at Studebaker-Packard Corp. early today after extended weekend sessions set up by mediators had failed to bring company and union together.

The executive committee of Local 5 had set the strike deadline after the company terminated the contract, which had been extended from its Dec. 1 expiration date. The committee had had strike authorization from the membership since November.

Only a few volunteer pickets without signs were on hand at midnight, when second shift workers left the plants. Studebaker-Packard has not been operating a production force on the third shift. Regular picketing started at 6 a.m.

The strike involves 6,500 production workers.

Issues in dispute included wash-up time, shift premium, vacation computation, representation and management rights, a union spokesman said.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It was a rough weekend for television fans who can take football or—preferably—leave it alone.

The home screens were awash over the long weekend with gridiron warriors. Football may well be the No. 1 American spectator sport, but eight or nine televised bowl games, often occupying all three network channels, sometimes seems a bit excessive.

For spectacle lovers, there was also the Pasadena Tournament of Roses procession Monday. A few floats could go a long way in black and white, but for the lucky handful of viewers with color sets it was a handsome show. Betty White, handing part of NBC's commentary, was bright and amusing. But the CBS staff and Roy Neal of NBC handled their assignments with the solemnity and urgency normally reserved for getting a missile into orbit.

Football "Auld Lang Syne" and parades behind, we can settle down now to worry with Chet Huntey about the international situation again.

ABC may have a controversial variety show in the offing. It's a comedy special set for Feb. 4 in which Stan Freberg will serve as star, creator, writer and executive producer. Comedian Freberg, who has appeared only infrequently on television, plans to use parts of his satirical revue of American history. The revue has had some exposure in the form of a record album—but was banned by many radio stations because of its irreverent treatment of patriotic themes.

Looks as though "The Untouchables" will be around for still another season. ABC recently said that the show would be continued if star Robert Stack—who was making discontented noises about quitting his Eliot Ness role—would sign again and apparenty he has agreed.

Recommended tonight: "Password," premiere, CBS, 8-8:30—night-time version of a popular day-time game show; "The Cake Baker," ABC, 10-11—Sheey Winters stars.

Bronx Man Held For Murder of Albany Resident

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A 23-year-old man was held today on a charge of first-degree murder in the stabbing of a restaurant owner who had ordered him from his place.

Leonard Porter of The Bronx was captured Monday shortly after police said, he stabbed William Berry, 38, in the throat. Berry died in a hospital.

Police said Berry had recognized Porter as a customer with whom he had trouble previously.

Instead of leaving as ordered by Berry, police said, Porter pulled a long-bladed carving knife from his pocket and stabbed him. Porter then fled, but was caught a few blocks away.

Porter is a Negro, as was Berry.

CONFIDENCE FOR 1962

When Janus stands with one face looking to the past and the other peering into the future, the time has arrived for illuminating utterance. What is wanted is a quick summary of the year, past, and perceptive speculation about what lies ahead.

There is difficulty in satisfying either of these requirements. The year 1961 was as momentous for what did not happen as for what did happen, and summary does its events small justice. As for assaying the future, who could do so with any confidence in a world where the rules are likely to be broken at any time by almost anyone? Imponderables make prediction, uncertain at best, almost pointless.

The year past was memorable especially because a new President and a new administration grasped the reins of power. Mistakes have been made—but progress has been made, too, and the people seem in a mood to give a young President a green light for additional moves in the same direction.

There was no lack of troubles. Khrushchev rattled his missiles, threatened the world with super-bombs. A wall split Berlin. We lost ground in Southeast Asia, and suffered a debacle in Cuba. There was disunity among the Western powers. Still, the Berlin "ultimatum" has passed; the tension there has eased. Serious economic and political troubles plague the Communist world. Red China was kept out of the United Nations with a surprisingly strong vote bolstering the U.S. position. The Alliance for Progress got under way promisingly in Latin America.

Difficulties lie ahead—but difficulties no worse than those we faced at the start of 1961. Our economy is stronger. We can move confidently into 1962.

EDUCATION BY SHOCK

The other day there was a news story about a Midwestern probation officer whose office walls are adorned with photographs of fatal auto accidents. They are there to remind traffic offenders—those, at any rate, whose violations were serious enough to get them sentenced to the workhouse—of what can happen with such awesome swiftness when a driver breaks the law.

This probation officer's special preoccupation is the drunken driver. His long daily experience with the consequences of bad driving has persuaded him that alcohol is the deadly ingredient in a majority of grave accidents. The conclusion is not unique, obviously; it is shared by many others who deal with offenders.

The trouble is that dealing effectively with the drunken driver is quite a different matter from assigning him his share of the blame for accidents. This gets us back to the probation officer's attempt to shock offenders into realizing what terrible consequences poor driving may have. Some such process of education may be the best way to reduce the toll caused by drunkenness at the wheel.

END OF THE TREE

The post-December 25 life of a Christmas tree varies from a day to a couple of weeks, depending on mother and the children. In this area, father's influence is nil; the matter is out of his province.

If mother is the type who can endure clutter only so long and whose youngsters bow to her will, the tree will be gone and the furniture back in place not later than December 27. But if the children are reluctant to let Christmas go, the tree will stay up until the New Year and probably until Twelfth Night, January 6. Trees have even been known to survive the entire first month of the year.

Methods of disposal differ, too. After the decorations have been removed, some families deposit the tree in the alley for the trash man to haul away. Those of a more sentimental turn snip off the branches and burn them in the fireplace.

Still others set the tree up in the back yard and place suet and fragments of bread in its branches for the birds. We think this latter custom should grow. It softens the transition from glitter to obscurity and permits the spirit of Christmas to linger longer.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

LIFE CAN BE SIMPLE

Carlyle Hall of Springfield, Illinois, has a solution to the political, social and economic problems of mankind. All the world's statesmen have not hit on his formula but to him it comes easily. This is what he says:

"Tell me why all civilized nations now members of the United Nations, could not get together, and agree on one universal language, and require this to be taught in all their schools, in addition to their native language, to enable the rising generation within a few years in all nations to intelligently converse with one another.

"If through the United Nations this could be brought about, along with other things they do, I believe it would be the most outstanding thing that the world has ever seen.

"This to me seems so simple and so important, can you tell me why it is not attempted, and worked out?"

Years ago, a colonel about to retire from the American Army in the Philippines came up to Shanghai to propose a solution to all the problems that faced the Chinese. He said that the Chinese had nearly 100 dialects which kept the Chinese in confusion because they could not talk to each other. Why, he asked, did they not drop Chinese and make English their language? I asked why not drop English and adopt Chinese as our language? Also, why English and not French or Russian?

That only annoyed him. He had undoubtedly spent years thinking out this problem. It never occurred to him that if all the Chinese became dumb and could not speak to each other at all, maybe they would have no problems.

This generation has forgotten Dr. Zamenhof who came from Warsaw and gave the world Esperanto. He invented a new language. If the 2,000,000,000 human beings on Earth spoke to each other in Esperanto, they would understand each other better.

But it has turned out that the better we understand each other, the less we like each other. It used to be that nobody understood the hundred or so dialects of India, most of them being local corruptions of Sanskrit. But now that the Indians have come to the United Nations and can hear all kinds of languages they not only want to quarrel with each other but with all the world.

Or look at China which has more languages than any nation on Earth, and for thousands of years the various races of China got along well enough together, having little wars but none of them amounting to too much, up to the Taiping Rebellion which decimated an enormous part of the people of China. But now the Chinese have attempted to have one language, Kwan Hua, or as the ignorant foreigners call it, Mandarin, and they have not only tried to exterminate each other but are fighting everybody in Asia.

It is curious that the better we understand each other, the more we dislike each other. George Bernard Shaw was so prejudiced against women that he regarded them as equal to men. Shaw was cruel, for what man would have his hair dyed each season for no better reason than that a new shade had become fashionable; or what man would paint his finger nails various colors except a savage warrior or an American Indian to indicate a tribal mark? Surely no man since the time of Louis XIV would wear the kinds of heels that are now fashionable among women which involve the risk of the heel breaking off and hurling the woman forward or making her walk ungracefully as though on stilts.

Far be it from me to be anti-female. In fact, I am so much pro that my wife often tells me to be my age which strikes me as utterly ridiculous. Why would anyone want to be his age if he can possibly be younger and gayer? But that is not the point. What we are talking about it that some folks find a simple solution to all problems which brings them great happiness except that the solutions do not work out.

Imagine if all the world spoke German what a guttural would prevail. And even German is divided into dozens of dialects depending upon lisps and low or high pronunciations. I once knew something about quite a few languages but I had a hard time convincing a young lady that I really understood her in each.

Puzzle of Food Allergies; What to Do About Them

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"I wish there were three simple rules to follow, or five foods to avoid, or seven things to do to solve the problem of food allergies in children. But there aren't. There are only puzzles."

Thus writes Prof. Susan Dees of the Department of Pediatrics of Duke University in the most frank and helpful article I've read on the subject in a long time.

Most children with allergies are the offspring of one or more allergic parents. But some are not.

In many instances, childhood sensitivity to a specific food disappears for no aparent reason. Perhaps these instances of spontaneous disappearance furnish the basic for many claims for "cure" made by the ignorant and those who exploit commercial remedies.

Contrary to these "disappearing allergies" are those that develop in oldsters who previously ate the particular food with relish and without trouble up to a certain age.

Skin tests may be negative in children with a definite food sensitivity. And positive in a child who can eat the particular food without difficulty.

Certain test extracts made from foods are so irritating that they give positive tests in practically everyone tested. These nonspecific reactors include spinach, white potato, tomato, banana, citrus fruits and many spices.

The clinical reaction to the food allergen may not always be the same each time it is eaten. Perhaps the food is altered in the preparation. Or the sensitivity of the allergic child may be altered, perhaps by its emotional state at the time of the meal.

Antihistamines are less effective in the relief of the symptoms of food allergy than they are, for example, in the relief of hay fever.

Desensitization by injections of very dilute extracts of the offending food is not practical. But desensitization by feeding minute amounts in increasing quantities is often effective.

For detection of a food allergy, Prof. Dees recommends the method with which constant readers of these columns are familiar (Sherlock Holmes method of inductive reasoning). Once again, here's how to do it without the aid of mirrors or special equipment:

Eliminate the suspicious food from the diet for a period of at least a week.

If the allergic symptoms disappear, re-introduce the food in small quantity twice or thrice weekly.

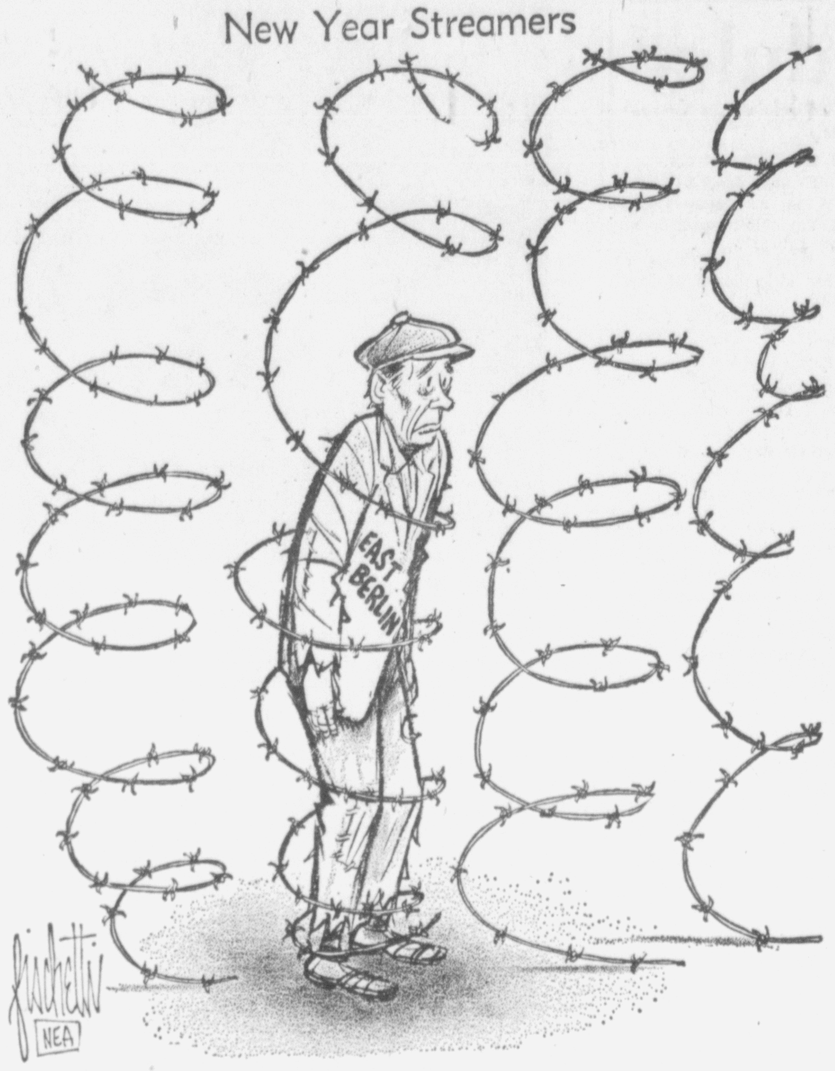
If the allergic symptoms reappear on re-introduction of the food, repeat the tests at the end of several weeks to be sure of your findings.

If the offending food is a nonessential (egg, fruit, vegetable, chocolate), omit it. Remember, then, to check labels on food mixtures to be sure that the allergen is not one of the hidden ingredients.

If the offending food is an essential, such as cow's milk or a grain, substitute a nutritional equivalent (soy bean milk or strained meat for cow's milk; rice or barley for wheat, etc.).

And finally, I suggest that if you are the mother of a child with an allergy to cow's milk, breast feed the brothers and sisters that arrive later.

New Year Streamers



Washington News

By WASHINGTON STAFF
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy the other day invited several Justice Department lawyers into his office for a chat. It was part of his mutual "get-acquainted" effort. He told the latest group:

"Ten years ago I was a lawyer in this department myself . . . It just goes to show you that anyone here who applies himself, works hard, puts in those extra hours, and has a brother who is President of the United States, can get to be attorney general."

FBI AGENTS on the trail of a fugitive who escaped from a New York prison finally tracked their quarry down in the toy department of a Los Angeles store.

Not wishing to create havoc in the jammed room, the agents quietly faded into the background, sweated it out for more than two hours while their man circulated around, patting children on the shoulders and handing out lollipops.

Fnally the store closed and as the last child, noisily sucking on his present, was bundled off by his mother, the agents quickly moved in and cornered the fugitive—who was clad in a Santa Claus suit and beard he had been wearing as a disguise for four days.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY of Defense for Public Information Arthur Sylvester used to be a crack newspaperman himself, when he was city editor and later Washington correspondent for the Newark News.

But they're telling one on him now he'd like to forget. When a new reporter was assigned to him as an assistant in the paper's Washington bureau, the young man asked his boss how he should look on government bureaucrats.

Art's answer: "Down!"

COMMENTING ON the number of uninformed and misinformed people who are now expressing weighty opinion on world events, Gerry Van Arkel of the National Committee for an Effective Congress tells about the young man who applied for a job selling shoes.

"Know anything about shoes?" asked the store owner.

"Well, I ought to," replied the job seeker. "I've been wearing them since I was two years old."

AIR FORCE SECRETARY Eugene M. Zuckert doesn't care much for titles. At a recent party he was addressed by another guest as "Mr. Secretary."

"Where do you get that 'Mr. Secretary' stuff?" exclaimed Zuckert. "That must have come in with the Eisenhower administration. Let's not have any more of that."

Calmly replied the other guest, who was meeting Zuckert for the first time: "Okay, Gene."

A REASONABLY high aide to Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, conversing with newsmen at a holiday party, admitted:

"I sure am glad you fellows are on the job. It's the only way I know what's going on in the department.

"But the big trouble with you is that if just one of you says, right or wrong, that something isn't just as it should be, we're on the spot and have to defend ourselves for months. Sure keeps us working overtime."

WHEN REP. EDWIN B. Dooley, R-N.Y., was mayor of Marmaroneck, an elderly lady—a member of numerous civic committees—called him to complain about the atrocious language used by a pair of construction workers near her home.

Dooley promptly wrote a note to the workers asking for a verbatim description of the offending conversation. He got this reply:

"Jim and I were building an addition to a house. He was throwing hot rivets up to me and I was catching them in a pail. I missed with the pail, caught one in my bare hand, and immediately let go of it.

"As I did, I said 'Look out below, Jim' but he didn't hear me and the rivet went down his shirt into his pants. He then looked up to me and said, 'For heaven's sake, Joe, please try to be more careful.'"

So They Say..

We named her Jacqueline after the first lady. But for us this will be our last lady.

—Robert Ingram, 43, Rossville, Ill., farmer, after his wife bore their ninth daughter.

Congress Likely to Debate Top Court and Communism

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Controversy over the alleged leniency of the Supreme Court toward the Communist menace inside America is bound to grow as Congress soon resumes its sessions.

The high court has said, in effect, that Americans can join the Communist party and that Congress cannot legislate against them except in cases in which it can be proved that they are knowingly intent on the overthrow of the government of the United States by force. This is considered an almost insuperable barrier because it involves endless technicalities over what constitutes legal proof of "intent."

The Department of Justice is trying now to prosecute the leaders of the Communist party in America on the ground that, under existing law, they can be required to register as agents of a foreign government, which they refuse to do. A few such persons, therefore, could ultimately go to jail, but in reality many thousands of others will be free to continue to carry on their support of the Communist party in America. The remedy would seem to be a constitutional amendment broadening the power of Congress to deal with this and other problems of the "cold war."

Right to Speak

Vice President Lyndon Johnson made a speech recently which was widely construed as, in part, a criticism of the John Birch Society, some of whose members have called for the "impeachment" of certain members of the Supreme Court of the United States. The address, which was carefully prepared in advance, deserves more attention than was given to it.

The Vice President was speaking at a luncheon honoring a new Federal judge at Houston, Tex., and he said that in America people have "a right to say what they wish—however popular or unpopular." He then added:

"Therefore, our courts are subject to attack. Those who disagree—even for partisan reasons—with a court decision have the right to say so. They may even go so far as to question the motives and the good faith of the judges who rendered the decision.

Open to Debate

"The right to raise such questions should never be challenged. This is—and must remain—a free society. But the wisdom of this course of action is open—and should be—to sharp debate.

"It is one thing to declare a court decision wrong and to seek its reversaal. The men who wrote the Constitution recognized that even the best-intentioned of human beings were fallible and they provided simple means for appeal. It is another thing to declare a judicial system wrong and to demand that all judges who render unpopular verdicts be impeached. This train of thought merely paves the way for the Communist dictatorship we seek to avoid."

But it all depends on what is meant by "impeachment." The legal meaning, as set forth in the Constitution itself, is that this remedy can be invoked only in the case of "treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors."

'During Good Behavior'

Impeachment, however, in a broad sense, could also mean steps leading to removal from office. Thus Congress can pass laws providing for the removal of any judge who violates the requirement of "good behavior." For the Constitution doesn't say that judges shall hold office for life, but only "during good behavior." Obviously, the Supreme Court itself can hardly sit in judgment on the behavior of its own members, so it can be argued that Congress has the power to provide for trial of such cases by the Senate, and the penalty could be removal from office.

Thomas Jefferson, who helped to write the Constitution, felt, after seeing the new government in operation for thirty years, that the "life tenure" idea was erroneous. He wrote in 1820:

"The judiciary of the United States is the subtle corps of sappers and miners constantly working underground to undermine the foundations of our confederated fabric. . . .

"To consider the judges as the ultimate arbiters of all Constitutional questions is a very dangerous doctrine, indeed, and one which would place us under the despotism of an oligarchy."

Favored 6-Year Terms

Mr. Jefferson recommended that all Supreme Court justices be appointed for six-year terms, with re-appointability by the President, and subject to confirmation by both houses of Congress, instead of just by the Senate.

The chief criticism throughout the years has been that the court has tried to become a policy-maker and has departed from judicial limits. In August 1958 the conference of state chief justices, by a vote of 36 to 8, severely criticized the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States and, in a formal report, said:

"We believe that in the fields with which we are concerned, and as to which we feel entitled to speak, the Supreme Court too often has tended to adopt the role of policy-maker without proper judicial restraint. We feel this is particularly the case in both of the great fields we have discussed — namely, the extent and extension of the Federal power, and the supervision of state action by the Supreme Court by virtue of the Fourteenth Amendment. In the light of the immense power of the Supreme Court and its practical non-reviewability in most instances, no more important obligation rests upon it, in our view, than that of careful moderation in the exercise of its policy-making role."

The foregoing is really an appeal to public opinion to achieve a reform. It is the right of individual citizens similarly to call for reforms, and that's why it isn't so simple to write off the "extremism" of some members of the John Birch Society as altogether unprovoked.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

A very interesting coverage of the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church is in the Kingston-Rondout-Wiltwyck Directory of 1858 loaned me by O. A. Goodsell of 43 Crane Street. It gives the location of the church as "On Main Street, between Wall and Fair Streets, Kingston, formerly called Esopus, or in the Indian dialect Wiltwyck, was settled by a few Dutch farmers as early as 1655. In consequence of difficulties with the neighboring Indians, during that year, the settlers left the place, but after a brief period returned."

It further goes on to say that in the spring of 1658, there were between 60 and 70 colonists at Esopus, when hostilities with the Indians were again renewed, and the former wrote to Governor Stuyvesant to send them soldiers, "to save the Esopus." The Governor visited the colony with 50 soldiers on the May 29, 1658, and the day following being Ascension Day, "the people having no church, assembled at the house of Jacob Jansen Stol, to keep the festival."

"During the following year, the Classis of Amsterdam encouraged Hermanus Blom, a candidate for the ministry, to visit New Netherlands; he came to Esopus, and having preached two sermons, was called on the 17th of August, 1659, to become their pastor. Blom returned to Holland, where his call was approved by the Classis of Amsterdam, and he was ordained, Feb. 16, 1660, to preach "both on the water and on the land, and in all the neighborhood, but principally in Esopus'." He began his ministry at Esopus, Sept. 12, 1660, with a church composed of 16 members. The records were started that year and kept in Dutch until 1808.

Blom continued as pastor of the church until March 5, 1667, when, in consequences of the death of his wife, he left the country. The Esopus remained without a clergyman for the next 11 years, or until 1678, during which interval the place was occasionally visited by ministers from Fort Orange and New Amsterdam. A list of the clergy and dates are given. The first building was of rude log structure; the second was in the ancient style, ornamented with highly colored painted and burnt window glass, bearing the national ensign and motto "Een dracht maakt macht;" the third was a larger building, erected in 1752, and was burned Oct. 16, 1777, during the Revolutionary War, when the place was taken and destroyed by the English.

This 1858 Kingston-Rondout directory explains "this church was rebuilt before the close of the war, and was used as the place of worship until 1832, when the brick church was erected. In 1852, the present stone edifice, 136 feet long by 64 wide was built. All these churches, except the brick one, stood on the lot at the corner of Wall and Main Streets, which was originally purchased and the title confirmed by the charter in 1719 from the British Crown, for the double purpose of a cemetery and a site for a place of worship."

"The bell at present used was imported from Holland in 1794, and is remarkable for the sweetness and richness of its tones."

The officers of the church in 1858 were: Pastor, the Rev. John C. Hoes, DD, Elders: Henry Snyder, Peter J. Davis, Henry E. Legg, Peter J. Dubois. Deacons: Wessel Ten Broeck, John P. Folant, William H. Conklin, and Frederick E. Shafer. Chorister and Organist, Hiram R. Romeyn. Sexton and Undertaker, Tunis O. Van Gaasbeck.

Half Billion in State Housing Under Way or to Start in 1962

State supervised low-rent and middle-income housing valued at close to half a billion dollars was either under construction in 1961 or planned for construction in 1962, according to a year-end report of activities of the New York State Division of Housing and Community Renewal to Governor Rockefeller by State Housing Commissioner James William Gaynor. Together with the State's $35 million investment in urban renewal financial assistance, the figure for current and planned activity topped the half-billion dollar mark and set a year-end record for the Division, Commissioner Gaynor reported.

"The total value of our low-rent and middle-income housing under construction and in planning, together with our share of community urban renewal programs, stands at $511,518,653," Commissioner Gaynor said. "We are specially gratified by the progress made this year in our middle-income housing program. As a result of our endeavors during the year, we now list 16,984 middle-income apartments in 30 projects valued at $299,758,653 either under construction or planned for construction in 1962. This is the largest single middle-income housing program ever developed in any one year anywhere.

Low-Rent Program

"At the same time, our low-rent program continued in 1961 with 9,681 apartments in 31 projects valued at $176,760,000 either under construction or planned for the future. By adhering to the Administration's policy of custom tailoring the services rendered by the State to meet the different needs of the communities of this State we are confident that the assistance rendered during the year and that scheduled for 1962 reflects the maximum application of the funds involved to obtain the most benefits for our citizens."

To maintain the level of continued service, housing and urban renewal assistance funds totalling $94,038,809 were paid out, committed or reserved during 1961, bringing the total funds committed or reserved for the programs administered by the Division of Housing and Community Renewal to $1,151,130,109.

Middle-Income Projects

The largest commitment of funds during the year went to private sponsors to build middle-income housing under the State's limited-profit housing program. A total of $75,960,809 was committed from either direct State loan funds or State Housing Finance Agency funds to extend 90 per cent mortgage loans to the sponsors of seven middle-income projects with 4,290 apartments. Four of the projects —Bridge Apartments (960 apartments) in Manhattan and Lafayette Apartments (900 apartments), Mayflower Terrace (120 apartments), and Concourse Village Section II (1,979 apartments) in the Bronx—will contain 3,959 apartments and will receive Housing Finance Agency loan funds totalling $71,324,000. In addition to receiving commitments for mortgage financing, Bridge and Lafayette Apartments also went into construction during the year. In Rochester, Plymouth Gardens (242 apartments) and Northside Apartments (48 apartments) received mortgage commitments from State loan funds totalling $3,072,000 and were placed under construction. Also upstate, $604,000 was reserved to finance the construction of Greenwood Estates (41 apartments) in Monticello.

Other projects which went into construction during the year were Rochdale Village (5,860 apartments) in Queens, Patrick E. Gorman Apartments (340 apartments) in Brooklyn, Bronx Park East (322 apartments) in the Bronx, Inwood Gardens (218 apartments) and Inwood Tower (169 apartments) in Manhattan, Chatham Gardens (184 apartments) in Rochester, and Fellowship Hall (71 apartments) in Bedford Town. Construction which had begun earlier was continued during the year on Ebbets Field Apartments (1,318 apartments) in Brooklyn, Inwood Heights (207 apartments) in Manhattan, Tower Apartments (90 apartments) in Buffalo, and Ballantyne Gardens Apartments (120 apartments) in Syracuse.

Construction was completed during the year on two middle-income projects — Tower Gardens (208 apartments) in the Bronx, and Park Regent Apartments (90 apartments) in Port Chester.

In the State's middle-income housing program at the end of the year there were 19,436 apartments completed, under construction or in planning in 44 projects receiving mortgage loans totalling $237,486,849. Of this total, 31 projects with 18,063 apartments receiving $218,777,449 in mortgage loans are in New York City. Statewide, 14 projects with 2,452 apartments were completed, 15 projects with 11,049 apartments were under construction, and 15 projects with 5,935 apartments were planned for construction in 1962.

Urban Renewal

In the State's program of urban renewal financial assistance, a total of $9,979,000 for 18 projects was paid out during the year to 15 communities throughout the State. Of this total, $5,776,000 went to New York City for the following urban renewal projects: Penn Station South ($2,940,000); Lincoln Square Amended ($436,000); Hammels ($1,328,000); and Seaside ($1,072,000). Other payments went to Albany ($145,000); Binghamton ($72,000), Catskill ($18,000), Glen Cove ($257,400), Huntington ($66,000), Middletown ($388,000), New Rochelle ($800,000), North Tarrytown ($55,000), Peekskill ($230,000), Poughkeepsie ($38,000), Rome ($309,000), Schenectady ($318,000), Syracuse ($1,195,000), and Yonkers ($311,000).

With the exception of the payment to Peekskill, all of the monies were advanced under loan and subsidy contracts which provide for yearly State subsidies to the communities to repay the loan plus interest. Peekskill, however, received a capital grant payment under a new financing method recommended by this Administration and established by the State Legislature in 1961. The new method will eliminate in the future the costly and cumbersome loan and subsidy formula devised by the previous administration. By substituting direct grants out of current revenues, the taxpayers were saved the inerest costs that resulted in every dollar of aid extended costing $1.45 over the life of the 25-year loan.

Of the $10 million initially appropriated by the Legislature for the direct grant method, $9,609,260 has been reserved for 14 projects in Buffalo, Greenburgh, Long Beach, Newburgh, New Rochelle, New York City, Niagara Falls, Nyack, Peekskill, Rockville Centre and Utica. In addition, all of the $25 million authorized for the loan and subsidy method of financing has also been committed or reserved. Communities receiving assistance under this method, in addition to those which received payments during the year, will be Geneva, Hempstead Town, Hempstead Village, Kingston, Lewisboro, Little Falls, Lockport, Mechanicville, Mt. Kisco, Mt. Vernon, Oswego, Rochester, Sloatsburg, Suffern, Troy, Tuckahoe, Watertown and White Plains.

Saugerties Board Lists Constables At Annual Session

Saugerties Town Board at its annual meeting recently appointed 18 constables and attended to other official business closing out the year, 1961.

Constables named were Charles Riley, Samuel Fluckiger, Thomas Mayone, Vincent Wallot, Vernon Joe Benjamin, Donald Sullivan, John Roderer, Benjamin Newkirk, Charles Tiano, Salvatore DeFasquale, Ralph Mayone, Anthony Ventriglia, Herbert Hommel, George Hayes, Charles Riley Jr., Edward Sweeney, John Pavlak and George Derbyshire.

Saugerties National Bank and Trust Company was named official bank depository.

Kingston Daily Freeman, Saugerties Post and Catskill Mountain Star were designated official newspapers of the township.

Carl Heese Jr., a charter member of Malden-West Camp Fire Company were awarded an approved fireman's exemption certificate.

If you use a pound of cranberries in making a raw relish, and some is left over, put it in your freezer for use later on. This amount of cranberries put through the food chopper with a couple of oranges and mixed with two cups of sugar should be ample for two turkey dinners.

Most of us have a distorted picture of our children's physical fitness. We know that today's youngsters are taller and heavier than yesterday's. But what about their strength, endurance, flexibility and stamina?

The fact is that our youngsters' physical fitness has slipped—slipped alarmingly. Now's the time to call a halt to the sedentary way of life that's sapping their vitality.

What can you do about it? At your next PTA meeting, you can urge your child's school to adopt a vigorous program for physical development.

Such a program of vigorous, daily exercise has been put into effect in many schools—providing youngsters the opportunity to develop their bodies—and to keep them fit.

Find out whether your child's school has an adequate program. And, if not, why not?

Off Broadway

NEW YORK (AP)—A play about Trinidad, "Moon on a Rainbow Shawl," is to be the first off-Broadway production of Kermit Bloomgarden, one of the White Way's top managers. Errol John, the author, won an English playwriting contest with the work and it was staged in London previously with Earle Hymann starred. Bloomgarden said that he would display the drama in January in an off-Broadway showcase because he does not regard it as the kind of project that would work in the commercial theater.

Hollywood News and Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — He appeared a different Larry Parks—bearded, serious, mature. But behind the sober look was the same sparkle as when he portrayed Al Jolson in two smash-hit movies.

Parks was in town for a holiday visit with his family and a look at his business enterprises. Then he had to return to Munich for the finish of "Freud," his first American-made film in nine years.

What has he been doing in that time?

"Working my head off," he said. "I've done a great deal of stage work—summer stock, a year with 'Teahouse of the August Moon,' 'Beg, Borrow or Steal' on Broadway. I've done television and night clubs.

"And I build apartment houses."

Builds them and operates them. He wouldn't say how many there were, but said he had put up seven apartment houses since last March. Some of his places have as many as 40 units.

"I had planned to start building two places in January, thinking I would be through with 'Freud' by then," he said. "But I won't be finished until mid-January, so I had to postpone construction. You see, when I'm building, I'm the first man on the job and the last one to leave. It's harder work than acting."

Parks said he got started in the building business back in 1940, when he came west for an acting job that disappeared. He and other out-of-work friends put up a house in Burbank.

"Sometimes we'd have to walk down the street to see how a real carpenter put in windows and other things," he said. But they got it built and Parks made $133 on the deal.

Building business was sidetracked for his movie career, which flourished and waned. When the drought set in, he and partner Lewis Mandell began building apartment houses.

Lease Bans Burlesque

NEW YORK (AP)—The lease bans burlesque shows, but an entertainment entitled "This Was Burlesque" is being planned anyway for the Phoenix Theater. Ann Corio, one of the former queens of striptease, is to star. Michael Iannucci, who has taken over operation of the playhouse with Milton Warner, says that the program is a satire of the oldtime mixture of girls and gags, and not burlesque itself.

Legislature Is Getting Plan to Keep Jersey Taxes

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A plan to keep in New York State's coffers $27 million paid in income taxes by residents of New Jersey—and eyed by that state—will be submitted by Gov. Rockefeller to the 1962 Legislature.

The governor will recommend cancellation of a credit under which non-residents may deduct from their New York State taxes their tax liability to their home states.

New Jersey enacted this year an income-tax law applicable only to commuters—its own residents working in New York and New Yorkers working in New Jersey.

The law was identical with New York State's tax law.

Under an existing credit, the 150,000 New Jersey residents who work in New York would have deducted their New Jersey commuter taxes from their New York bill and would have owed money only to their home state.

With cancellation of the credit, they will owe money to both states. Under the Rockefeller plan, it would be up to New Jersey to cancel its tax on the persons paying a New York tax or require them to pay double taxes to both states.

The credit would be continued in force for the 80,000 New York State residents who are employed in New Jersey. They will pay New Jersey an estimated $8 million a year and deduct that amount from any taxes they owe New York.

Thus, New York would realize a net gain of $19 million on the New Jersey taxes and another $1 million from residents of other states who no longer would receive a credit.

New York passed this year a bill giving the New Jersey residents more liberal deducations, provided that state agreed to supply New York with the names and addresses of New Yorkers working in New Jersey.

This agreement has not been reached. Rockefeller reportedly will urge the Legislature to put the more liberal deductions into effect for New Jersey residents without an agreement, provided New Yorkers paying taxes to that state are given equal treatment.

Lerner Tries TV

NEW YORK (AP)—Alan Jay Lerner, lyricist of "My Fair Lady" and "Camelot," is branching out as a television producer.

Under a five-year pact with the National Broadcasting Company, Lerner is to be chief executive for a number of special programs. No announcement yet of how many or subject matter.

Health for All

What Did Last Year Bring?

Tuberculosis, last year brought death to over 10,000 Americans and now active disease to over 50,000.

It also brought the first full year of a new campaign to wipe out this killer, to get rid of it before new generations have to suffer.

TB can be wiped out in this country, experts have reported. But we are far from this goal, though we've had an effective treatement for 15 years. The new campaign to bring this effective treatment to all TB sufferers has been mounted by the tuberculosis associations and health departments across the nation.

"It's now or never," says Dr. Rene Dubos, of New York Rockefeller Institute. "Conditions are at present favorable for the bold and decisive action that could virtually wipe out tuberculosis in this country because the general health of the nation is very good. But we can expect that more and more bacterial resistance to anti-tuberculosis drugs will develop. In 20 years it may be too late."

The tuberculosis associations have worked during 1961 to teach the facts about TB, to encourage everyone to have a yearly tuberculin test or chest X-ray — and to get the the best treatment right away if he needs it.

The year 1961 brought important gains in this fight against TB. Did you help?

Did you have a tuberculin test to find out if any TB germs are present? Did you have a chest X-ray to find out if TB germs are doing any damage?

Whether or not you did, look forward to 1962. Right after New Year's check with your doctor and have your yearly tuberculin test or chest X-ray.

And, while you still have time in 1961 to help in the campaign for 1962—have you sent in your Christmas Seal contribution? Please do.

IndianPopulation Now 509,147 Is Report of Bureau

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Indians of the United States can no longer be considered vanishing Americans, the Bureau of Indian Affairs says.

During the last ten years, the Indian population has been growing faster than the U.S. population as a whole, the bureau said Monday. However, it is still far less than it was when the white man arrived.

Historians estimate about 850,000 Indians were in the area now occupied by the United States when Columbus stumbled on the western hemisphere in 1492 on his way to India.

The blessings of civilization almost proved the undoing of the red men, as smallpox, tuberculosis, whisky and wars of extermination steadily reduced their numbers to less than 250,000 by the end of the 19th century.

From that low point, the Indians have been making a steady comeback with the 1960 showing, 509,147, of whom 285,000 live on reservations. This does not include 14,000 Indians living in Alaska, since the Alaskan indians were not counted in the pre-Columbus estimate.

Between 1950 and 1960, the annual rate of growth for the Indians was 2.5 per cent, compared with 1.7 per cent for the U.S. population as a whole.

First Traffic Victim

SOMERSET, Wis. (AP) — Blais B. Paschall, 21, of Ithaca, N.Y., killed in an automobile accident Monday, was the first reported traffic victim this year in Wisconsin.

Paschall, a student of Mankato, Minn., State College, died when his car missed a curve, overturned and struck a utility pole in this western Wisconsin community. The accident occurred at 12:25 a.m.

Heavy Casualties Among Civilians In North Katanga

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe has conceded the loss of the north Katanga stronghold of Kongolo to troops of the central Congolese government but claims his forces have beaten off Congolese attacks at Kapona, south of Baudouinville.

Tshombe charged at a news conference Monday in Elisabethville that 13,000 Congolese troops advancing on Kongolo had murdered hundreds of civilians and burned villages.

He claimed that the Congolese abandoned heavy equipment and fled in the face of strong Katangan resistance at Kapona. The secessionist leader said both sides suffered heavy casualties there, asserting that most Katangan casualties involved civilians.

Tshombe also declared that he has rejected an order by Congo President Joseph Kasavubu that the Katanga Assembly convene Wednesday in Kamina under U.N. protection.

He said he had informed the U.N. Command in Elisabethville that the order for the Assembly to meet and ratify Tshombe's Kitona unity agreement with Premier Cyrille Adoula was "contrary and in direct violation of the Congo constitution" and "an abuse of power."

Tshombe has summoned the assembly to meet in Elisabethville tomorrow to discuss the Kitona agreement. But he said he was no longer sure the meeting would be held on schedule.

The U.N. Command announced that Bashi tribesmen in Kivu Province had killed at least 12 of their tribal enemies while trying to elect a new chief.

A U.N. spokesman said a Malayan patrol halted the bloodshed but that reports from the patrol indicated the death toll may actually be much higher. The U.N. spokesman was unable to say whether the chief had been elected.

Holiday Party Held by Cubs

Cub Scout Pack 32 of the Atonement Lutheran Church observed Christmas at its monthly meeting Friday night at the church hall following the regular business meeting which was conducted by Stanley Benham Jr. and Harold Bauser, pack committeemen, in the absence of Cubmaster Joseph Gaglianello.

Ms. Gerald Rosenberger's Den 2 led the opening ceremonies, after which Jeff Leisendahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Werner Leisendahl and George Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Young, were welcomed as new Bobcats in the pack.

Advancements earned during the past month were awarded to the following:

Gold arrow under Wolf, Richard Mullaney; Bear badge, Daniel Wynne; Webelos badge, Timothy Hally and Philip Crank.

One year attendance pins were presented to Cubmaster Joseph Gaglianello, Jack Staudacher, advancement chairman, Harold Bauser, committeeman, William Holden, Gary Walton, Kenneth Bauser and Michael Kohler. Benham, who is also treasurer of the pack, received a three year pin.

Announcement was made of the gift of three figures for the Nativity scene on display in front of the church, and hand-made ornaments for the Christmas tree in the Sunday school room. The pack also sang Christmas Carols at Dales Sanitarium and at the Ellen Russell Finger Home during Christmas week. Ice cream was donated to both homes as a Christmas gift from the pack.

Santa was present during the evening to assist in the exchange of gifts to the boys and parents, and each Cub received a Boy Scout flashlight as a present from the pack.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Charles Mullaney, chairman, and the Mmes. Richard Walton, Ralph Hayes and Harry Anders.

Community Notes

All schools in the Saugerties Central School District will reopen on Wednesday morning following the Christmas holiday.

Wednesday, 2 p. m., Saugerties Chapter DAR meets at the home of Mrs. Carroll Neiffer, Beech Street. All members will bring dress material to be send to DAR approved school in south.

Wednesday night, Saugerties Dartball mid-season tournament will be held at Legion Hall, John Street.

Thursday, 8 p. m., St. Mary's Rosary Society meets in the school cafeteria.

Saturday, 10:30 a. m. Jayncee Story Hour will be held at the Saugerties Public Library for 5 to 7 year old children. Miss Louise Pleines, kindergarten teacher at the Mt. Marion School will be guest story teller.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Vozdik of Simmons Drive left Thursday for a three month vacation in Florida.

Albion Adams of New York City was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester B. Glunt of Lighthouse Drive over the weekend.

County Records

will be offered by the Rev. Bernard A. Quinn. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery, Montgomery. Friends may call at the funeral home this evening and Wednesday evening.

Drivers of both cars involved in an accident near Millbrook, Dutchess County, died New Year's Day in a head-on collision on Route 44.

The victims were Carmine Calabro, 40, of Vauxhall, N. J., and Louis Bambrick, 57, of Rhinecliff. Both men were reported to have been riding alone at the time.

According to the Associated Press 27 persons died between 6 p. m. Friday and Monday midnight in automobile crashes or when struck by cars. In addition, fires killed nine persons, including five children in a single fire. In Newburgh, Harold Kennedy and his wife, Clara, died in an apartment fire. Five persons died in other types of accidents.

Roads Slippery

Some of the traffic deaths were blamed on snowstorms or slippery roads.

New Year's day was sunny over much of the state.

The weekend traffic deaths surpassed the 17 deaths during the three-day New Year's weekend a year ago, when 15 persons also died in fires and one life was lost in another type of accident.

The highest previous traffic death total in the state for any New Year's weekend in the last 10 years was 25 during the four-day holiday that ushered in 1959, according to Associated Press records.

51 Persons Died

Over the Christmas holiday a week ago, 51 persons died accidentally in the state. The total included 37 traffic deaths, the most for a Christmas holiday in a decade, and 13 fire deaths.

In Buffalo Monday, five children of Mrs. Henrietta Bass perished in a fire that swept the family home. Mrs. Bass carried an 8-month-old son to safety. The children who died were Dianne, 8, Betty Jean, 6, Ronald, 5, Linda, 4, and Angela, 1½.

Just before the end of the New Year's weekend, three cars collided Monday night at Middle Island, Suffolk County, killing a man, his wife and their daughter. They were Salvatore Spatafora, 60; Jean Spatafora, 50, and Mary Spatafora, 35, all of Southampton.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market began its 1962 career by backing away from an early rise and showing a mixed pattern in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 262.70 with industrials off .40, rails up .50 and utilities up .10.

Most key stocks showed gains or losses running from fractioins to about a point.

Some of the motors and aerospace issues remained well ahead but initial gains by other sections of the list tended to melt away as trading slackened.

Steels were mixed. Bethlehem held a fractional gain. U.S. Steel dipped moderately.

Communist Countries Admit 1961 Bad Year

TOKYO (AP)—All three Communist countries behind Asia's Bamboo Curtain have admitted in New Year's statements that 1961 was a bad year because of "natural calamities" or other difficulties.

The leaders and official organs of Communist China, North Korea and North Viet Nam in New Year's greetings to their people all placed emphasis on domestic problems rather than on international issues. Drought and flood contributed to the domestic difficulties.

More U. S. Soldiers Will Go to Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 4,000 additional U.S. soldiers in two infantry battle groups will be flown to Germany in mid-January, informed sources report.

Also involved in the move will be Air Force planes and their crews. They will come from several bases around the country.

It was understood that the two battle groups will be drawn from the 4th Infantry Division, a regular Army outfit based at Ft. Lewis, Wash. Maj. Gen. William F. Train, 4th Division commander, declined comment.

Three Local Organizations Honor Alf Evers, Historian

Alf Evers, long time Woodstock resident and widely known author and historian, was honored on Friday evening by three Woodstock organizations in which he has been active. They presented him with a handsome citation in the form of an illuminated scroll.

The organizations participating were the Woodstock Library Association, represented by its president, Arthur E. Hansen; the Woodstock Historical Society, Edgar C. Leaycraft, president; and the Woodstock Association for the Conservation and Improvement of the Township, Inc., Benjamin L. Webster, chairman. The scroll was executed by John Pike.

Evers' service to the library has been of long duration. He has been on the board since 1953, was vice president in 1958 and president in 1959. As chairman of the book committee, he has been responsible for the selection of books and the building of a fine collection. He was also a leader in organizing the Hudson Library System, which has arranged mutual cooperation among many libraries throughout the region.

As a long-time member and president of the Woodstock Historical Society, he personally uncovered many early records of Woodstock and the Catskills and has done much to shed light on the earlier life and times of the area. Many records which he discovered are now in the custody of the society. His dream was to create a center which could serve as a museum and proper archive for these valuable maps and documents.

Extensive Research

As a member of the Woodstock Association, he collected and arranged a rare collection of illustrative material to form a point of departure for future planning. Some of this was presented last year in lecture form and will also be incorporated in the next issue of the Association's Bulletin, to be published in January.

But these obvious services are overshadowed by his unstinting interest in the town which has been of great practical value, it was noted at the ceremony. He has acquired and reproduced early town records which were thought lost and have been invaluable in confirming rights of way and other easements belonging to the town.

The text of the scroll was written by Janet Steinlauf and approved by unanimous vote of the governing bodies of each of the three sponsoring organizations.

The text follows: "By the Power and Grace invested in the memberships of the Woodstock Library Association, The Woodstock Historical Society, and The Woodstock Association for the Conservation and Improvement of the Township, Inc., we do hereby make known our very necessary and cherished privilege in honoring Alf Evers, esteemed member, faithful friend, erestwhile irreplaceable officer, upon his impending departure from the Town of Woodstock; whereas, by his wise stewardship he has caused the Association to prosper and grow, and, whereas in all the many years he dwelled among us, by his unstinting labors and enthusiastic example, he did most certainly create for us an image of a friendly town, wherein harmony in living might prevail, where the long-gone past might challenge the shape and flow of the imminent future; and, whereas he has shown us the practical need for a unity of interests: we do now therefore give thanks for this bounty from his hands and regretfully yet with solemn faith, wish him God-speed and the blessings of health, happiness and success in his undertakings."

Dutch Will Talk Sans Conditions On W. N. Guinea

By NEL SLIS

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) —The Dutch government announced today its willingness to discuss the future of West New Guinea with Indonesia without setting conditions beforehand.

Premier Jan de Quay read the government declaration in the lower house of Parliament at the start of debate on West New Guinea, last remnant of Holland's East Indies colonial empire which Indonesia has threatened to invade.

President Sukarno Monday proclaimed the disputed territory a province of Indonesia and ordered a special military command set up to direct the invasion if he orders it.

De Quay said the Netherlands is willing to enter into negotiations without making self-determination of New Guinea's Papuan population a prerequisite. Previously the Dutch had said they would negotiate only if the Papuans were assured the right of self-determination.

The Labor party opposition had been pressing the government to announce willingness to relinquish the territory and then to negotiate for some autonomy for the Papuans.

Foreign Minister Subandrio of Indonesia recently said Indonesia might consider giving West New Guinea "a great measure of autonomy."

Preferred Stocks Seldom Good Buys

Each month I receive letters from readers who ask whether they should buy preferred stocks. In my opinion, preferreds are seldom good buys—unless income is mandatory—and under present money conditions, they are distinctly poor buys.

A preferred stock, unless it is convertible into common, is something of an anomaly. It has neither the security of a bond nor the appreciation potential of a common stock.

I can remember in the 1920's the very popular shibboleth, "U. S. Steel preferred is as good as a bond." This was heard no more after the dividend was partially defaulted in 1932 and the shares fell from 118 to 51½.

Since dividends on preferreds will not be increased, their price movements on the upside are limited. However, there is no such limitation on the downside if the corporation gets into trouble.

Like other fixed income securities, the market price of preferred shares is largely determined by money rates. Since money rates have been firming of late, it is likely that most preferreds will work lower as the economy moves ahead.

It is interesting to look back a few years and examine the experience of a holder of General Motors preferred compared with the man who bought GM common. In 1950, the 5 per cent preferred sold at an average of 124, while the common's price was about 15. Today the man who bought the preferred has sseen his capital diminish by 12 per cent. During the same perior, though, the holder of the common shares had a profit of some 270 per cent.

I don't know what the future growth rate for General Motors or other firms will be, but I do believe that many companies will continue to expand and that investors should be situated so they'll be able to join in this growth. Those holding preferred stock will get a fixed income and nothing else, while common shareholders will have the chance to prosper greatly.

Esopus Youth Injures Foot in Gun Accident

Frank Sessler, 15, son of the caretaker at Mt. St. Alphonsus, Esopus, was taken to Kingston Hospital Monday for treatment of a foot injury resulting from the accidental discharge of a .22 calibre rifle.

The youth was admitted about 10:20 a. m. Monday.

An investigation by Deputies John Seaholm and Emil Kuhnen of Sheriff Claude Bell's staff, indicated the boy had been at the home of Francis Sims Jr., 13, preparing to go rabbit hunting with Francis Sims Sr. Sessler stood the .22 calibre rifle on his left foot awaiting the others. The gun, which was not known to be loaded, was discharged and the scatter-shot went through the left foot striking a toe. Sessler said he was not aware the gun was loaded.

East German Reds Boast About Wall

BERLIN (AP)—East German Communists boasted today that their wall through Berlin is "so high and strong that neither God nor the devil" can help in getting across. But West Berlin newspapers reported at least two refugees escaped over the weekend.

The Communist statement was directed at Bishop Otto Dibelius, head of the German Evangelical Church. Bishop Dibelius in a New Year's message quoted a line from the 18th Psalm about leaping over a wall with the help of God.

Neues Deutschland, the official East Berlin Communist daily commented sarcastically: "In the first place our walls, unlike those of Jericho, are so high and strong that neither God nor the devil's help would permit him to get over it."

Rifle Theft Probed

Bradley Wilson, of 22 West O'Reilly Street, complained to police Monday that someone stole a .22 caliber rifle from his parked car.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Soviet vs. U. S. System In Teaching of Reading

"Mrs. Black had three happy pigs.
We know her pigs were happy.
They looked for something to eat.
They could not find it.
Still the three pigs were happy."

This arresting piece of prose is a sampling from one of this nation's "basal" school readers. It and books like it are American children's introduction to the grace and majesty of English literature.

Note, please how it harps on certain words. Three times it repeats the words "pigs" and "happy." This reiteration is deliberate. Its authors are not the lunatics they appear to be. Instead, they are the tools of this country's educational powers who, 30 years ago, rejected the phonic reading instruction of children for that "whole"-word memorizing method which wiser folk than I hold responsible for increasing reading disability among our youngsters. So, inevitably their works are babbling dullness.

It stands to reason that if you are going to try to teach a child to read by pushing words into his memory, two results will occur. You will have to repeat those words to the point of nausea, and you'll have to restrict the number of new words you can offer him in deference to the limits of human memory.

So what happens is that we Americans equip fourth grade Johnny with a vocabulary of 1,500 words while the Soviet Union, using the rejected phonic system, equips its fourth grade Ivan with at least 10,000 Russian words.

This is the point of an explosive new book "What Ivan Knows That Johnny Doesn't" by Arthur Trace Jr. Its facts may detonate action on the educational front just as the feat of Yuri Gagarin aroused us to roar at our space experts, "Get going! Stop dithering—and move!"

I, for one, surely hope so. For Russia's Ivan, phonically trained to explore new words by sounding their syllables into recognizable wholes, uses a ninth grade reader that offers him Shakespeare, Tolstoy, Goethe and Chekov. But your ninth grade Johnny—what does his reader offer? A collection of such gems as "Pass That Puck!" sparked with occasional selections from people like Carl Sandburg and James Thurber. Yes, like the small boy who had to prove he could spit farther than his rival, we may now set ourselves to proving that we can teach reading to children, too.

Buy this book. Read it. Then, at your next PTA meeting get up and ask the question: "Why is my child involved with Mrs. Black and her happy pigs when Russian children are given a fairy tale by Leo Tolstoy?"

3 Shakespearean Plays

STRATFORD, Ont., (AP) — The 10th anniversary season of the Shakespeare Festival is to include three of the bard's dramas—"Macbeth," "The Tempest" and "The Taming of the Shrew." The acting company is to be headed by Christopher Plummer, Canadian-born actor prominent on both the New York and London stages. In addition to the three plays by Shakespeare, Edmond Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac" will be inserted into the repertoire July 30, six weeks after the festival opens June 18.

What's behind the 4% headlines?

All of a sudden, many banks in town are advertising four percent on savings and time deposits held for one year or more.

WHAT'S BEHIND IT?

Interest rates at commercial banks are regulated by state and federal authorities. They put a top limit on the amount of interest that the banks may pay. Recently, they raised that limit, effective January 1, 1962.

So some of the banks are increasing the interest they pay on savings and time deposits.

AND SO ARE WE.

In three ways.

One: We'll pay 4% a year at the end of each quarter on savings deposits up to $25,000 that have been in your account one year or more.

Two: We'll pay 3½% a year at the end of each quarter on savings deposits that remain in your account less than one year. Interest will be paid on a savings deposit received during the first 10 calendar days of any calendar month from the first day of such calendar month.

Three: We'll pay 4% per annum on any time deposit having a maturity date 12 months or more after the date of deposit, and 3½% per annum on any time deposit having a maturity date less than 12 months and not less than 6 months after the date of deposit, without limitation on the amount of the deposit.

Montreal Jail Has Riot

More Trouble Feared From 400 Prisoners

MONTREAL (AP)—More trouble was feared today from 400 prisoners who rioted and battled police for four hours in Montreal's Bordeaux jail.

The men spent the night in cells of two unheated, water-logged wings where they were herded finally after their outburst Monday in the dining hall.

Lt. Col. Leon Lambert, governor of the jail, said prisoners in a block for persons awaiting trial took part in the rebellion and that "some of them looked drunk—possibly from goof balls (barbiturates)."

"The disturbance is far from over," Lambert told newsmen. "We have to get them back in their own cells yet."

He said three prisoners and a fireman manning a water hose were injured, none seriously. The fireman was believed struck by a piece of metal thrown by a prisoner.

Lambert said the rioting started with some grumbling and shouting about 4:30 p.m. which developed into open rebellion as the men were being served a roast beef New Year's dinner.

An electric power failure followed two hours later, knocking out the tower which controls the cell gates. "Without electricity, we could do nothing," Lambert said. 'We had no lights or water here for two hours."

About 90 city and provincial police rushed to the jail and entered the prison yard with baseball bats and tear gas. Firemen were forced to run in hoses from outside the jail when water pumps failed to work.

Windows, plumbing, walls and bunks were smashed or ripped in both wings and a foot of water covered the floors.

Firemen doused fires the prisoners set in blankets and mattresses but "we didn't have to use the hoses on men," said prison controller J. A. Pilon. "When they saw the hoses, they got scared. They didn't want to get wet."

Lambert said he didn't know yet what had caused the riot, that "you can't talk to these fellows when they are in revolt." The jail for the past decade has been plagued by rioting prisoners and poor conditions. It houses 750 prisoners.

New Year's Riot Occurs in Reno, 22 to See Judge

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Twenty-two persons were ordered to appear in municipal court today, charged with taking part in a wild New Year's riot that began with stolen kisses and ended in a fog of tear gas and water from fire hoses.

Police Capt. Robert Peel said the 22 were booked on assorted charges from inciting riot to creating a disturbance. In addition, he said, 16 servicemen arrested were turned over to military authorities for disciplinary action.

At least 30 persons were injured, none seriously.

The riot began when officers arrested several youths who were stopping cars and kissing the women occupants. Jeering crowds attacked a police car and hurled liquor bottles and glasses for two hours before tear gas and fire hoses dispersed them. About 1,000 persons were involved.

Second Death From Crash

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — A fatal crash New Year's Day has claimed a second victim — Santo A. Lamark, 21, of Binghamton.

Lamark died Monday night in Binghamton General Hospital of injuries suffered when the automobile in which he was riding left Route 11 about five miles south of here and struck a tree. Mervin Houser, about 34, of Windsor, was killed in the crash.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Serve Sea Food in Patty Shells

SPOONED into patty shells, or over toast points, this sea food and olive mixture is ideal for postseason eating.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

For a postholiday supper party, try this pleasant recipe. Use a white sauce flavored with onion and cheddar cheese as a base, then add sea food mixture and sliced pimento-stuffed olives. Serve in patty shells ordered from your baker or heat the frozen packaged kind from your grocer.

HOLIDAY OLIVE SEA FOOD
(Makes about 10 servings)

6 tablespoons butter or margarine
6 tablespoons all-purpose flour
3 cups milk
2 cups grated cheddar cheese (about 8-ounces)
¼ cup chopped onion
1¾ cups cooked boned lobster
OR
1 can (10-ounces) lobster, drained and boned
3 cups cooked, shelled and deveined shrimp
OR
3 cans (4½-ounces each) shrimp, drained.
¼ cups cooked, boned crabmeat
OR
1 can (6½-ounces) crabmeat, drained and boned
1 cup sliced pimento-stuffed olives

Patty shells or toast points

Melt butter or margarine; add flour and stir until smooth. Gradually add milk and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in cheese until melted. Add onion, lobster, shrimp, crabmeat and olives; stir. Heat to serving temperature; stir frequently. Serve with patty shells or toast points.

General Cargo Ship Is Reported Adrift

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A 300-foot general cargo ship reported itself adrift in the Gulf of Mexico without power early today, then its radio went dead.

The Coast Guard reported that one of its search planes failed to locate the vessel, the Catalina S., in a position given in earlier distress calls. It added that this did not necessarily mean that the ship was lost since it could have widely miscalculated its position.

The Catalina S. is of Panamanian registry. The destination of the vessel and number of persons aboard were not learned.

Schwenk Aim: Downward Trend in Taxes

going to have to work together; to forget party labels; to think first and foremost of our people.

I would also point out that I bring to the office of mayor an outlook that is quite different from most of my predecessors. As you all know, I have just retired from a job I have held for many years in order to assume the responsibilities of mayor.

I have no financial dependency on the office of mayor, nor do I have further political ambitions. In short, I do not need this position to earn my living, or as a stepping stone to higher political office.

What I hope to accomplish as mayor of Kingston, I seek for the people of Kingston alone. And, I intend to use every ounce of political skill and administrative knowledge gained in more than 20 years of government service to solve the serious problems that Kingston faces today, and leave the people of our city with a well defined path towards future happiness.

I will welcome wholeheartedly your support and cooperation towards these aims, and sincerely hope that you will join with me to achieve them for our city.

And now, I woud like to indicate some of the actions that I feel must take priority in building a bright future for Kingston.

Parking First Goal

I think all of us, and myself particularly, are very much aware that I've placed heavy emphasis on the parking problems of our uptown business district in recent months, and that I promised to be ready to present my recommendation to the Common Council on my first day in the office.

It will be my pleasure tomorrow, on the occasion of the first business meeting of this Common Council, to present my recommendations for Phase One of my parking program, which will provide off-street parking facilities for 250 cars in the uptown business district, without eliminating a single, high potential tax producing business property from the assessment rolls.

I feel that this recommendation is extremely important as a stop-gap measure to thwart the deterioration of our uptown business area, and provide our major tax producing properties with the ability to compete with the shopping centers now in operation, or soon to open their doors, at the southern, northern, and western approaches to our city. And, I would point out, that I consider the program that the Common Council will receive tomorrow as only a preliminary step towards making Kingston the most important retail marketing center in the mid-Hudson valley. It is obvious to me that 250 off-street parking spaces will not bring our uptown district on par with parking facilities at shopping centers outside our city limits.

May Reduce Meter Levy

The next matter to receive priority attention, of course, will be the 1962 budget, which I intend to examine in detail with the various department heads, to determine whether any changes can or should be made before submitting my recommendations to the Common Council later in the month.

I hope to find within the budget, sufficient flexibility to provide funds for the change-over of our parking meters to nickel and penny parking. This reduction in parking meter fees, I believe, is another necessary step that must be taken to provide assistance to our merchants, and make shopping more convenient and less costly to our citizens and visitors.

Favors Charter Changes

Also, in the early part of the year, I shall recommend a change in a section of the city charter which will permit certification of our tax assessment rolls to the Kingston Consolidated School District in August, when all other local governments in the consolidated school district certify their tax rolls. This will put a halt to tax free construction of new buildings and building improvements, increase our total tax assessments by many thousands of dollars, and reduce the individual school tax share of all of our citizens.

Another responsibility that will receive top priority from this administration will be a careful evaluation of the progress of urban renewal to date, and consideration of the next logical actions to be taken through urban renewal to further the growth and improvement of our city.

At this moment, I have had only one opportunity for first hand information on the procedures and potential benefits of the urban renewal program, and do not feel sufficiently indoctrinated with the many facets of our master plan to make definite statement about future policies on urban renewal.

Eyes Urban Conferences

However, I am aware of Kingston's needs for rehabilitation and rejuvenation within the framework of citywide planning, and I have hopes that urban renewal can provide the means for accomplish many of our aims. It is with this point of view that I shall have several meetings with our planning consultants before this month has passed.

I also intend to work closely with department heads to evaluate their manpower requirements and utilization, and determine whether our property owners are receiving the best of city services for their tax dollars.

Stand on Street Work

By the time weather conditions permit a resumption of street maintenance work, I hope to have new cost saving procedures in effect, including the new resurfacing methods which are being used so successfully in Binghamton and several other municipalities in the East.

I am confident that if these programs can be initiated during the first half of the year, that Kingston will be on its way to providing the tax structure, and quality of city services and facilities that will be necessary to attract new industry and capital to our city.

To Name Commission

Therefore, I plan to appoint a group of leading citizens, who are expert in various phases of business and professional life, to a special Commission on Industrial Development. This commission will concern itself with contacting firms that are seeking to relocate or expand, acquaint them with the resources and facilities available in Kingston, and help them to investigate the feasibility of locating in our city. In this way, we will be taking direct action towards creating new opportunities for growth and security in our community.

I have one other appointment yet to make, which I will announce later in the week. It is that of a city historian to fill the position vacated when my very good friend Joseph F. Sullivan passed away last week. Although I have already decided on an eminently qualified resident of Kingston to assume this post, I would defer announcing his appointment until I have made clear the sadness I personally feel, and the loss I think our city has suffered with the death of Joe Sullivan. It was his responsibility to preserve for posterity a record of the Kingston of our times, and he did this task with great dedication and objectivity. There is nothing better one can say about a historian.

And, speaking of history, I sincerely hope that next year at this time, when what we have done in 1962, has already become history, that our future will be brightened considerably by the accomplishments we will achieve in the next 12 months.

Pledges Best Efforts

With deep gratefullness for the position that the people of Kingston have bestowed upon me, I promise to do my best to live up to the promises I have made, and wish you all a very healthy and prosperous New Year with God's will.

Syracuse Night Club Fire Loss $100,000

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Fire caused an estimated $100,000 damage at a night club destroyed shortly after a New Year's Eve party ended.

Fire Chief Irving Lynch of East Syracuse said the fire started early Monday in the kitchen of the Brookside Restaurant, a one-story, brick and stone building.

The cause was not determined. No one was injured.

Fire officials estimated the damage.

Undesirable Alien

Invasion of Cuba Declared Success

GUATEMALA (AP)—President Miguel Ydigoras says last April's invasion of Cuba by forces trained in Guatemala so frightened Fidel Castro "that his warlike activities outside Cuba ceased since that date."

The Guatemalan president, disclosed officially in a New Year's message Saturday night for the first time that anti-Castro Cubans were trained in Guatemala.

"President Kennedy still has the responsibility of a sequel," he said.

He did not explain that statement clearly, but went on to say: "The Bay of Pigs (scene of the April invasion) was a victory, not a defeat, and he who begins under such auspices must go on with the great task of decommunizing that part of the American territory. There are signed commitments in South America."

Referring to the April invasion, he said Guatemala "encouraged thousands of exiled Cubans to fight to regain their own homeland instead of lamenting their ill fortune."

He said Guatemala reached an understanding with the exiled Cubans and "they entered into arrangements with a friendly government able to give arms and sustain training and a military campaign."

A secret training base was set up in Guatemala and another operated openly, he added.

Winners Named In Art Contest For Yule Program

Winners in the elementary school art contest were announced at the annual Christmas Eve program on the Village Green which was attended by several hundred children, parents and friends.

First and second place winners in the various grades were: Kindergarten, first gift, $10, Danny Plate; second gift, $5, Angela Tomaselli; First grade winner, Edmund Tomaselli; second place, the Geertsema twins, Leslie and Coral; second grade, Sally Kinns and Adrian Baptiste; third grade, John Langling and Peter Anderson; fourth grade, Edmond Sturgeon and Carol Beisele. All the winners received their prizes in the mail.

Thirty five paintings were submitted by the children in the township. The paintings depicted the theme: "What I See When I Think of Christmas."

Several entries could not be considered for either of two reasons: The child submitted more than one painting or because the work did not appear to be spontaneous or original. The judges were: Ainslie (Pat) Burke of the Woodstock Artists Association; Nancy Summers, former art teacher, and one of this year's Woodstock Foundation Award winners, and Allen Cochran, one of Woodstock's most widely known artists.

Dane Winner and Sandra Baccari, who were selected by their schoolmates, reigned as Snow King and Queen. They sat on enther side of Santa Claus during the traditional service. Both are in the second grade and were noted in Santa's Books for being good all year, in school as well as home, and both are seven years old.

Workers Listed

Santa Claus made another of his surprise and spectacular appearances. He was first spotted on roof top of the Cousins building, but Woodstock Fire Company No. 1 had to be called in with an extension ladded the get him down. The fireman made a pathway through the crowd and escorted him across the street.

Many townspeople have requested the names of those whom they might thank for the Christman program and the various other contributions.

The Christmas Eve Committee is made of a 12-member board consisting of Robert Carr, chairman; Frank Benson, treasurer; William R. West, in charge of distribution of Cheer and Food baskets; Ruth Kinns, who sees that Santa's stockings are filled and the others packed. Gordon Anderson is in charge of programming and Milton Combs attends to all the arrangements of the Christmas tree, its lighting and transportation. The creche on the green was done by local artist, John Pike. Combs is also responsible for microphones, wiring and sound. Assisting Combs are George Eichler, George Laws and Gottlob Wagner. Kermit Schwarz and others also assist the committee from time to time. Costumes are another department but are handled by one person, Mrs. Maryland Goddard. The department of publicity and the children's art work is another one-person operation handled expertly by KiKi Godwin.

Then, of course, there is Joseph Holdridge, who is Stanta Claus's right hand man in the town of Woodstock. Though the town wishes to thank the committee, it is through the support of the township that the committee is able to function. The thank yous work both ways.

Post Office Has Record Volume

Along with other postoffices in the country, the Woodstock Postoffice has handled a record volume of mail this Christmas season, Postmaster Leon Carey announced.

From Dec. 1 through Dec. 23, approximately 341,790 pieces were handled at the Woodstock office, compared to 289,452 last year, an 18 per cent increase.

The records show that more people mailed earlier this year than they have in previous years. This, along with the use of addresses by some of the patrons added greatly to the efficiency in handling the mail.

This year's two-day record was on Monday-Tuesday, Dec. 18-19, when the Woodstock office handled 52,710 pieces of mail.

Local Artists Of Another Era In Whitney Show

The works of several Woodstock art titans of an earlier era were included in a specially super exhibition at the Whitney Museum which presented a selection of the finest works of its collection arranged chronologically from 1900 to 1960.

Among the artists honored are Philip Guston, Yasuo Kuniyoshi, Robert Henri, George Bellows and Eugene Speicher.

Works by Guston and Kuniyoshi were shown on the first floor. Henri, Speicher, Bellows and Kuniyoshi also bracketed on the third floor which reviews the period from 1900 to 1939.

In conjunction with this 30th anniversary exhibition, the Whitney Museum also announces a book called American Art of Our Century, with text by Lloyd Goodrich, director, and life member of the Art Students League and John I. H. Bauer, associated director. There are reproductions of 81 works in color and 166 in black and white.

Martin Is Judge in Albany Art Show

Fletcher Martin of Woodstock and Theodore Batzell and John Watrous of Schenectady were the judges in the 17th annual show sponsored by the Albany Artists Group.

First prize winner was Madeline Novlotsky's abstraction "From The Italian Hill" which took the Frances Manning prize. The Raymond Schofield Patrol prize for the best watercolor went to Edwin Becker for his "Fifth and The Park."

Seventy-five paintings participated in this year's show which will be on view at the Albany Institute through January 28.

Civil Defense Talks at OCS

Major Edgar H. Timmerman, Director of Civil Defense for Ulster County, will give two important lectures on Tuesday, Jan. 9, and Tuesday, Jan. 16. Both of these talks will be presented at the Onteora Central School starting at 7:30 p. m.

On January 9, Major Timmerman will discuss "Basic Civil Defense," and on January 16 his topic will be "Civil Defense and What to Do About It."

Major Timmerman is appearing as part of the Onteora Central School Adult Education Program. The general public is invited to attend.

Demonstration Unit Meets on January 9

The next meeting of the Woodstock Home Demonstration Unit will be held in the Overlook Methodist church hall on Tuesday, January 9, at 1:30 p. m.

All members are urged to attend to hear Mrs. Ronald Herrick of Kingston discuss the history of puppets. This promises to be a most interesting meeting.

Hostesses for the day will be Theresa Duane, Agnes Anderson, Mura Cochran, Peggy Cummins and Annette Dietz.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The labor Management battle over the effects of automation of jobs is being complicated today by another struggle.

That is the growing competition between American goods and jobs and foreign goods and jobs. The two problems are becoming hard to separate.

A number of U.S. firms say they are able to hold their own or conquer new markets only because of mechanical advances in their factories.

But others are sighting a new threat: What they call the even faster move of late toward automation abroad than in America, long thought of as its home.

During the early postwar years technical advances and superior skills let many U.S. firms offset the advantages that Western European and Japanese manufacturers had through lower wage rates. But these countries have been mechanizing fast, and the United States is losing that advantage. Productivity—the amount of goods turned out per man hour of labor—has increased much faster in Europe and Japan than here.

In recent months Europeans have been reported stepping up the automation drive-and for one of the reasons that inspired its growth here. Wage rates, although starting from a much lower base, have been rising faster in several of these countries than here.

In addition, European management has been spurred on by a general labor shortage, felt here only in certain skilled trades.

Executives of Reliance Electric and Engineering Co., Cleveland, report European factories are installing automated machinery much faster now than five years ago. As a result, they joined a European firm in setting up a company in Switzerland to meet the demand for electronic controls and variable speed drives.

The same increasing demand, here and abroad, is reported by Warner Electric Brake & Clutch Co. of Beloit, Wis.

Bell & Howell says its precision photographic lenses can be produced by automated equipment economically enough to be sold abroad under the noses of foreign competitors.

Lincoln Electric Company also says automation enables it to compete in foreign markets.

Roger Bolz, member of Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg's Committee on Automation and Manpower and pubisher of Automation Magazine, says that engineers in Europe are hard at work on automation and mass production methods needed to compete in an unrestricted market. They are using American techniques but generating new ones of their own.

Bolz holds that American manufacturing engineers will have to develop even more sophisticated automation systems to meet a twofold challenge: Modern technological advances of competitors, domestic or foreign, and the still lower, if rising, wage rates abroad.

The Soviet Union, too, is getting into the act. The Institute of Automation in Kiev is reported to have been authorized to expand its staff from 2,000 to 10,000 persons.

Long Diamonds Squeeze Partner

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The Corpus Christi tournament was the scene of one of the luckiest hands of 1961.

It did not matter whether South opened one no-trump or one heart. At all tables except one he wound up playing a four-heart contract. Due to the fact that South had the same number of spades and diamonds as his partner and because clubs failed to break, no one made four hearts.

When Joe Musameci of San Antonio sat South, he opened one no-trump and North decided to forego using Stayman and jumped right to the no-trump game.

Joe won the first diamond trick and ran off five hearts. He had little hope of making his contract, but miracles sometimes happen at bridge.

His next play was to throw West in with a diamond. West promptly cashed four diamond trick and the miracle came to pass. Joe discarded down to the ace-nine of clubs and a spade in dummy and East had to go down to three cards also.

That meant East could keep only a singleton spade or singleton club. He chose to unguard the club king whereupon Joe, who discarded behind him hung onto the queen and one club and the ace of spades and made the last three tricks and contract.

Allot County $99,600 In Welfare Assistance

ALBANY — State Comptroller Arthur Levift today announced the distribution of $25,601,000 — Ulster County receives $99,600 — for the month of January to the 65 Public Relfare Districts in the state.

These monies represent the federal and state share (80 per cent) of the anticipated welfare expenditures by the localities. The federal share of these advances amounts to $13,921,000.

The Old Testament refers to Byblos, Lebanon, as Gebal. The town's Phoenician name is Jubayl. But Greeks and Romans called it Byblos because of the scrolls of papyrus (biblos) manufactured there.

Gov. Lawrence Sees Surplus in Sight

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. Lawrence, beginning the last full year of his term in office, had some heartening financial news today both for the new General Assembly and the citizens of Pennsylvania.

He said the state's financial house was in order for the first time in recent history, a surplus is in sight for the end of this fiscal year next June 30, and no new taxes will be needed to keep the budget balanced.

The 72-year-old governor presented his budget message the day the legislature convened, something of a precedent in itself. Normally, the budget is not ready before the third week of the session.

Would Have London Homeless at Palace

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, England (AP)—A Presbyterian minister suggested today Queen Elizabeth should invite some of London's homeless to come and live in Buckingham Palace.

"There must be a great deal of spare room in the palace," the Rev. William Barbour wrote in his church magazine.

"I know if the queen allowed people in need of accommodation to share her house many other people would follow suit."

There are about 3,000 homeless in London. The vast palace has more than 600 rooms, many of them unused.

Contrary to popular belief, some owls see well in the daylight.

Newsmen Are Told:

Kennedy Plans in 1962 Call For No Surprises, No Heat

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's plans for 1962 — as outlined to newsmen over the weekend at Palm Beach — call for no surprises and little heat.

His views are authoritatively based on discussions he has had with men close to him.

What he is reported to have said adds up to leadership but of a kind neither sensational nor original. It was that way in 1961. He apparently wants it that way.

In foreign affairs he plans a steady plugging away at policies already established and, on domestic problems, a mild and cautious attitude which some may think too mild and overly cautious.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk once remarked to people around him that he does not want to be judged on the merit of some particular action but, when he is through, on the over-all value of events, past and ahead, seems to have pretty much the same view.

A Comparison

While Premier Khrushchev at 67 is 23 years Kennedy's senior, it is the older man who sounds like a romantic, the younger, the one without illusions.

While Khrushchev has predicted the triumph of communism like a man taking pep pills, Kennedy has repeatedly regarded the East-West struggle as long, bleak and rugged.

This showed up again in the Palm Beach reports which said he thinks the balance of power is on the side of the West—but perhaps only marginally.

Over the long run, he thinks the West can keep the margin but not so much as to have full freedom of action.

Otherwise, what came out of Palm Beach on his thinking about foreign affairs can be boiled down to this: That this country will follow the Truman-Eisenhower policy of aiding newly emerged nations, neutrals included, to help them stay free of Moscow. It will keep strong militarily and stand with its allies.

Will Continue

In other words: he'll keep on doing in 1962 what he did in 1961.

At home this year, as last, he has to deal with a Congress where, although his own Democrats are in a majority, the prevailing mood is and has been conservative.

His own performance last year, in dealing with Congress, was pretty conservative, too. He did not fight hard enough for his programs to make anyone very mad at home.

His own explanation for this may have been revealed at Palm Beach: that while he considers his administration progressive, his progressive aims are tempered by reality.

This could mean he did not spend time fighting Congress for something he didn't think would be approved or that he did not want to make so many people mad at him on one issue that they would gang up to block him on something else.

This, the Palm Beach stories indicate, will be his policy this year also.

Dice Game Thought Reason for Shooting

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 41-year-old man was under a first-degree murder charge today in a shooting that apparently stemmed from a dice-game brawl.

The victim, Ananias Duckworth, 29, an east side restaurant owner, was found New Year's Eve between two parked cars near his restaurant.

Police said Duckworth was shot in the chest by Neal Crescenzo, an uncle of a man Duckworth allegedly stabbed in a recent fight at a dice game. The shooting apparently occurred in the street.

Duckworth had been free on bail on a second-degree assault charge in the stabbing.

New York State Man Killed in Maryland

MITCHELLVILLE, Md. (AP)—The collision of an automobile and a small, foreign-made car killed a New York State man and sent four members of his family to a hospital.

Frederick Duchano, 37, of Star Lake, St. Lawrence County, N.Y., died in the crash Saturday night on U.S. highway 50, just east of here.

Police said his wife and three children, passengers in the smaller car, were not injured seriously. All were taken to a hospital in Annapolis for observation.

Dies of Burns

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Elsie Gross, 57, of suburban Cheektowaga, died Sunday night in St. Joseph's Inter-community Hospital of burns suffered in a kitchen fire several weeks ago at her home.

Former Mayor Dies

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Harrison R. Franklin, mayor of Pulaski from 1937 to 1949, died Sunday in House of Good Samaritan Hospital after a short illness. He was 87.

Why We Say--

FROM NOSE: If you put up your "dukes," your prepare your fists for a fight. The expression started because the Duke of Wellington had a large nose referred to as a "duke." A large fist was soon called a "duke buster" (or nose buster) and finally fists were just called dukes.

Scientific Advances Aid Nation's 26 Million Dogs

It was inevitable that with the giant steps being taken by the various sciences, "man's best friend" would come in for his share of the benefits. The dog population of this country, which is now in excess of 26 million, can boast of having some of the finest minds in dentistry, biology, virology, pathology, psychology, and medicine — among others — working in its behalf.

The scientific community's attention to dogs stems not only from the warm spot we hold for this animal, but from the undeniable fact that they are big business.

Half Billion Spent

In one recent year, for example, the American dog-owning public spent more than half-a-billion dollars for the care and service of this one category of pets. Some $350 million went for 2,500,000,000 pounds of dog food; leashes, collars and grooming aids cost $25,000,000. Another $35,000,000 was spent for dog licenses, and $100,000,000 on the original purchase price of dogs, medical care, and assorted items. With the canine population explosion over the past 30 years amounting to better than 200 per cent (as compared with only 50 per cent for humans) it looks like just the beginning.

Our canine companion is insurable, too. There are firms that will write up to $15,000 worth of life insurance on your pet. All you need do with one such company — aside from paying the fee — is place on record a "nose" print of your dog.

When dog owners want to purchase one of the larger policies, however, the company is a little more concerned about the estimated worth of the dog and requires proof of its value.

On the scientific side, psychologists have become involved in studies of dog-owner relationships which can create emotional problems such as the effect of a dog's illness or death on its owner. One case described is that of a man whose Doberman pinscher represented for him a symbol of independence. According to the psychologists, should the animal become ill and in need of nursing, the owner's attitude is likely to change.

React Differently

A very different reaction will take place in the woman whose need is to "mother" her poodle. Recovery time in each case would be different as would the way the owners should be counseled by the veterinarian.

In dentistry, new and improved methods have been developed for the care of canine teeth. The techniques, which are all performed under anesthesia, include tartar removal, painting teeth with tincture of iodine, brushing with coarse pumice, and the use of prophylactic paste, which is supposed to be helpful in cases of halitosis.

The nutritionist has had a great deal to do with dog's present well-being. Throwing him a bone or filling his plate with the left-overs from dinner is a far cry from the meals supplemented with protein, fat, carbohydrates and minerals which he receives today. The modern dog-owner watches calories; adds calcium to the puppy's or gestating dog's diet; and regulates vitamin intake.

Biscuits keep his teeth in trim, and he has a choice of tidbits flavored with beef, veal, chicken or liver.

It is on the medical frontier, however, where research advances are proving most beneficial for the dog. There is available a choice of almost every antibiotic, from penicillin through the tetracyclines. His worms are facing an all-out attack; his distemper has been inoculated almost out of existence; and a host of other diseases are being investigated and attacked.

Difficult to Medicate

Animals are notoriously difficult to medicate (as anyone who has ever attempted to give a cat an enema can attest) but researchers are now making this easier. As an example, a vetinol preparation for treating cough due to upper respiratory infection is now made to taste like liver.

Mark Twain provided a somewhat satirical justification for man's emotional investment in dogs when he observed that "if you pick up a starving dog and make him prosperous, he will not bite you. This is the principal difference between a dog and a man."

matter of Fact

The gold stock at Fort Knox is valued at more than $10 billion. And the government is taking no chances. The fabulous treasure is housed in a bombproof building, constructed of granite, steel and concrete, enclosing a torchproof steel and concrete vault. Added security is provided by guards, sentries, a steel fence and a photoelectric eye. And if that isn't enough, a nearby army post gives further protection.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

Social Scientists Will Look at College Years In Special Vassar Conference

Eminent Sociologists, Psychologists and Educators will gather at Vassar College this month (Jan. 12 and 13) to discuss challenging new findings about intellectual and personality development during the college years as reported in "The American College: A Psychological and Social Interpretation of the Higher Learning" (to be published by John Wiley, N. Y. on 1/2/62).

Discussion at the two-day Conference, which is titled 'The American College: The Social Scientists Challenge the Educators,' will take off from some of the research reports and analysis in the above volume. It is edited by Nevitt Sanford, Director of the Institute for the Study of Human Problems at Stanford University, and former Coordinator of the Mary Conover Mellon Foundation at Vassar College under whose auspices much of the research reported in the book was done.

The implications of these findings for higher education and the desirability of change in liberal arts institutions will be the subject of the opening address on Friday evening (1/12) by Karl W. Deutsch, Professor of Political Science at Yale University. Harold Taylor, former President of Sarah Lawrence College, will comment on Dr. Deutsch's address.

On Saturday, leading figures in social science and education, including seven college and foundation presidents, will examine present day liberal arts education in America. Miss Katharine McBride, president of Bryn Mawr College, will act as moderator. Panel Speakers will be Donald Young, president of the Russell Sage Foundation, who will reflect the sociologist's point of view; William C. H. Prentice, dean of Swarthmore College, who will speak from a psychologist's point of view; Benson Snyder, M.D., physciatrist-in-chief at Massachusetts Institute of Technology; and William Fels, president of Bennington College. Other participants in the discussion will be:

Louis T. Benezet, president, the Colorado College.

Frederick Burkhardt, president, American Council of Learned Societies.

Dana L. Farnsworth, M.D., director, health services, Harvard University.

Clarence Faust, president, the Fund for the Advancement of Education.

Mervin B. Freedman, coordinator of the Mellon Research Program and a contributor to "The American College."

Peter Madison, director, Counseling Service, Princeton University.

Jeanne L. Noble, School of Education, New York University.

Edward S. Noyes, acting president, College Entrance Examination Board.

Esther Raushenbush, Sarah Lawrence College.

Nevitt Sanford, former coordinator of the Mellon Research Program and editor of "The American College."

Father Charles E. Sheedy, dean, College of Arts and Letters, University of Notre Dame.

Robert J. Wert, vice provost, Stanford University.

Thirty-eight special guests, along with members of the Vassar College faculty and students, will join in the afternoon session.

According to Dr. Sanford "the book reveals the enormous impact of personality and social factors upon intellectual development. It demonstrates how various factors, such as the teacher's personality and the student society, do their work. It offers models for the analysis of the workings of such factors in colleges. The 'challence' is that colleges must understand such factors and learn to control them to the students' advantage."

AT THE COLLEGE YEARS —3

Some of the questions likely to be discussed at the conference will be:

What are the functions of colleges in American society?

What is success in college? How is degree of success to be estimated?

What is the ideal relationship of research and teaching?

What are the qualities to look for in entering students?

What do we know about fitting different educational programs to different kinds of students?

What are some of the main psychological barriers to effective performance by teachers, in the classroom and in other settings?

Is everybody happy about the present most typical organization of teaching — departments, classrooms, examinations?

The MARY CONOVER MELLON FOUNDATION was established at Vassar in 1949 by a grant of $2 million from Old Dominion Foundation. Among its objectives are the development of methods of education for maturity, and the fostering of the growth of mental and emotional maturity of students coincident with their intellectual development. A basic assumption of the program is that the period of adolescence and development, including the college years, can be crucial in the achievement of independence and maturity and can play an important role in developing character and personality as well as mind.

Some of the results of 6 years of Mellon studies of Vassar students and alumnae, made by means of tests, questionnaires, and interviews, appear in ten of the chapters of "The American College." The full findings are scheduled for future publication in a two-volume work devoted exclusively to Mellon Foundation studies of contemporary and former Vassar students.

Benedictine Auxiliary

The Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary will hold its first business meeting of the new year on Wednesday, Jan. 3 at 8:30 p. m., in the auditorium of the Nurses' Residence. Plans for the year will be made. Mrs. William Cranston, president, invites all members to attend. A social hour is planned. Refreshments will be served.

If you want your baked custard to be gold-color and smooth as glass, substitute 2 egg yolks for every whole egg called for.

Home Extension Service News

Making sewing a smaller gamble is discussed in the following article by Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent of the Ulster County Extension Service Association.

In a sense, sewing is a gamble; you have to invest money in a pattern and fabric—and time in making a garment, before you can see it.

Some women find it easy to imagine how a garment will look. Others do not. However, choosing a pattern does take some consideration as to ease of construction, which would involve the number of pattern pieces and the amount of detail. Also, the lines of the garment on your particular figure should be considered. Many times the drawings or sketches are not realistic. It does help to look for photographs of patterns made into garments and to carefully study them.

Choosing the correct size is another big consideration in dressmaking. Four measurements are important—the bust, waist, and hips, plus the back waist length.

The back waist length is the distance from the prominent bone at the base of the back of the neck—to the natural waistline in the middle of the back. This measure helps you determine the type of pattern—junior, misses, women's, or half-sizes—best for you.

Two women, a tall one and a short one, can have identical bust, waist, and hip measurements, but certainly should use different types of patterns. The back waist measure is the key to the appropriate type for each.

The bust measurement is most important when a dress, blouse, coat, or suit pattern is being selected. The tape measure should be placed over the fullest part of the bust.

The measurement at the natural waistline helps you find the size of pattern you should buy when the garment to be made is a skirt, shorts, or slacks. However, when the hip measurement is proportionately larger than the waist measurement, the hip measure should be respected. Hips usually are measured around the fullest part—about seven inches below the waistline.

When pattern shopping, forget about ready-to-wear sizes. Buy patterns according to body measurements and the size charts in the pattern books. Although pattern sizes are pretty much standardized now, patterns from different companies will allow varying amounts of ease. This accounts for the fact that a pattern from one company say in a size 14, does not fit as well as the size 14 pattern made by another pattern company. So when you find a make that seems to fit well and have the right amount of ease throughout, you would be wise to stay with that particular make pattern.

We have a number of interesting and helpful bulletins on sewing—stop in our office, 220 Wall Street, Kingston, N. Y.—brouse through the bulletin shelf. See for yourself. You may be pleasantly surprised at what Home Economics Extension has to offer.

At the Markets

Vegetables—Vegetable choices are numerous. Among the nutrient-packed green and yellow ones, choose broccoli, broccoli rabe, cabbage, carrots, leafy greens, and squash—both yellow and green types. Other top choices include snap beans, beets, Pascal celery, eggplant, green and yellow onions, potatoes, green peppers, radishes, and tomatoes.

Fruits and Nuts — Citrus top fruit choices — Florida oranges and grapefruit, limes, and kumquats. Avocados and cranberries are also abundant. McIntosh and Rome apples are low-cost choices whereas well-colored Red and Golden Delicious are high-cost ones. Pecans are in record-large supply. Use them in winter fruit cup with grapefruit and orange segments and apple slices. Or add them to cranberries in a cooked relish.

Activities Listed By B'nai B'rith For This Year

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 27 the Kingston Chapter of B'nai B'rith Women met at the Ahavath Israel Vestry Hall. Mrs. Charles Ronder, vice president, conducted the business meeting. The correspondence was read by Mrs. Robert Ronder. A letter was received from the Middletown State Hospital thanking the group for gifts sent to patients. A farewell letter from past president, Mrs. Max Goldberg, was read.

Mrs. Irving Alcon announced that during February the group will once again visit and plan a program for the veterans at the Castle Point Hospital in Beacon. Mrs. William Kline reported a successful party given by B'nai B'rith Women for the girls at the Wassaic Colony in Kingston. Mrs. Stanley Caple and Mrs. Arnold Pinsly reported on the calendar which will be distributed in March. This is the organization's sole fund-raising effort. A report on the B'nai B'rith Youth Convention held in Kingston, December 22-25 was submitted by Mrs. Stanley Plasker. The convention was attended by more than 100 young people and was an educational as well a social success.

Mrs. R. Bernstein and Mrs. Garland were introduced as guests for the evening. It was announced that a coffee hour for prospective members would be held January 31 at the home of Mrs. Stanley Kohnberg, membership chairman.

The program for the evening was a Game Night. Mrs. Howard Geller and Mrs. Harvey Kronick served as program chairmen. A committee of hostesses directed by Mrs. Ross Ellis, provided refreshments.

Faculty Member At Lourdes Receives Fine Arts Award

Witnesses Set Final Plans for Weekend Meet

The Kingston Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses is making final plans for the three-day Bible Study Conference to be held at the Municipal Auditorium here Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 5-7. Convening with them will be Witnesses from this and five surrounding counties.

The announcement came from Ernest Kidd Jr., presiding minister of the local group. He also told of special car pool arrangements being made to transport the 1200 delegates expected.

"These three-day conferences, held semi-annually, are training programs in active Christianity," Mr. Kidd explained. "The program is extended into missionary activity in and around the community in which all the family may share."

Friday evening's ministry training school and missionary service meeting will set the theme for the door-to-door ministry activity scheduled for Saturday. "All are encouraged to take part in this apostolic method of promoting Bible knowledge," he added. Saturday afternoon there will be a mass baptism.

Witnesses will invite all in the Kingston area to attend the public lecture, Uniting Men in a Split Up World. The talk will be delivered by the District Director of Jehovah's Witnesses, Bruce E. Giffin, Sunday at 3 p. m.

DAUGHTERS' NAMES NOT ON INVITATION

Q: The daughter of a friend is to be married in three weeks. Some time ago this friend said my whole family (my husband, myself and two teen-age daughters) were invited to the wedding. However, the invitation was addressed to Mr. and Mrs. alone, and asks for a reply. Should I accept for myself and my husband, or should I take the hostess's verbal invitation seriously and accept for my daughters as well?

A: As long as she told you they were expected, you can perfectly well call her on the telephone and say, "In speaking of the wedding some time ago you said Mary and Jane were to be invited. The invitation that has just come did not include them. Does this mean that you now find you haven't room for them?"

Q: I am to be married in the minister's study. The guests will include just our immediate families and a few very close friends of each, 35 in all. I have been told that this is too many to invite to the minister's house. Will you please give me your opinion?

A: Thirty-five will be too many.

Q: Would it be proper to send a card reading, "Just to say 'Hello'" to a young man with whom I went out two months ago and whom I haven't heard from since? He is very nice.

A: While not improper, such a card could give him the impression that you are running after him and defeat its purpose.

Mrs. Muller Improving

The condition of Mrs. Helen Muller, 54, of Purling, seriously injured in a car crash on Route 23 in East Windham December 20, which took the life of another woman, was reported improving today at Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill. According to troopers Mrs. Muller suffered a fractured back and internal injuries in the skidding accident which caused the death of Miss Ruth Seward, also of Purling. Mrs. Muller's husband, who was also injured in the crash has since been discharged from the hospital. The car in which the trio was returning to Purling from Ashland, Greene County, skidded at the top of the mountain, went off the road and rammed into a tree, troopers reported.

Former Broome DA Is New County Judge

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — Louis M. Greenblott, Broome County district attorney since 1956, is the new judge of the county court.

Greenblott, 42, and a Republican, was sworn in Monday, two days after his appointment by Gov. Rockefeller.

Greenblott succeeded Robert O. Brink, also a Republican, who was elected a justice of the State Supreme Court last November. Brink assumed his new office yesterday.

The new county judge is a graduate of Cornell University and Cornell Law School. He lives in Binghamton.

'Paper Dolls' for Grownups Save Work in Room Planning

As little girls, most of us adored playing with paper dolls. What fun, changing from one dress to another! And now, a grown-up version of paper dolls can do a lot to help in deciding on a new look for our homes.

First, draw an outline of a room that needs a different look. Make it to scale showing windows, doors, fireplace and so on. To the same scale, cut little pieces of paper that will represent furniture to go in the room.

Shift and reshift until you come up with a furniture arrangement (on paper) that you like. Your husband will be delighted when he discovers that you know just where you want each piece when it's time to move the actual furniture.

This should come before the selection of colors and pattern for furniture covers. You can even use an actual doll house to the plan in mind.

Dear Polly: I gave my son and his wife his great-grandmother's bedroom furniture. It is beautiful burl walnut; the bed has a big carved headboard and footboard; there are a wash stand and marble-topped dresser.

I am sick about it. She painted it all, tacked material on the headboard and threw the footboard away. And then, of all things, she took the mirror off the dresser and placed it on the wall.

Don't young people have any respect for beautiful antiques? What can I say to her about the awful thing she has done?—Mrs. K. D.

Dear Mrs. K. D.: Nothing. You gave her the furniture so it is no longer yours to comment on. Keep hands off. Age doesn't make everything beautiful.

The word "antiques" is often stretched to cover some ugly pieces. Sounds to me as if you have a rather clever daughter-in-law.

Dear Polly: Please help me with my living room. Walls are pearl color and rug is medium brown. There are two chairs in pumpkin brocade.

I have blonde furniture handmade by my husband that I want to keep. Curtains are cream with gold line stripe. What color shall I choose for a new sofa?—Mrs. A. H.

Dear Mrs. A. H.: Introduce some pattern by means of a sofa covered with quilted fabric that has a design in pumpkin, green and off-white on a brown ground. Some other touches of green should help, too.

Dear Reader: A heavy volume of mail doesn't permit Mrs. Cramer to answer her letters and post cards individually. But she will comment in her column on decorating problems of general interest. She cannot undertake to return floor plans or fabric swatches which are enclosed with letters.

Why is Kansas called the Sunflower State?

The sunflower was proposed as the State flower and emblem of Kansas as early as September 2, 1880, when Noble L. Prentis wrote in the Atchison Champion:

The capitol square (at Topeka) is surrounded by a dense growth, rods in width, of rampant sunflowers. They grow as big, rank and yellow as if they were forty miles from a house. The sunflower ought to be made the emblem of our State. Nothing checks it or kills it. It is always "happy as a big sunflower." Grasshoppers have never held the edge on it; and in droughty times when everything else wilts and throws up its hands, the sunflower continues business at the old stand. It probably has some private arrangements with nature for securing aid.

Crimson Tide Solidifies High Grid Ranking

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Alabama's convincing Sugar Bowl victory over Arkansas left the Crimson Tide still towering over the field today as the No. 1 college football team in the country.

Aabama's 10-3 decision in New Orleans Monday turned out to be pretty much of a routine job—a rock-ribbed defense and enough offense to keep the enemy off balance.

But if Alabama didn't get much satisfaction out of its Sugar Bowl victory, Minnesota and Texas, two other bowl victors, were walking on air.

Minnesota defeated UCLA in the Rose Bowl 21-3 to make amends for its loss a year ago. The Gophers got in the back door, when Big Ten champion Ohio State declined a bid.

Texas, playing before a home crowd in Dallas in the Cotton Bow, defeated Mississippi 12-7. Oe Miss was installed as a 3½ point favorite. The Rebels were the ony favorite to go down.

Louisiana State polished off Colorado as expected 25-7 in the rain in Miami's Orange Bowl.

Alabama managed to score only one touchdown, and that is a tribute to Arkansas. It came in the first period when Pat Trammell climaxed a 79-yard march by going over from the 12. The big gain during the drive was a 43-yard jaunt by Mike Fracchia, who shrugged off a broken nose to play.

Tim Davis added a field goal and Mickey Cissell kicked one for Arkansas.

Nine Heart Attacks

Alabama coach Bear Bryant said he had "nine heart attacks" during the game.

"Arkansas was in better shape than we were and was well prepared for us," he added.

"It was their defense," said Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles. "We couldn't move the ball on the ground."

Minnesota lost last year's Rose Bowl game to Washington, 17-7. This, combined with the fact they were the second choice, made the game a critical one for the Gophers.

Al-America Sandy Stephens was the big gun for Minnesota, scoring two touchdowns, both on line bucks. Bill Munsey plunged over from the 3 for the other. Bobby Smith kicked a 28-yard field goal for UCLA in the first period.

"This squad heard a lot about that loss to Washington for a solid year," said Minnesota Coach Murray Warmath. "I guess the boys were as tired as I was listening to it."

Said UCLA Coach Bill Barnes: "Minnesota didn't surprise us with anything. They just overpower you. They have a big strong line and can move anybody around."

Passer Is Stopped

Texas' big problem was to stop Mississippi's ace passer Glynn Griffing. The problem was solved and that spelled the difference. Griffing did connect with Reed Davis on a 20-yard flip in the end zone in the third quarter for the Rebels' only touchdown, but otherwise spent a frustrating day.

The Rebes, for their part, pretty well bottled up All-America Jim Saxton. He bucked over from the 1 for the first Longhorn score. Otherwise, Mike Cotten handled the offense and tossed a 25-yard pass to Jack Collins for the other touchdown.

"I had never beaten Mississippi," said Texas Coach Darrell Royal. "This makes up in part for the drubbing they gave us in the Sugar Bowl in 1958."

Mississippi Coach Johnny Vaught said his club was surprised by a man-in-motion series.

"We didn't know what to do with it until after the half," he commented gloomily.

Trouble at the Start

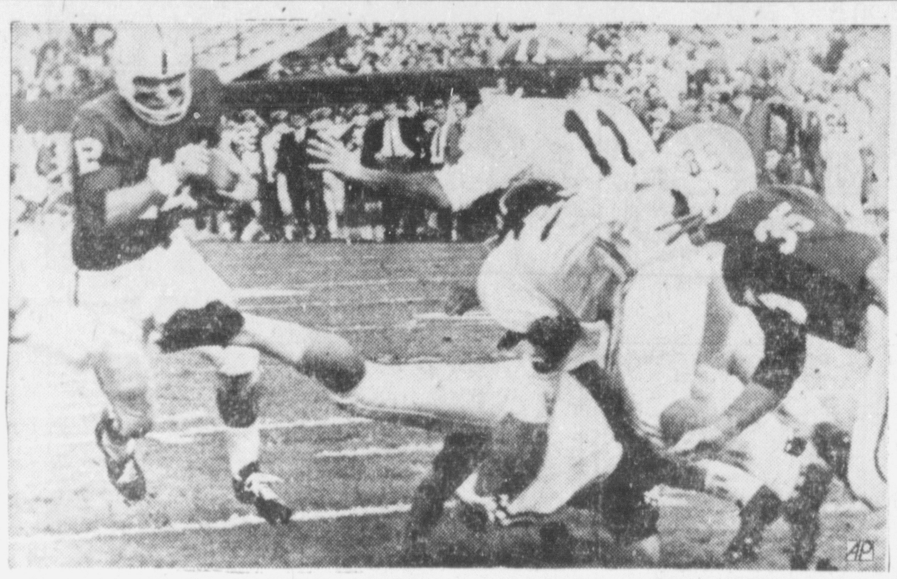
Louisiana State, the heaviest favorite of all four bowl teams, appeared in for trouble at the start. Wendell Harris sent the Bengals in front with a first-period field goal, and they scored two more points on a safety a few minutes later.

Then Colorado fullback Loren Schweninger intercepted a pass and whipped 59 yards to zip the Buffaoes into the lead. It didn't last long, though. Charles Cranford plunged over from the 1. Jimmy Field sprinted 9 yards for another touchdown and Gene Sykes blocked an attempted punt by Huck McBride in the end zone and fell on the ball for a third score.

"I believe we are as good as any team in the country," said LSU Coach Paul Dietzel, who is rumored to be heading for Army.

"I don't think the team was as sharp as it was in the reguar season when we played a major opponent every week."

Colorado Coach Sonny Grandelius said his club "just made mistakes," and, he added wistfully, "we picked the wrong day to make all our mistakes."



ALABAMA SCORES AGAINST ARKANSAS—Alabama quarterback Pat Trammell (12) scores against Arkansas from 12 yards out in first period of Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans. Arkansas tackler is George McKinney (11) and Billy Richardson (35) of Alabama watches play. (AP Wirephoto)

Packers' Shares Hit $5,195.44

By PAUL CLIFFORD

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The National Football League champion Green Bay Packers settled down today, protected against a long, cold winter by the glow of success—their resounding 37-0 triumph over the New York Giants.

The Packers also were snug in the high temperature of prosperity, their individual shares of $5,195.44 from the receipts of Sunday's game. They agreed it was great to do business with the Giants.

So did the players' wives, wrapped in the warmth of mink stoles presented by the Green Bay management when the club won the Western Division title a month ago, also by beating the Giants.

The new crown is the seventh championship for the Packers and the first won at home since the club entered the league as a charter member in 1921.

The title was the first for Green Bay since beating the Giants in New York in 1944, and it was the climax of a complete rebuilding begun three years ago when Vince Lombardi quit as a Giant assistant coach to become coach and general manager of the Packers.

The conquest came on a combination of a battering Packer defense that created opportunities and a sparkling offense that cashed in on them.

The Packer defensive unit held the New Yorkers to 31 yards rushing, 119 in the air and six first downs. The defensive corps grabbed four Giant passes and recovered one New York fumble.

The Packer offense, directed by quarterback Bart Starr and sparked by halfback Paul Hornung, did the rest.

Starr's play calling produced 19 first downs, gained 181 yards on the ground and 164 in the air. Starr passed for three touchdowns, and when his passes were not wrecking the Giants, Hornung was running through big holes in the New York line.

Hornung, on leave from his jeep-driving chores with the Army at Ft. Riley, Kan., carried the burden of the ground attack.

Hornung, the league's most valuable player in the past season and its scoring leader for the past three years, carried 20 times for 89 yards. He scored 19 points, setting an individual title game record. He scored one touchdown, booted four extra points and kicked three field goals to break the mark of 18 set by Cleveland's Otto Graham in the 1954 game with Detroit.

Each Giant received $3,339.99 as his share of the gate.

Ray's, Trailways Cafeteria Register Rec Cage Loop Wins

Ray's Tackle Shop recovered from its only loss of the season in Poughkeepsie on Saturday and turned back Adolph's of Red Hook, 56-49, in a Rec Cage league tilt last night at the Municipal Auditorium.

In the other contest, Trailways Cafeteria defeated the Byrne Chevrolet squad, 61-52, thanks to a 24 point performance by Richie Strong.

The Tackle Shop led by only three points, 26-23, after the half but Coach Ward Dunham's cagers had a big third period and won easily, despite a late flurry by the Red Hook team.

Champ Holstein, Chick Boice, Harry Pratt and Joe Klonowski were in double figures for the winners. Ron Miller and Howie Mann led Adolph's.

Strong tallied 12 baskets to spark the Trailways. He was aided by Bill DuBois, who had 14 points. High Scoring Al Byrne had only five markers and Marty Kaye didn't play so the others picked up the scoring slack in splendid fashion.

Bruce Wiederspiel and Mel Williams were high for Byrne, which had 25 points in the final period but could score only 27 in the first three quarters.

Muncie Fastest Skipper; Cats Are Most Exciting

By WM. TAYLOR McKEOWN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Something like 35,875,000 boatmen and women enjoyed the water during 1961, according to estimates.

A small percentage made big attempts to go faster than anyone else.

Speediest skipper of all was Mill Muncey of Seattle.

Competing in the unlimited hydroplane class, where the skittering bombs must move at more than 100 miles per hour to qualify for many events, Muncey won the three-heat Gold Cup in Reno without ever placing first. The trick there is to drive consistantly and build up points without blasting off some ripple at 150 mph and blowing up your boat.

Muncey's supercharged steed also took the President's, Governor's and Diamond Cups.

Winning as Miss Thriftway last year, Muncey's boat is now called Miss Century 21.

For the third year in a row, and last time, Bob Hayward of Ontario won for Canada the International Harmsworth Trophy and turned back United States challengers with his unlimited hydro, Miss Supertest.

One month after his Harmsworth victory, Hayward's craft went airborne and flipped at high speed and he was killed.

High point drivers in the smaller inboard and outboard classes included Dave Berg, Minneapolis; Hugh Entrop, Seattle; Keith Stippich, Milwaukee, and Dick O'Dea.

Top performer in predicted log racing — the only contest where speed doesn't count — was Elias Kalil of Manhasset.

Sailing speeds are slower, but racing fleets are larger and competition just as spirited. Fastest sailboats are the lake scows. An expert in this league, Bud Melges, Jr., of Lake Geneva, Wis., switched to sail a Dragon and conquered all comers in Montreal to take the Mallory Cup and the North American Sailing Championship for the third time.

Women's winner of the equivalent Adams Cup, Timothea Schneider of Oyster Bay, N. Y., a coed studying naval architecture at Michigan, captured her final series and the title for the continent.

One-design championships went to America's Cup skipper Briggs Cunningham in the Atlantics; Thomas Allen of Buffalo for Lightnings; Erik and Axel Schmidt, twins from Brazil, in Snipes; and Bill Buchan, Seattle, sailing Stars.

Most exciting of the new sailboat designs are the swift catamarans. For the first international championship in this class an English Hellcat sailed circles around America's best.

Offshore, Bill Luders' sloop Storm, from Stamford, Conn., stirred up a gale by winning with a tremendous jib and practically no mainsail.

Jack Powell's new fiberglass yawl from St. Petersburg, Fla., Paper Tiger, won the Miami-Nassau race and the Southern Circuit title. Newbold Smith's Reindeer, out of Philadelphia, did the equivalent in the north by taking the Annapolis-Newport race and enough others to earn top score in the Northern Ocean Racing circuit.

Dick Kaup's Blue Horizon rated a first in the Chicago-Machinac event. Bob Robbs, from the drylands of Phoenix, went the long wet way between San Pedro and Honolulu in Nam Sang to win the Trans-Pacific classic.

Steers Shatter Saints Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Kansas City Steers have snapped the most impressive winning streak compiled during the first part of the American Basketball League's inaugural season and ballooned their lead to 3½ games in the Western Division.

Playing a sub-par San Francisco team that had three players hampered by injuries, the Steers rolled to a 107-93 victory Monday night, ended the Saints' 10-game victory string at home and padded their first-place edge over idle Los Angeles.

Meanwhile, Cleveland and Pittsburgh remained in a tie for the top spot in the East. The Pipers whipped Chicago's Majors 117-99 and the Rens defeated the Hawaii Chiefs 106-87 in the other games scheduled.

The Steers, led by Bill Bridges and Nick Mantis who split 40 points, built a 24-point lead against the Saints at one point and breezed to their 24th win in 34 games—the best record in the ABL.

Ohio State Unanimous No. 1 Pick

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

If there is any dissension about it, it isn't apparent. Ohio State seems to have convinced everyone it is the undisputed leader in college basketball.

The ten teams the mighty Buckeyes have rolled over so far are convinced. So are the 42 panel members voting in The Associated Press poll. They again made Ohio State the unanimous choice for No. 1 in this week's balloting.

The Buckeyes, deep in talent and experience and with a magnificent leader in Jerry Lucas, swept to three victories and the title in the premier event of the hectic holiday tournament program, the Los Angeles Classic. They beat Washington, UCLA and nationally ranked Southern California.

Cincinnati (10-1), Kansas State (10-1), Kentucky (8-1) and Duke (8-1) bolstered their national ratings with a successful week, while Villanova (11-0), Mississippi State (9-0) and Bowling Green (8-1) climbed into the top ten with tournament triumphs. Southern Cal (9-2) and Duquesne (8-1) slipped in the rankings, and West Virginia (7-1), Wichita (10-2) and Purdue (7-2) fell out entirely.

Cincinnati took a firmer grip on second place by beating St. John's, LaSalle and Wisconsin in the Holiday Festival at New Yok. Kentucky jumped from sixth to third after victories over Yale and Notre Dame, Kansas State advanced one place to fourth following decisions over Nebraska, Missouri and Iowa State in the Big Eight tourney, and Duke's 75-73 squeaker over Wake Forest moved the Blue Devils from tenth to eighth.

Villanova powered its way from nowhere to No. 5 on the strength of three impressive performances in the Quaker City tournament in Philadelphia. The spirited Wildcats knocked over Niagara, Duquesne and Iowa. Mississippi State stretched its winning string to nine by trimming Maryland and Louisiana State in the Sugar Bowl and grabbed the ninth spot. Bowling Green took over No. 10 after clipping a strong field in the All-College tournament. The Falcons scored over Seattle, Wichita and Houston.

With its sweep of all 42 first place votes, Ohio State gained the maximum of 420 points, based on ten for first, nine for second and so on. Cincinnati was a near-unanimous choice for runnerup, collecting 357 points out of a possible 378.

The top ten:

1. Ohio State	420
2. Cincinnati	357
3. Kentucky	268
4. Kansas State	231
5. Villanova	195
6. Southern California	176
7. Duquesne	118
8. Duke	113
9. Mississippi State	90
10. Bowling Green	67

Hall Leads Hawks To 2-0 NHL Win

The Chicago Black Hawks held down sole possession of fourth place in the National Hockey League today, thanks to goalie Glenn Hall.

The Hawks blanked the league-leading Montreal Canadiens, 2-0 Monday night with Hall kicking out 32 blasts at his net. It marked the fourth shutout of the year for the 30-year-old goalie and was by far his most impressive.

The victory snapped a string of four straight ties for the Hawks and enabled them to edge ahead of the idle Detroit Red Wings in their battle for fourth.

In the other other game, the New York Rangers turned back the last place Boston Bruins 4-2.

Art Tokle Captures First In Lake Placid's Ski Jump

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP—Art Tokle of Bear Mountain, a former national ski-jumping champion, is the winner of Lake Placid's New Year's ski jump.

Tokle barely edged Roy Sherwood of Salisbury, Conn., another former national champion, in distance Sunday but outclassed him by 7.9 points in performance.

Tokle was awarded 219.8 points on leaps of 214 and 215 feet. Sherwood, with leaps of 214 and 212 feet, amassed 211.9 points.

Robert Birk of Lake Placid won the Class B championship with jumps of 191 and 198 feet for 189 points.

Twenty-five jumpers competed in the annual event.

On Saturday, 17-year-old Jim Barker of Lake Placid jumped 89 and 90 feet to win the Class 1 competition of the New York State Junior Ski-Jumping championship. He scored 210.5 points, compared with 208.1 points for Pete David of Gould Academy in Maine, who leaped 93 and 91 feet. The event was for boys 16-18 years old.

David Merrill of Brattleboro, Vt., took the Class 2 title for 14 and 15 year olds with jumps of 81 and 83 feet for 185.8 points. James Colby of Lake Placid, with leaps of 78 and 83 feet and 184.6 points, finished second. Sandra Vitvitsky of Lake Placid, the only girl entered in the competition, placed third with jumps of 74 and 80 feet for 182.2 points.

In another competition Saturday, Karl Bohlin of Minneapolis won the 15 kilometer cross-country ski race in the first event of tryouts for the four-member U.S. Nordic team, which will compete in an international meet in Poland next month. He was timed in 1:01.26.

Mike Elliot, 19, of Durango, Colo., finished second in 1:02.33.

Fifteen skiers were entered in the race, sponsored by the U.S. Amateur Ski Association.

Art Market Is Winner Of Santa Anita Race

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Art Market won his second victory in four days Monday at Santa Anita and this one really counted.

J.J. Fendrick's 4-year-old son of To Market captured the $28,250 San Gabriel Handicap before a crowd of 42,699. He won in a blanket finish, beating Grey Eagle by a nose and The Axe 2nd by a head. The mile and one-eighth was run in 1:48 2-5.

Last Thursday Art Market beat Micarlo by a half length in the Seattle World's Fair purse. But the stewards disqualified him for lugging in near the wire and placed him second. For failure to keep Art Market straight, jockey Willie Shoemaker is sitting out a suspension. Ismael Valenzuela was aboard the winner Monday and he gave him a fine ride.

Westchester Stars Clobber Tackle Shop for Title, 98-74

Combining their superior height with some fantastic shooting, the Westchester All-Stars routed Ray's Tackle Shop of Kingston, 98-74, in the finals of the first annual NSO Holiday Cage tournament Saturday at Lincoln Center in Poughkeepsie.

The Westchester club moved to an early 18-5 lead and was never headed. The champions had four players over 6-5 and they not only controlled the backboards but hit with almost every kind of shot from the outside. It was a mismatch.

The Tackle Shop, which had been unbeaten until the contest, came to within nine points on two different occasions, the final time late in the game. But it was unable to get any closer as the winners came up with late scoring spurts.

Seven players saw action for Westchester and six of them were in double figures. Harry Pratt tallied 19 points for the losers in a superb show. Bob Bondar, Leo Armstead and Joe Klonowski were also in double digits but to no avail.

In the third place game, NSO Walloped the Pine Plains Bombardiers, minus Bill Smith, 90-64.

The box score:

Westchester All Stars (98)

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

78, 61, 55, 54, 52. . . check. . 43, 50, 57, 55, 59, 51. . No that's not a quarterback snapping off signals.

It's just a rundown on the scoring totals for Wilt Chamberlain in 11 of his last 13 games. It divides off to a fantastic 55.10 average for the distance.

And what effect does it have on some segments of our sports thinking? A gloomy prediction that professional basketball is on the way. The prophets of gloom and doom claim they can see the unmistakable warnings on the wall.

Wilt (The Stilt) racks up points at incredible pace. Roger Maris shatters (or did he?) Babe Ruth's seasonal record with 61 home runs and the purists scream. The basketball points and baseball home runs are getting too cheap. Professional football teams make shambles of the once sacred touchdown and what do we hear? Pro football is on its way to replacing baseball as the national pastime. Don't mortgage the family homestead on it.

It is possible that Wilt Chamberlain may be, in the words of Phog Allen, his mentor at Kansas, "the greatest player who ever lived." Would the purists grudgingly concede that Chamberlain just gets better as he goes along? Or is basketball deteriorating?

Let's examine the record. In 1951, Big George Mikan of the fabled Minneapolis Lakers averaged 28.4 points a game and was acclaimed the Basketball Player of the Half Century. That was a record until Bob Pettit averaged 29.2 in 1959. In the 1959-60 as an NBA rookie, Chamberlain averaged a record 37.6. He upped it to 38.4 in his sophomore year. Right now he is close to the 50-mark.

• How Much Change:

Pro basketball has changed, but has it really changed that much? Maybe it's hard to believe but only three players have ever exceeded Mikan's average of 10 years ago. Elgin Baylor, rated by some experts a better player than Wilt, opened with 29.6 as a frosh and hit 34.8 last season. Jack Twyman had 31.1 two years ago and Oscar Robertson, 30.5, a year ago.

The history of basketball is dotted with the names of "homers" - players who can burn up the boards in friendly confines but choke on the road. Not so with the Stilt. In his first 14 home games in Philly, he averaged 49.7. In 18 road games and on neutral courts he fashioned a 47.0 average. Hardly the statistics of a homer.

Admittedly, Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen, who lured Chamerlain to Kansas may be slightly prejudiced, but he refuses to back down on his appraisal of Wilt as the greatest ever. "And he will remain in a class by himself for a long, long time. He is one of the finest all-round athletes I've ever seen and one of the most intelligent, too. He had an IQ of 127," says Dr. Allen.

Dr. Allen told the Sporting News he wanted to postpone his retirement from coaching for one year so that he could have Chamberlain play for him. "Frankly, I only wanted to stuff the 10-foot basket down the throat of the Rules Committee. I was sure I could have easily designed my plays with Wilt as the key so he'd tally 50 to 60 points a night." And a college ball game lasts only 40 minutes compared to 48 minutes for the pros.

Dr. Allen believes that the baskets should be higher than any man can reach or touch by jumping. "It should be four feet above the tallest player's head," he says. "Back in 1929, when I had Al Wellinghaus who was 6 feet 7 - a big man for his era - I wrote a magazine story, "Dunking Is Not Basketball."

• The Very Greatest:

How great is Chamberlain? In the eyes of Allen, he is in a class by himself. "I had 16 All-America stars in my day. Wilt is in a seperate category. One just cannot compare him with any of the other greats. Few realize it, but with his 250 pounds, Wilt can jump 24 inches off the floor. Just how good is that? Well, there isn't one player in 20 - big or small - who can do that!"

"Only by raising the hoops to 12 feet will they be able to cut him down to size. I had four 12-foot goals which I used to emphasize the necessity of arching his shots. I once mentioned to Wilt that they might raise the baskets to 12 feet and he quickly replied 'Why discriminate against the tall man?"

That's part of the Wilt Chamberlain legend. What can we expect of him next? Oh, probably a 100-point NBA performance, that's all.

Clarkson Points For 12 in Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Undefeated Clarkson, Upstate New York's top college hockey team, tries for its 11th and 12th victories of the season this week against opponents from New Jersey and Massachusetts.

The Engineer, idle since winning the ECAC holiday tournament Dec. 22, meets Princeton tomorrow and Boston College Saturday. Both games will be played at Potsdam.

Princeton also faces two other Upstate teams this week — St. Lawence at Canton tonight and Rensselaer Poly at Troy Friday.

RPI, winner of two straight games in its annual, three-game round-robin tournament last week, lost the third contest Saturday night and finished second to Michigan in the four-team competition. Michigan defeated RPI, 8-3, for a sweep of its three games.

Alworth Signs Charger Pact

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The rest of the American Football League may not be faring well in its fight with the rival National Football League for the top collegiate players, but the San Diego Chargers are more than holding their own.

Charger end Coach Al Davis handed Arkansas halfback Lance Alworth a contract under a goal post at the end of the Sugar Bowl game between Arkansas and Alabama Monday.

Alworth immediately signed it.

A few yards away, Coach Red Hickey of the NFL's San Francisco 49ers, looked dejected. He had reached Alworth first as the 178-pound halfback walked off the field. The 49ers picked Alworth in the first round of the NFL draft.

Alworth, a Brookhaven, Miss., product, said he picked San Diego because "The AFL is a new league. I'll have a chance to grow with it."

He became the second No. 1 choice of the NFL to be signed by the Chargers, who two weeks ago got Kansas Quarterback John Hadl — Detroit's selection. Hadl was picked the outstanding player in Saturday's East-West game at San Francisco.

Otherwise, the NFL has signed seven of its first round selections —headed by Heisman Trophy winner Ernie Davis of Syracuse, who went to Cleveland, after the Browns obtained rights to him from Washington.

The jubilant Al Davis said terms of the contract would't be released.

"It was very respectable. That's all I can say," said the 32-year-old Charger assistant.

Alworth was Oakland's second choice in the AFL player draft, but Davis said the Chargers "swapped several players" for the speedy player.

In Oakland, Raider General Manager Wes Fry said his team got four Chargers for rights to Alworth. He said Oakland has decided on two, but hasn't picked the others and did not announce any names.

Baylor Leaves Lakers Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Lakers, Western Division leaders of the National Basketball Association, are slated to lose All-Star Elgin Baylor to the U.S. Army today.

Baylor, the league's second leading scorer with a 38 point average, is due to report for Army duty at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Baylor's final game as a civilian was a Los Angeles victory. The Lakers turned back the Philadelphia Warriors 114-111 at Los Angeles Monday night.

The former Seattle star, in his fourth season in the NBA, collected 33 points but yielded scoring honors to teammate Jerry West who hit for 36.

In other games Monday night, the Syracuse Nats defeated the Cincinnati Royals 110-106 and the St. Louis Hawks whipped the Detroit Pistons 145-139.

The Lakers opened up a 9½ game lead over Cincinnati in the Western Division in beating Philadelphia for the fifth time in eight meetings.

MORE THAN 15,000 women bowlers are expected to compete in the annual WIBC National Championship tournament at Squaw Peak Lanes, Phoenix, Arizona, beginning April 5. Tournament entries close January 24.

By far the largest sports event in the world in which women participate, the 1962 National Championship Tournament will draw from two million sanctioned women bowlers throughout the country.

Team entrants will compete in two divisions—Division No. 1 for teams averaging 751 and over, and Division No. 2 for teams averaging 750 and under. Doubles and Singles events have no divisions.

Last year's tournament at Ft. Wayne drew 3330 teams—1087 in Division No. 1 and 2243 in Division No. 2 — and 5877 Doubles. Truly a national event, 540 local Associations were represented, coming from 41 states, Canada, and Puerto Rico. Contestants divided $160,632 in prize money.

During the Tournament, on May 7-9, more than 1000 delegates will gather for the 25th Annual WIBC Convention at the Hotel Westward Ho. These delegates, representing women bowling in 50 states, will discuss and decide the rules which will govern women's bowling locally and the WIBC nationally.

Marshall Paces Springfield Club

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If the Hershey Bears had two Willie Marshalls, they probably would be at the head of the American Hockey League today instead of panting along behind the Springfield Indians.

Marshall scored his second hat trick of the season Monday night and his production spelled the difference in Hershey's 6-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Hornets.

Marshall now has scored three goals in one game 15 times in his career and holds the all-time AHL record in that department. This was his second hat trick of the year.

Parker MacDonald, Hec LaLande and Les Duff each chipped in with one goal for the Bears, who trail the Indians by eight points. Gene Umbriaco scored two goals for the losers.

In other games, the Providence Reds downed the Rochester Americans 6-4 and the Buffalo Bisons whipped the Cleveland Barons 4-2.

The Reds raced to a 5-0 lead in the first two periods on goals by George Ranieri, Stan Baluik, Pierre Brillant, Matt Ravlich and Jim Bartlett. The Americans came back in the final stanza on goals by Jim Pappin, Dick Gamble, Bruce Draper and Bill White. Player-Coach Fernie Flaman got the last Providence goal.

The Cullen brothers, Brian and Barry, ganged up on the Bisons scoring the last three Bison goals in the final period. Brian scored twice, breaking a 1-1 tie. Fred Glover got one for Cleveland. Barry then cashed his 20th goal of the season into an empty net.

Upstate Fives Fare Badly in Tourney Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Except for Rochester and Union, Upstate New York's tournament-minded college basketball teams fared badly in New Year's weekend competition.

Rochester defeated Columbia, 82-65, Saturday night to win the Downeast Classic at Bangor, Maine. Union, with a 70-65 victory over St. Lawrence, shared with Kenyon the championship in Union's round-robin tournament at Schenectady. Kenyon downed Hamilton, 72-61.

St. Bonaventure and Cornell were beaten in championship games. The Bonnies fell to Detroit, 77-70, in the Motor City Tournament at Detroit. Drake beat Cornell, 66-65, for the Queen City title at Buffalo.

DePaul trounced Syracuse, 96-59, in the consolation game of the Motor City. St. Joseph's trimmed Canisius, 66-63, in the consolation game of the Queen City.

Niagara, with a 77-70 victory over Penn State, had to settle for seventh place in the Quaker City tournament at Philadelphia.

Rochester Tech finished seventh in its invitational tournament at Rochester by defeating Brooklyn Poly, 63-55. Buffalo came in sixth in the Springfield, Mass., tournament, by losing to Vermont, 66-58.

Activity for Upstate teams this week will be slim until Saturday night, as students returned gradually to their campuses after the Christmas vacation.

The week's schedule:

Wednesday—Belmont Abbey at St. Bonaventure.

Thursday — Utica at Rochester Tech, Syracuse at Colgate.

Friday—Potsdam at Rochester Tech, Ithaca at New York Athletic Club, Hartwick at Alfred, Toronto at Buffalo State.

Saturday—Plattsburgh at Cortland, Ithaca at Utica, Harpur at Union, Clarkson at Rochester, Syracuse at St. Johns, Potsdam at Brockport, St. Bonaventure vs. Duquesne and Dayton vs. Canisius at Buffalo War Memorial Auditorium, Iona at Niagara, Hamilton at Rensselaer Poly, Toronto at Rochester Tech, Siena at St. Francis, Pace at Albany, LeMoyne at Hobart, Hartwick at Roberts Wesleyan, Buffalo at Boston University.

Accord Defeats Yellow Jackets In 'Y' Contest

Accord nipped the Yellow Jackets, 44-41, in a Kingston YMCA Winter league basketball game Saturday. Fred Wustrau rimmed 15 points to pace the winners while Rick Gray and Bob Smith had 10 each for the Yellow Jackets.

Accord led, 12-7, 20-19 and 31-29, at the quarter stops. It was close all the way.

Tonight's slate has Eddie's facing Accord at 7:15 and Doran meeting the Yellow Jackets at 8:15. On Wednesday, Byrne and Ray's will clash at 7:15 with Baliton meeting the Hub at 8:15. Saturday's slate finds Hayes vs. Delanoy at 7:15 and Newkirk vs. Dick's at 8:15.

The box score:

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS
The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept help wanted advertisements from employers covered by the Federal Wage-Hour Law if they offer less than legal minimum wages. Beginning September 3, 1961, employees engaged in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce must be paid not less than $1.15 an hour and at least time and one-half for hours worked after 40 in a workweek, unless specifically exempt. Employees of certain large retail, service, construction, and other enterprises must be paid not less than $1.00 an hour after September 3, 1961, but no overtime for such employment is required until September 3, 1963. If you are offered less by covered employers, or if you have questions concerning this law or other activities of the U. S. Department of Labor, call or write the Department's local office at Bronx: Abraham Klainbard, Investigation Supr., 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. WYandotte 2-1235.

PROCLAMATION

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK—TO THE SHERIFF OF THE COUNTY OF ULSTER: GREETING:

Whereas, a Trial Term of Supreme Court and Jail Delivery is to be held in and for the County of Ulster, at the Court House, in the City of Kingston, on Wednesday the 3rd day of January, 1962.

We command you in pursuance of the provisions of Section 222-a of the Code of Criminal Procedure, in that case made and provided

FIRST: That you summon the several persons who shall have been drawn in said County of Ulster, pursuant to law, to serve as Grand Jurors and Trial Jurors at the said Court to appear thereat.

SECOND: That you bring before the said Court all prisoners then being in the Jail of said County, together with all process and proceedings in any way concerning them in your hands as such Sheriff.

THIRD: That you make Proclamation, in the manner prescribed by Section 222-c of the Code of Criminal Procedure, notifying all persons bound to appear at the said Court by recognizance or otherwise, to appear thereat, and requiring all Justices of the Peace, Coroners, and other officers who have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at such Court, or who shall have taken any inquisition, or the examination of any prisoner or witness, to return such recognizances, inquisitions and examinations to the said Court at the opening thereof, on the first day of its sitting.

WITNESS, HON. LOUIS G. BRUHN, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, at the Court House in the City of Kingston, this 15th day of December, in the year one thousand nine hundred and sixty-one.

DAVID W. CORWIN
District Attorney of the County of Ulster.

* * *

In pursuance of the above precept, I hereby make Proclamation that a term of Supreme Court of Ulster County and Jail deliverance will be held at the Court House in Kingston, in and for the County of Ulster, the 3rd day of January 1962, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, and all persons who will prosecute against persons confined in the Jail of said County are required to be then and there present to proceed as may be just; and all persons bound to appear at the said Court by recognizance, or otherwise are required to appear thereat, and all Justices of the Peace, Coroners and other officers who may have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at the said Court, or who may have taken any inquisition or the examination of any prisoner or witness are required to return such recognizances, inquisitions and examinations on to the said Court at the opening thereof, at the first day of the sitting thereof, and to be then and there present with their rolls and records, indictments and remembrances to do those things which to their office pertain.

CLAUDE BELL
Sheriff of Ulster
County

Dated: City of Kingston, December 15, 1961.

The Annual Meeting of the stockholders of the Universal Road Machinery Company will be held at the office of the company in Kingston, Ulster County, New York on Monday, January 8th, 1962 at 12:00 o'clock noon, for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year, inspectors of election and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before such meeting.

Signed:
C. R. EDWARDS, Secretary

Man in Stabbing Termed Still Serious

Raymond Barten, 40, of Lake Katrine, who according to state police stabbed himself in the diaphragm Thursday morning in the kitchen of his home, was reported still in serious condition today at Kingston Hospital.

Barten's wife told Kingston troopers that her husband had been despondent over personal matters and stabbed himself several times with a bread knife. The Bartens have three children.

Judge Ryan Retires After 30 Years Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Presiding Judge Bernard Ryan of the State Court of Claims has retired after more than 30 years on the bench.

Ryan reached the mandatory retirement age of 70 last May 28. He stepped down on Sunday.

Ryan, the father of Rep. William Fitts Ryan, D-N.Y., plans to return to private law practice. He has a home at Albion, near Rochester.

WARREN F. MANN, and JUANITA MANN, his wife, KINGSTON PROPERTIES, INC., NEW YORK TELEPHONE COMPANY, AUSTIN R. NEWCOMBE & CO., INC., MARY BANKS AND EDWARD J. FEENEY, Defendants.

In pursuance and by virtue of a Judgment of foreclosure and sale duly made and entered in the above entitled action bearing date the 22nd day of December, 1961, I the undersigned Referee in said Judgment named, will sell at public auction at the County Court House at 285 Wall Street, in the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, on the 19th day of January, 1962, at 11:00 o'clock in the forenoon of that day for premises consisting of land and buildings directed by said Judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, aforesaid, bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING on the southerly side of O'Reilly Street at a point south forty-two degrees, twenty seven minutes west, two hundred and twenty-five (225) feet from the corner of Broadway (formerly Union Avenue) and center of lot number 568 on the map made by D. T. Van Buren of lands of John O'Reilly in the year 1870 and running thence southeasterly at right angles to O'Reilly Street and through the center of said lot number 568, one hundred feet (100) to the rear thereof, thence south forty two degrees twenty seven minutes west along the rear of the west one half of said lot number 568 and the east one half of lot number 567 on said map fifty feet (50) to the center of the rear of said lot number 567; thence through the center of said lot number 567 and at right angles to O'Reilly Street one hundred (100) feet northwesterly to said O'Reilly Street and thence along said street north forty-two degrees twenty seven minutes east fifty (50) feet along the east half of said lot number 567 and the west half of lot number 568 to the place of beginning, being lot fifty (50) feet front and rear and one hundred (100) feet deep, and being the east one half of lot number 567 and the west one half of lot number 568.

Being the same premises conveyed by Jacob C. Moser and Dorothy Moser, his wife, to Warren F. Mann by deed dated January 30th, 1959 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's office on February 11th, 1959 in Liber 1055 of deeds at page 423.

Dated: December 22nd, 1961.

B. F. Fairless, Leader of Steel Industry, Dies

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP)—Benjamin F. Fairless, 71, the son of a coal miner who rose to head a steel empire, died Monday at his home in the foothills of the Allegheny Mountains.

Fairless was president of the American Iron & Steel Institute and retired board chairman of the U.S. Steel Corp.

His life story was an American success saga. He was the son of a Welsh immigrant; he started his business career as a newsboy; he worked as a parttime janitor in his high school, and he financed his college education by teaching in country schoolhouses.

He started at the bottom and he worked his way up to the top by what friends and adversaries agreed was ingenuity, diplomacy and hard work.

Fairless was the very model of the rugged individualist. He was a staunch defender of big business, and if he had to talk gruffly to congressmen in pleading its cause, he did.

"In what other country of this world could I have fared as well as I have here in the United States?" he once remarked in a speech.

Fairless recently spent six weeks in a Pittsburgh hospital under treatment for pleurisy.

Just two weeks ago, he had been granted a divorce from his second wife, the former Hazel Hatfield, daughter of former West Virginia Gov. Henry D. Hatfield. His first wife, Jane Blanche Truby, died in 1942.

Fairless was born on May 3, 1890 to Mr. and Mrs. David D. Williams in Pigeon Run, Ohio, a mining town near Canton. His struggling parents sent him to live with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fairless, at Justus, Ohio, when he was only 5 years old. They later adopted him.

Rams Building In Saugerties One Person Hurt

One person was injured Monday afternoon when a car reportedly forced off the road by an unidentified vehicle, crashed into a fence and brick building on Hill Street in the Village of Saugerties, police reported.

Patrolman Jack Washburn reported Mrs. Helen Bakes, 76, of Finger Street, a passenger in a 1951 sedan operated by John Bakes, of the same address, suffered injuries to her left wrist and lacerations under the chin. She was treated by Dr. Herman Ash of Saugerties. Police reported Mrs. Bakes struck her head against the windshield of the car during the crash.

The car was extensively damaged on the front end, village police said. The car damaged the picket fence on the property of John Legg, 16 Hill Street and when it hit the west corner of a brick building owned by Angelo Provenzano, 5 Hill Street, smashed several bricks and caused cracks in the masonry joints, police said.

According to the police report, Bakes told Patrolman Washburn he was proceeding south when he failled to negotiate a turn at Hill and Partition Streets because an unknown vehicle coming in the opposite direction forced him to mount the curb. The car continued on, hit the Legg fence, veering across Hill Street and coming to rest at the Provenzano building, police said. The mishap occurred at 2:45 p. m.

Truck Driver in Fatal Crash Is Satisfactory

The driver of the tractor-trailer involved in the fatal crash which took the lives of two Kingston High School youths early Thursday morning, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill.

Francis Di Dona, 36 of Seneca Falls, according to Thruway troopers was suffering from severe scalp injuries, lacerations, abrasions and compound fracture of the arm.

The youths, Charles Edward Senor, 18 of Grove Street, and Peter Fiore Jr., 17 of 71 Lindsley Avenue died when their disabled car was struck in the rear by the tractor-trailer, operated by Di Donna, according to the troopers. Troopers said they had run out of gas at the 106 mile post in the southbound lane of the Thruway.

Mercury Dips To -21 Upstate Kingston 9 Above

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New Yorkers returning to work today after the New Year's holiday shivered in temperatures down to 21 below zero.

Kingston recorded 9 above according to the low reading at the City Engineer's Office.

The Weather Bureau predicted continued cold through Wednesday.

The temperature plunged to 21 below zero overnight at Saranac Lake.

Watertown, buried by more than two feet of snow as 1961 passed, recorded an overnight low of 14 below at 7 a.m. today. To the north, Massena registered -8.

Other sub-zero readings included:

Oneonta -7; Plattsburgh -6; Binghamton -4; Rome -3 and Glens Falls -2. Albany had an even zero.

On the plus side were:

Utica 1;Syracuse and Olean 2; Buffalo 8; Newburgh 12; Rochester 13; Poughkeepsie 14; Westhampton Beach 26, and LaGuardia Field 27.

In addition to Watertown, Buffalo was smothered with a two-foot-plus snowfall on New Year's Eve. Most of the rest of the state, much of it blanketed with pre and post-Christmas snowfalls, enjoyed nippy, but sunny weather.

Five deaths were attributed to the Watertown-Buffalo storms.

Taxi Operator Is Burned as Flames Destroy Vehicle

A taxicab driver suffered burns of both hands shortly after 9 a. m. Sunday and the interior of a 1959 sedan owned by the Economy Taxi Co. was completely burned when fire believed to have started from a lighted cigaret swept the vehicle on Hudson Street.

Burton Quick, operator of the taxicab, was treated at Benedictine Hospital for first and second degree burns of both hands and burns of the right thumb. He was later released.

When firemen responded to an alarm they found flames pouring from the windows of the car. The car started to roll down the hill near Abeel Street and it stopped after crashing into a parked car owned by Delbert Sapp of Hudson Street, damaging the left side and rear of the vehicle.

The blaze was extinguished with a stream of water from Engine Two.

At 9:17 a. m. today firemen were summoned to the Kingston Stuyvesant Hotel where they found a kitchen range overheated. Employes were unable to close the gas valve, causing the range to overheat. Firemen shut off the flow of gas.

Lake Katrine Unit of Ulster County Home Extension Service will meet Wednesday at 1 p. m., in the home of Mrs. William Hookey, Neighborhood Road. Miss Louise Karkago, assistant agent of the county organization will speak.

18 Horses Die In Buffalo Fire

HAMBURG, N.Y. (AP) — A stable fire New Year's Eve killed 18 horses at Buffalo Raceway harness track here. Some were promising colts bought recently at auction sales.

The fire leveled one stable and scorched another, where 15 other horses were led out of the flames. The horses destroyed were valued at more than $100,000 and the burned-out stable at $40,000.

One trotter, Megan Hanover, was bought two weeks before for $15,000 at a Delaware, Md., auction by Edward C. Fallon of Hamburg.

The horses were in winter quarters under the care of trainer Johnny Chapman who lost a three-year-old he owned in the fire.

Chapman lost a trotter Allwood Allborne, a three-year-old that he owned and he described as promising. Other major losses were Gay Joyce, a three-year-old and half-sister of Mighty Tarheel by Solicitor, and Panzer Hanover, which Leo Genecco of Canandaigua had bought for $7,000 at Harrisburg, Pa., in November.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

In 1951, 33 standardbreds were destroyed in a fire that swept five stables here during the racing season.

Severs Finger in Door

LONDON (AP)—The tip of Van Johnson's left middle finger was stitched back on Monday night after the actor severed it in a door while performing in "The Music Man." Johnson hopes to return to his leading role in the musical tonight.

Dead at 83

NEW YORK (AP) — William More Parke, 83, a lawyer and a trustee of Colgate University for 35 years, died at his Brooklyn home Monday.

Parke was graduated from Colgate in 1900.

Parke's survivors include a daughter, Mrs. William A. Carpenter of Whitesboro.

Flames Quelled By City Firemen In VanAlen House

Fire broke out in brooms, mops and other material in the back of a furnace at 47 Murphy Street, shortly after 11 a. m. today and firemen extinguished the flames with pressurized water from Engine 2.

Engines 1 and 2, Wiltwyck Fire Co., Excelsior apparatus and Wicks Salvage truck responded to an alarm at 11:04 a. m. in command of Chief James M. Breit and Deputy Chief Edwin Murphy.

Firemen said the occupant of the dwelling owned by James VanAlen, 51 Murphy Street, was not at home when a neighbor discovered smoke in the house and summoned firemen to the scene.

The fire originated near the furnace and damaged the motor. Considerable smoke spread through the house.

Parked Car Damaged

Alfred Nault, 23, of Fort Myers, Fla., who resides at 346 Albany Avenue and is employed by IBM, complained Monday to city police that his car was parked on Broadway when an unidentified vehicle struck it and continued on without stopping.

Brooks' Condition Is Reported Fair

Bartley J. Brooks of Kerhonkson was taken by H. B. Humiston Ambulance Service to Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, shortly after 1:30 a. m. Monday after his car had struck a tree on Minnewaska Trail near the Log Cabin.

His condition was reported as "fair" at the hospital today. Trooper James Kaljain of the Highland station investigated the accident. Brooks was apparently alone in the car when the accident happened.
